Eisenhower Receives New Bulganin Note

Contents Secret; New Disarmament Proposals Seen

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19—UP— Soviet Premier Nikolai A. Bulganin Friday sent a new letter to President Eisenhower.

While contents of the letter were not disclosed, there was speculation that it dealt with disarmament, possibly including the question of banning H-bomb tests.

Bulganin proposed such a ban in his last previous message to Mr. Eisenhower. Since then, Adlai E. Stevenson has made a campaign issue of the matter by promising to try to negotiate an international pact to ban such tests if he is elected President.

Bulganin's message to the Chief Executive was delivered to Secretary of State John Foster Dulles by Soviet Embassy Counselor Andrei M. Ledovski.

Speaking through an interpreter, Ledovski would say only that he "visited the secretary of state to transmit a message from Premier Bulganin to President Eisenhower."

"Mr. Dulless said the text will be translated and transmitted to the President on Sunday," the Soviet envoy added.

Mr. Eisenhower was in Los Angeles for a campaign speech Friday night. He was expected back in Washington sometime this weekend.

Ledovski said he told Dulles he would not comment publicly on the new message "before President Eisenhower is acquainted with the text."

It was learned that the letter was dated Oct. 17, and apparently was several pages long.

The last message from Bulganin to the President in their long exchange on disarmament was dated Sept. 11. At that time, Bulganin appealed for an end of atomic and hydrogen bomb tests.

He said that "discontinuance of atomic and hydrogen weapon tests does not demand any international agreements on control because the present state of science and engineering makes it possible to reveal any explosion of an atomic or hydrogen bomb wherever it has been carried out."

Bulganin said Russia would consider any agreement to terminate the tests. He said such a move

Byrd-Williams Ticket Considered By Rights' Group

JACKSON, Miss., Oct 19 (AP) — The Jackson Clarion-Ledger said today Rep. John Bell Williams (Miss) would replace former Rep. Thomas Werdel (R-Calif) as vice presidential candidate on the States Rights ticket.

Williams declined comment but said he would make a political statement Monday. He has said he would not "vote the Republican against my conscience."

State Sen. Earl Evans of Canton, chairman of the States Rights steering committee, also declined comment, saying the newspaper story "is the first I heard of it."

Mississippi State Rights electors are unpledged.

The page-one story in the morning newspaper said:

"Decision by the independent, or States Rights electors of South Carolina to vote for Sen. Harry Byrd of Virginia for president, and reports that Rep. John Bell Williams of Mississippi's fourth district would be given the vice presidential nod on the same slate, combined to put a new emphasis upon the States Rights movement in this state.

"No authoritative statement was forthcoming Thursday night from States Rights leadership in Mississippi, but it was evident the Byrd candidacy would be a stronger magnet for state voters than T. Coleman Andrews, the former internal revenue chief of the nation.

"The Williams boom for the vice president slot was a rather spontaneous development, as Williams, of course, is a candidate for re-election to Congress on the Democratic ticket, and is without opposition in the November election.

"He has made no statement about his willingness to stand with Byrd as the choices of unpledged electors on the States Rights slate."

Khrushchev, Other Top Reds Rush To Poland In Effort To Prevent Split

WARSAW, Poland, Saturday, Oct. 20 (AP)—Reports circulated today that troops were posted on Warsaw's outskirts soon after Nikita Khrushchev's unheralded arrival here yesterday from Moscow.

But who the troops supported was a matter only for speculation. Soviet as well as Polish forces are stationed in Poland.

Khrushchev, the Soviet Communist party secretary, and a delegation of military and political leaders flew in amid indications of a crisis in Polish-Soviet relations.

They apparently had come from Moscow to try to apply the brakes to Poland's headlong advance toward independent communism.

Rokossovsky, Polish-born Soviet marshal, was installed in the Stalin era as Poland's defense minister.

The Russians flew here in a TU104 jet liner and went straight into conference with leading members of the Polish Communist Central Committee. The committee had just restored once jailed Titoists to power.

They were reported to include Marshal Georgi Zhukov, defense minister; former Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov; Deputy Premiers

Women Pour Out To See Presley Win Court Fight

MEMPHIS, Tenn., Oct 19 (UP) — Elvis (Rocky) Presley, weighing in at 185, won the second round of his bout with two filling station attendants Friday when a judge let him off with a lecture and fined his opponents.

The decision was greeted with shrieking delight by 207 females by actual count in city court where their idol in the ducktail haircut manfully faced up to charges of assault and battery and disorderly conduct.

Both counts were dismissed against Presley. But Edd Hopper, 42, who allegedly threw the first punch and caught a sizzler from Elvis that left him with a purple eye, was fined $25. Aubrey Brown, 21, a 225-pounder who entered the fray on an over-the-weight basis, drew a $15 penalty.

The Rock and Roll rage's press agent couldn't have dreamed up a better ending for the script and his women followers gave bloodcurding voice to their approval which Judge Samuel Friedman banged for order.

By taxi, auto and even in trucks, the women had descended on city hall for the trial, causing a terrific traffic jam. There were teenagers, young married women and a few even carrying babies.

"Where is our darling Elvis?" several asked as they scrambled for seats. "If he gets fined, I'll pay it," pledged one.

Pleased with such a good house, Presley talked easily with reporters and admirers while the judge disposed of a few drunks before calling the case. He posed for photographers with Mary Anne Lewis, 17. Then when he walked up to the bench he assumed the mien of the more serious Presley,

Death Toll Hits Seven In Illinois Residential Blast

HERRIN, Ill., Oct. 19 (UP) — The death count climbed to seven Friday in a "creeping gas" explosion which turned a residential neighborhood into an open furnace. Doctors feared at least three more persons would die.

Three children and two married couples perished from burns suffered in the sheets of flame which swept their homes and lawns Thursday night.

Two young sisters, Sharon Jarvis, 10, and Susan, 8, were near death at Herrin hospital and doctors feared they would not live through the night. They also reported a "very black picture" for 20-year-old Carl Kerly.

A injured 7-month-old boy was reported out of danger and some hope was held for the two other injured, both women.

Extra shipments of oxygen and blood plasma were rushed to this southern Illinois mining town of 10,000 persons in hopes of saving the survivors. The Red Cross declared the city a disaster area and sent workers to Herrin.

The blasted area looked like a bomb had hit it. There was not a leaf left on the trees and the President Gets Eye Hemorrhage From Confetti

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19 (AP)— President Eisenhower has suffered what his doctor today termed "a slight hemorrhage" of the left eye as a result of a couple of scraps of campaign confetti lodging there.

Maj. Gen. Howard M. Snyder, the White House physician, told newsmen he removed the confetti from the President's eye in Portland, Ore., last night.

Referring to the eye, which was bloodshot today, Snyder said:

"It is getting better, but he will still have a red eye when he gets into Washington tomorrow."

The confetti got into Eisenhower's eye yesterday afternoon while he was motorcading through Portland.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, first reported the episode just as Eisenhower was about to leave the airport here this morning after arriving from Portland for a campaign address tonight in Hollywood Bowl.

Hagerty called newsmen's attention to the President's bloodshot eye. They had not noticed it, either here or when he left Portland.

If the eye was causing Eisenhower any distress, he gave no outward sign of it.

He was smiling broadly as he stepped from his plane, and was in a jovial mood as he spoke informally at the airport to several thousand workers from the Lockheed aircraft plant.

Britain, Reds Back Jordan In UN Dispute

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 19 (AP) — Britain, the Soviet Union and Iran gave full sympathy to Jordan today after Jordan demanded that the U. N. halt "unprovoked Israeli aggression" along their tense border.

The Big Powers and Iran told the U.N. Security Council it must act to stop the continued deterioration in relations between Jordan and Israel. They did not say, however, how far they would go in support of a Jordanian demand for the Council to order penalties such as economic restrictions and severance of diplomatic relations.

Ambassador Abdul Monem Rifa'i of Jordan told the Council Jordan will take matters into its own hands if the U.N. cannot succeed. He spoke nearly an hour to support his charge that Israel has conducted "acts of aggression" against Jordan. More than 100 persons have been killed in recent fighting along the Israeli-Jordan border.

Meanwhile, dispatches from the Jordanian sector of Jerusalem quoted Maj. Gen. E.L.M. Burns, U.N. truck supervisor, as saying there may be a major flareup in Palestine. Burns said in an inter-

Democrats Of 14 Parishes To Meet Here October 31

Several hundred Democrats from throughout the 14 parishes of the Fifth Congressional District are expected to participate in an area-wide Democratic party dinner and rally which has been scheduled in Monroe on the evening of Wednesday, Oct. 31, Congressman Otto E. Passman has announced.

Speakers for the occasion will be Congressman Passman, Louisiana's United States Senators Allen J. Ellender and Russell B. Long, and possibly several others, including former U. S. Senator W. C. Feazel, and Camille Gravel, Louisiana's Democratic national committeeman.

Congressman Passman said the program, which will begin at 6:30 o'clock p.m. on the roof of Monroe's Hotel Frances, is being arranged in order to "consolidate the Democratic campaign for victory" within the district. He added that the event will be "completely non-factional, with Fifth District Democrats of all political factions and those of no particular political faction participating alike."

A $10-a-plate dinner reservation contribution from each participant will go into a fund, he said, to defray expenses of the dinner itself, to pay costs for a television program at 9 o'clock p.m. following the dinner-program, and to provide for other items in the Democratic public information program within the District.

The Congressman, who is serving as chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements, said the

Hunting Season Closed In Ouachita Parish By Action Of Police Jurors

Ouachita parish's hunting season has been closed "until further notice." In special session yesterday, the parish police jury passed an ordinance prohibiting hunting because of the tinder-dry woodlands.

Only opposition to the ordinance came from police juryman A. R. Sims, who contended that since the season in this parish had already been allowed to open and hunters were already out in the area, the ordinance was being passed at an inopportune time.

It is believed that when this section of the state receives a "good rainfall," the season will be reopened.

Other parishes which have closed are Madison, Richland, Tensas, Catahoula, Concordia and LaSalle parishes.

The Madison parish police jury passed a closed hunting ordinance on Friday of last week. A maximum penalty of 30 days in jail or a $100 fine or both will be placed upon violators, according to Sheriff C. E. Hester.

Richland and Tensas parishes announced almost identical ordinances Wednesday. The Richland parish police jury also established the 30-day imprisonment or $100 fine penalty.

A Catahoula parish spokesman said a serious law-enforcement problem exists there because

Two Monroyans Are Elected To Realtors Board

By SAM HANNA
Of The Morning World Staff

LAFAYETE, Oct. 19 —Two Monroe realtors were among four north Louisiana men elected to the board of directors of the Louisiana Realtors Association today at the 38th annual convention of state realtors now in session here.

They were Gilbert Faulk and E. A. Porter, Jr., who were selected with Shreveport re-electees Walter Punter and A. R. Teague.

A delegation of about 15 northeast Louisiana realtors accepted an invitation from the state association to bring the 1957 convention to Monroe.

Monroe's Faulk and E. R. Breard, whose term on the board expired, also served on important committees at the two-day convention.

Faulk participated on the nominating committee and Breard served on the resolutions committee, which reports Saturday.

Elected to the top positions of the state association were Omer Kuebel, New Orleans, president; Frank Zuzak, vice - president; J. Beverly Brignac, Lafayette, secretary, and Claude Pumila, New Orleans, treasurer.

The convention began yesterday at 1 p.m. and was highlighted this afternoon by the election of officers. It ends Saturday afternoon.

Herget Rules Out Statewide Rate Reduction

M'Keithen Says Immediate Appeal Of Decision Set

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 19 (AP) — District Judge G. Caldwell Herget today rejected a four million dollar Southern Bell Telephone Co. rate cut ordered by the Louisiana Public Service Commission.

"An appeal to the Supreme Court will be made by the commission immediately," John J. McKeithen, third district Louisiana Public Service Commissioner said last night at his Columbia home after learning of the ruling.

As such action was expected in the district court "much of the necessary preparation has already been made to take it to a higher court," he added.

McKeithen said he had predicted from the beginning that the commissions rate reduction order would be finally passed on by the State Supreme Court and possibly on to the United States Supreme Court.

"We have been prepared from the very beginning to take this rate reduction case to the highest courts if necessary," McKeithen said.

He added that "the district court decision has in no way shaken my confidence in the fairness, justice and legality of our position and I am confident that we will be successful in the final otucome."

At the same time of the rate cut rejection, Judge Herget refused to order a four million dollar rate increase asked by the telephone company.

Last June 30, the commission ordered pay station calls cut from 10 cents to 5 cents and a 20 per cent reduction in intrastate long distance charges.

The commission contended the parent American Telephone and Telegraph Co. took profits away from Southern Bell and forced up rates and also that Southern Bell contributions to its retirement system were unnecessarily high.

Herget cited the 1952 Gulf States

American Pilots Expected To Quit Suez Canal Posts

CAIRO, Oct. 19 (UP)—A number of American pilots who accepted jobs guiding ships through Suez Canal for Egypt are dissatisfied with their pay and are planning to quit, one of them said Friday.

Capt. Elmo C. Holland, 43, of Newport Beach, Calif., said some of the American pilots who accepted offers from the Egyptian government after its seizure of the canal may walk out within the next few days.

"As far as I'm concerned, there was misrepresentation by the Egyptian authorities over finances," Holland said. "And a number of other Americans have had the same experience."

Holland said he was promised that there would be no tax on his first 18 months' earnings. But he said that when he received his first paycheck, Egypt had deducted taxes.

"This means I shall be paying taxes both here and in the United States," he said.

There were no winners in this week's Morning World vross word puzzle competition, and the jackpot held its $75 fund intact.

The jackpot for next week on the puzzle to be published in the Monday and Tuesday editions of the world, will hold $100.

CLUES ACROSS:

3. A SON into MANY a person's life, yes; but the SUN has surely brought pleasure into EVERY person's life.

5. Since LATENT means "hidden," such possibilities can hardly THEMSELVES be interesting. LATEST is a surer answer

7. The clue implies that a man CAN TAKE this if he wants to. RUM, then, is preferred over RUN since it may easily depend on his state of health whether a man is even CAPABLE of RUNNING.

9. The word "breeder" in the clue favors DAM as the answer. A RAM would not be prized by him unless he were breeding sheep.

If the eye was causing Eisenhower any distress, he gave no outward sign of it.

He was smiling broadly as he stepped from his plane, and was in a jovial mood as he spoke informally at the airport to several thousand workers from the Lockheed aircraft plant.

Britain, Reds Back Jordan In UN Dispute

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Oct. 19 (AP) — Britain, the Soviet Union and Iran gave full sympathy to Jordan today after Jordan demanded that the U. N. halt "unprovoked Israeli aggression" along their tense border.

The Big Powers and Iran told the U.N. Security Council it must act to stop the continued deterioration in relations between Jordan and Israel. They did not say, however, how far they would go in support of a Jordanian demand for the Council to order penalties such as economic restrictions and severance of diplomatic relations.

Ambassador Abdul Monem Rifa'i of Jordan told the Council Jordan will take matters into its own hands if the U.N. cannot succeed. He spoke nearly an hour to support his charge that Israel has conducted "acts of aggression" against Jordan. More than 100 persons have been killed in recent fighting along the Israeli-Jordan border.

Meanwhile, dispatches from the Jordanian sector of Jerusalem quoted Maj. Gen. E.L.M. Burns, U.N. truck supervisor, as saying there may be a major flareup in Palestine. Burns said in an inter-

Several hundred Democrats from throughout the 14 parishes of the Fifth Congressional District are expected to participate in an area-wide Democratic party dinner and rally which has been scheduled in Monroe on the evening of Wednesday, Oct. 31, Congressman Otto E. Passman has announced.

Speakers for the occasion will be Congressman Passman, Louisiana's United States Senators Allen J. Ellender and Russell B. Long, and possibly several others, including former U. S. Senator W. C. Feazel, and Camille Gravel, Louisiana's Democratic national committeeman.

Congressman Passman said the program, which will begin at 6:30 o'clock p.m. on the roof of Monroe's Hotel Frances, is being arranged in order to "consolidate the Democratic campaign for victory" within the district. He added that the event will be "completely non-factional, with Fifth District Democrats of all political factions and those of no particular political faction participating alike."

A $10-a-plate dinner reservation contribution from each participant will go into a fund, he said, to defray expenses of the dinner itself, to pay costs for a television program at 9 o'clock p.m. following the dinner-program, and to provide for other items in the Democratic public information program within the District.

The Congressman, who is serving as chairman of the committee in charge of arrangements, said the

Hunting Season Closed In Ouachita Parish By Action Of Police Jurors

Ouachita parish's hunting season has been closed "until further notice." In special session yesterday, the parish police jury passed an ordinance prohibiting hunting because of the tinder-dry woodlands.

Only opposition to the ordinance came from police juryman A. R. Sims, who contended that since the season in this parish had already been allowed to open and hunters were already out in the area, the ordinance was being passed at an inopportune time.

It is believed that when this section of the state receives a "good rainfall," the season will be reopened.

Other parishes which have closed are Madison, Richland, Tensas, Catahoula, Concordia and LaSalle parishes.

The Madison parish police jury passed a closed hunting ordinance on Friday of last week. A maximum penalty of 30 days in jail or a $100 fine or both will be placed upon violators, according to Sheriff C. E. Hester.

Richland and Tensas parishes announced almost identical ordinances Wednesday. The Richland parish police jury also established the 30-day imprisonment or $100 fine penalty.

A Catahoula parish spokesman said a serious law-enforcement problem exists there because

Monroney Charges GOP 'Covering Up' Facts On H-Bomb

CUSHING, Okla., Oct. 19 (UP) —Sen. Mike Monroney told 150 persons here Friday that continued testing of hydrogen bombs threatens sterility for the human race if not death for future generations.

"Each release of an H-bomb produces billions of particles of radio-active dust that scientists have found remain in the atmosphere and sub-stratosphere for at least 100 years," Monroney said.

"Scientists of unquestionable standing have warned that the vast increase of radio-active particles in the atmosphere and sub-stratosphere threaten the human race with sterility and other infirmities and that science has not discovered the cause of," he said.

At State Meeting

Two Monroyans Are Elected To Realtors Board

By SAM HANNA
Of The Morning World Staff

LAFAYETE, Oct. 19 —Two Monroe realtors were among four north Louisiana men elected to the board of directors of the Louisiana Realtors Association today at the 38th annual convention of state realtors now in session here.

They were Gilbert Faulk and E. A. Porter, Jr., who were selected with Shreveport re-electees Walter Punter and A. R. Teague.

A delegation of about 15 northeast Louisiana realtors accepted an invitation from the state association to bring the 1957 convention to Monroe.

Monroe's Faulk and E. R. Breard, whose term on the board expired, also served on important committees at the two-day convention.

Faulk participated on the nominating committee and Breard served on the resolutions committee, which reports Saturday.

Elected to the top positions of the state association were Omer Kuebel, New Orleans, president; Frank Zuzak, vice - president; J. Beverly Brignac, Lafayette, secretary, and Claude Pumila, New Orleans, treasurer.

The convention began yesterday at 1 p.m. and was highlighted this afternoon by the election of officers. It ends Saturday afternoon.

A number of speeches —including one by the guest of honor—President Clarence M. Turley, St. Louis, Mo., of the National Association of

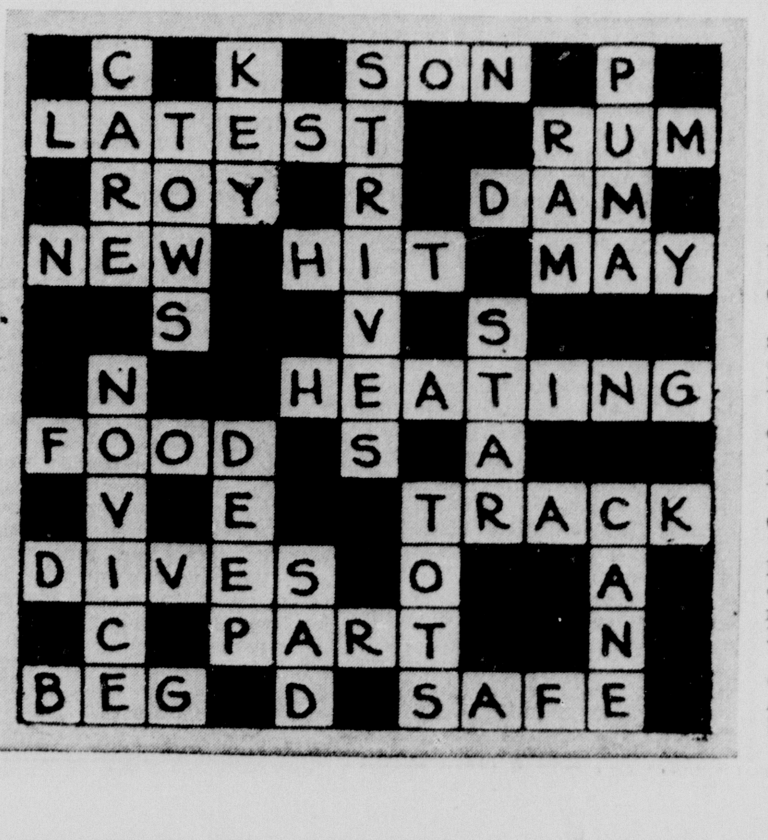
All Entries Fall Short Of Solution In This Week's Crossword Contest



By BONANZA BILL

There were no winners in this week's Morning World vross word puzzle competition, and the jackpot held its $75 fund intact.

The jackpot for next week on the puzzle to be published in the Monday and Tuesday editions of the world, will hold $100.

CLUES ACROSS:

3. A SON into MANY a person's life, yes; but the SUN has surely brought pleasure into EVERY person's life.

5. Since LATENT means "hidden," such possibilities can hardly THEMSELVES be interesting. LATEST is a surer answer

7. The clue implies that a man CAN TAKE this if he wants to. RUM, then, is preferred over RUN since it may easily depend on his state of health whether a man is even CAPABLE of RUNNING.

9. The word "breeder" in the clue favors DAM as the answer. A RAM would not be prized by him unless he were breeding sheep.

Herget Rules Out Statewide Rate Reduction

M'Keithen Says Immediate Appeal Of Decision Set

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 19 (AP) — District Judge G. Caldwell Herget today rejected a four million dollar Southern Bell Telephone Co. rate cut ordered by the Louisiana Public Service Commission.

"An appeal to the Supreme Court will be made by the commission immediately," John J. McKeithen, third district Louisiana Public Service Commissioner said last night at his Columbia home after learning of the ruling.

As such action was expected in the district court "much of the necessary preparation has already been made to take it to a higher court," he added.

McKeithen said he had predicted from the beginning that the commissions rate reduction order would be finally passed on by the State Supreme Court and possibly on to the United States Supreme Court.

"We have been prepared from the very beginning to take this rate reduction case to the highest courts if necessary," McKeithen said.

He added that "the district court decision has in no way shaken my confidence in the fairness, justice and legality of our position and I am confident that we will be successful in the final otucome."

At the same time of the rate cut rejection, Judge Herget refused to order a four million dollar rate increase asked by the telephone company.

Last June 30, the commission ordered pay station calls cut from 10 cents to 5 cents and a 20 per cent reduction in intrastate long distance charges.

The commission contended the parent American Telephone and Telegraph Co. took profits away from Southern Bell and forced up rates and also that Southern Bell contributions to its retirement system were unnecessarily high.

Herget cited the 1952 Gulf States

American Pilots Expected To Quit Suez Canal Posts

CAIRO, Oct. 19 (UP)—A number of American pilots who accepted jobs guiding ships through Suez Canal for Egypt are dissatisfied with their pay and are planning to quit, one of them said Friday.

Capt. Elmo C. Holland, 43, of Newport Beach, Calif., said some of the American pilots who accepted offers from the Egyptian government after its seizure of the canal may walk out within the next few days.

"As far as I'm concerned, there was misrepresentation by the Egyptian authorities over finances," Holland said. "And a number of other Americans have had the same experience."

Holland said he was promised that there would be no tax on his first 18 months' earnings. But he said that when he received his first paycheck, Egypt had deducted taxes.

"This means I shall be paying taxes both here and in the United States," he said.

Truman Says GOP Losing Ground In Presidential Race

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP) — Former President Harry S. Truman said today the election campaign is "going very well for the Democrats" and "very bad for the Republicans."

Truman, arriving by plane for a skeaking engagement here tomorrow night, predicted the Democrats will win Nov. 6 if the party leaders "just keep telling the people the truth as they have been."

"The Democrats have the lead and I think they are going to keep it," Truman told reporters at the airport. One newsman remarked that some observers feel the campaign is going well for the Democrats in congressional races but not so well for the presidential nominee Adlai Stevenson.

This, Truman said, "sound like a political pollster."

Truman again denied disagreeing with Stevenson's proposals that the United States take the lead in halting H-bomb tests, saying:

"You're not going to get me in any controversy I'm supporting the Democratic ticket."

Truman contended Stevenson had not been "fully quoted" on the H-bomb question, adding: "If he had been fully quoted what he said would have been all right."

The former president said he felt the United States could stop testing nuclear weapons "if the Russians agree to stop it."

DEATH PASSED THEM BY — Shown in the above picture are passengers and personnel of the Pan American World Airways Stratocruiser already occupying life rafts only minutes after the plane made a forced landing in the Pacific. 31 Passengers, Crew Of Ditched Plane Receive Tumultous Homecoming

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 19 (UP) — The 31 passengers and crew members of a Pan American Stratocruiser, survivors of a dramatic ditching and rescue at sea, reached the mainland Friday laughing and cheering—in striking contrast to their calm, unemotional behavior during the five-hour ordeal Tuesday at dawn.

The 19 men, nine women and three children came through the Gate Friday morning aboard the Coast Guard cutter Pontchartrain, the weather ship that picked them up within minutes after the hit double - decked airliner smacked the water and broke in two.

The rescued told their stories of spending five pre-dawn hours circling above the weather ship with two engines disabled waiting for the ditching. And the same note stood out in all the accounts—the almost unbelievable calm of the 24 passengers and seven crew members.

At least two persons slept through part of the wait. Others snapped photographs. Still others engaged in small talk with the stewardesses and with each other. The seriousness of the situation, however, was underlined by the fact that nobody was making jokes.

"We were all like one big happy family," said purser Patricia Reynolds, 30, San Mateo, Calif.

Some of the passengers admitted Friday that they had inner fears to go with their outward calm. Mrs. Jane Gordon, Silver Springs, Md., said "I just prepared myself for death. I said a little prayer."

The tension was just as great aboard the Pontchartrain steaming below the circling ship with its crew at alert and rescue stations.

William Jesky, 26, Los Angeles, said he was standing on the vessel's fantail taking motion pictures during the crash landing. He said the tail broke off the big plane as it hit the water.

"We could see chairs fly out the hole. Everyone got sick aboard ship and I almost dropped my camera overboard," Jesky said.

When the crew learned that everyone was safe there was cheering and shouting, Jesky said, and some of the ship's crew even shed tears.

"We knew it had to come down and we were waiting," he said.

"We were very much comforted by the crew and stewardesses before we ditched," said Dr. Marcel Touze of Paris, a French army medical officer. "Everyone of us believed we would have a safe landing. No one cried. There was no panic. I even saw a lady and a Chinese man sleeping."

Capt. Richard Ogg, 42, Saratoga, Calif., pilot of the plane, said he never had any doubts about the success of the ditching, but admitted saying a few words of prayer.

He said the plane landed with a slight jar, then a much harder crash that broke off the tail section.

"Two adults fell into the water as we got out, but they were pulled into the rafts," he said.

Cmdr. William K. Earle, skipper of the Pontchartrain, called the rescue operation "smooth and easy." He said it demonstrated the value of drills between airlines and Coast Guard cutters.

He said his ship laid down a two mile wake of foam to make a path for the stricken airliner to land in and to cut down the possibility of fire.

Hendrick Braat of Rotterdam, The Netherlands, described the shock of the landing.

"We got a one-minute warning before ditching. When we hit the water my straps broke and I was thrown into the sea. I think I hurt a muscle in my arm. The stewardess opened the big exit door and I jumped into the raft."

Hiroshi Shiga, Tokyo, admitted being "frightened but calm."

"The waiting was the hardest. When they finally told us that it was an hour and a half to dawn and we would then attempt a landing, we were at first relieved. But that hour and a half seemed like ages before we started down," he recalled.

A Coast guardsman singled out for praise was Motor Machinist Ron Christian, San Fernando, who leaped into the sinking plane to make sure everyone was out.

"I jumped into the gaping opening where the tail had broken off). The whole back was ripped out. I jumped over a lot of debris and looked around the top of the cabin. There were brken dolls in the aisles. There was a lot of luggage.

"I checked the whole upper deck. No one was there. I came back to the tail and jumped into our own boat."

Better than one in four beginning school teachers today are men says the National Education Association.

Negro Remanded For Sentencing In Trespass Case

The Negro, Lane Lee, after being found guilty by presiding Judge David I. Garrett, was remanded for sentencing.

Lee in the criminal trespassing count was charged to have been hiding in a white woman's car here about midnight, March 10.

The woman during testimony yesterday identified Lee as the Negro who fled from the back seat of her car which was parked on a downtown Monroe street.

J. L. (Spec) Peterson, owner of a Monroe taxi service, happened along at the scene and gave chase to a person seen fleeing from the car.

Lee was acousted by Peterson in about the 900 block of DeSiard street and was marched at pistol point to a service station near by.

Peterson said the Negro shoved him and ran. As he ran, Peterson said he fired two shots, one of the bullets striking the Negro in the left leg.

In other action, George Kampurius, Monroe cafe owner, pleaded not guilty to attempted murder charges in connection with a shotgun shooting last month at his home on Cole Avenue. His trial date was not set.

Ruemker is charged with the death of a Monroe woman, Mrs. C. W. Flacy. She was fatally injured in a near head-on collision in the 2400 block of Louisville avenue early this year.

Judge Garrett issued a waring to the owners of vehicles with bad lights, brakes and other mechinal defects. Judge Garrett said the owners of vehicles with bad lights, brakes and other mechanical defects. Judge Garrett said the owners of these vehicles should be prosecuted the same as drivers, when the drivers are hired to handle the particular trucks. The judge's warning was an outgrowth of several pleas of guilty which brought out the mechanical defects. Judge Garrett asked the district attorney's office to check into the possibility of such fines.

Four persons were fined $300 and costs of court after they entered pleas of guilty to operating motor vehicles while under the influence of intoxicating liquors. The four were Clifford R. Stansbury, Lonnie S. Spurlock, George Shallowhorn, and Eddie Raiford. Two persons, Clyde R. Knight, and Deles C. Kennedy, pleaded not guilty to the charge.

Willie Gene Davis and Huey E. Cotney were each charged $200 and costs of court for reckless operation of a vehicle.

Seven persons pleaded guilty to disturbing the peace and were fined $25 and costs of court. They were: Purvis Bradford, Sarah C. Island, Gertrude Key, Ruffo McMurry, J. C. Sanders, Edwin J. Smith, Ted Sturdivant, John W. Taylor, and Ollie B. Williams.

Pleading not guilty to three counts of theft of property valued at $17.75 were James Edward Viola, Roy Benjamin Fatheree and Jesse Mine Waller. Their trial was set for Nov. 16.

Others pleading not guilty and trials set included:

Da Pine, theft of groceries valued at $28.41, Nov. 7; John D. Simmons and Willie Earl Jones, attempted murder, Nov. 6; Vincent Balsamo, James B. Gibson and Betty Joe Cranford, two counts of simple burglary, no date set; Willie Ervin, attempted murder, Nov. 6; Jack T. Taylor, simple burglary, Nov. 5; and Link Lengyon, simple burglary, no date set.

Ira Jackson, charged with removing mortgaged property out of the state, pleaded guilty and was remanded in the parish jail for sentence.

"We knew it had to come down and we were waiting," he said.

"We were very much comforted by the crew and stewardesses before we ditched," said Dr. Marcel Touze of Paris, a French army medical officer. "Everyone of us believed we would have a safe landing. No one cried. There was no panic. I even saw a lady and a Chinese man sleeping."

Capt. Richard Ogg, 42, Saratoga, Calif., pilot of the plane, said he never had any doubts about the success of the ditching, but admitted saying a few words of prayer.

He said the plane landed with a slight jar, then a much harder crash that broke off the tail section.

"Two adults fell into the water as we got out, but they were pulled into the rafts," he said.

Cmdr. William K. Earle, skipper of the Pontchartrain, called the rescue operation "smooth and easy." He said it demonstrated the value of drills between airlines and Coast Guard cutters.

He said his ship laid down a two mile wake of foam to make a path for the stricken airliner to land in and to cut down the possibility of fire.

Hendrick Braat of Rotterdam, The Netherlands, described the shock of the landing.

"We got a one-minute warning before ditching. When we hit the water my straps broke and I was thrown into the sea. I think I hurt a muscle in my arm. The stewardess opened the big exit door and I jumped into the raft."

"The waiting was the hardest. When they finally told us that it was an hour and a half to dawn and we would then attempt a landing, we were at first relieved. But that hour and a half seemed like ages before we started down," he recalled.

A Coast guardsman singled out for praise was Motor Machinist Ron Christian, San Fernando, who leaped into the sinking plane to make sure everyone was out.

"I jumped into the gaping opening where the tail had broken off). The whole back was ripped out. I jumped over a lot of debris and looked around the top of the cabin. There were brken dolls in the aisles. There was a lot of luggage.

"I checked the whole upper deck. No one was there. I came back to the tail and jumped into our own boat."

Negro Remanded For Sentencing In Trespass Case

The Negro, Lane Lee, after being found guilty by presiding Judge David I. Garrett, was remanded for sentencing.

Lee in the criminal trespassing count was charged to have been hiding in a white woman's car here about midnight, March 10.

The woman during testimony yesterday identified Lee as the Negro who fled from the back seat of her car which was parked on a downtown Monroe street.

J. L. (Spec) Peterson, owner of a Monroe taxi service, happened along at the scene and gave chase to a person seen fleeing from the car.

Lee was acousted by Peterson in about the 900 block of DeSiard street and was marched at pistol point to a service station near by.

Peterson said the Negro shoved him and ran. As he ran, Peterson said he fired two shots, one of the bullets striking the Negro in the left leg.

In other action, George Kampurius, Monroe cafe owner, pleaded not guilty to attempted murder charges in connection with a shotgun shooting last month at his home on Cole Avenue. His trial date was not set.

Ruemker is charged with the death of a Monroe woman, Mrs. C. W. Flacy. She was fatally injured in a near head-on collision in the 2400 block of Louisville avenue early this year.

Judge Garrett issued a waring to the owners of vehicles with bad lights, brakes and other mechinal defects. Judge Garrett said the owners of vehicles with bad lights, brakes and other mechanical defects. Judge Garrett said the owners of these vehicles should be prosecuted the same as drivers, when the drivers are hired to handle the particular trucks. The judge's warning was an outgrowth of several pleas of guilty which brought out the mechanical defects. Judge Garrett asked the district attorney's office to check into the possibility of such fines.

Four persons were fined $300 and costs of court after they entered pleas of guilty to operating motor vehicles while under the influence of intoxicating liquors. The four were Clifford R. Stansbury, Lonnie S. Spurlock, George Shallowhorn, and Eddie Raiford. Two persons, Clyde R. Knight, and Deles C. Kennedy, pleaded not guilty to the charge.

Willie Gene Davis and Huey E. Cotney were each charged $200 and costs of court for reckless operation of a vehicle.

Seven persons pleaded guilty to disturbing the peace and were fined $25 and costs of court. They were: Purvis Bradford, Sarah C. Island, Gertrude Key, Ruffo McMurry, J. C. Sanders, Edwin J. Smith, Ted Sturdivant, John W. Taylor, and Ollie B. Williams.

Pleading not guilty to three counts of theft of property valued at $17.75 were James Edward Viola, Roy Benjamin Fatheree and Jesse Mine Waller. Their trial was set for Nov. 16.

Others pleading not guilty and trials set included:

Da Pine, theft of groceries valued at $28.41, Nov. 7; John D. Simmons and Willie Earl Jones, attempted murder, Nov. 6; Vincent Balsamo, James B. Gibson and Betty Joe Cranford, two counts of simple burglary, no date set; Willie Ervin, attempted murder, Nov. 6; Jack T. Taylor, simple burglary, Nov. 5; and Link Lengyon, simple burglary, no date set.

Ira Jackson, charged with removing mortgaged property out of the state, pleaded guilty and was remanded in the parish jail for sentence.

Bride Of One Day Loses Leg In Surgery; Doctors Believe Cancer Removed

OKLAHOMA CITY, Oct. 19 (UP)—Mrs. Laroy Jay, a cheerful bride of only 36 hours, underwent an operation for amputation of her cancerous right leg Friday and doctors said afterwards she was doing okay.

They won't know for weeks, or possibly months, however, whether the 17-year-old soldier's wife has won her battle with the malignancy.

Mrs. Jay had been married only a few hours when she was informed Thursday by her new husband that the amputation would be necessary. Laroy, her childhood sweatheart and medical specialist 3rd class stationed at Fort Jackson, S. C., had obtained emergency furlough when informed of her condition.

His first step upon arriving here Wednesday was to talk Mrs. Jay, the former Cherrie Lee into exchanging marriage vows that same evening.

"They wanted me to tell her about the operation," Jay said. "I wanted to tell my wife, not my sweetheart."

Jay, a 21-year-old veteran of Korea, stayed near the operating room door Friday while surgeons worked for more than two hours to remove the leg. Afterwards, he said his wife's pulse and blood pressure were normal.

"She's doing all right, for now," he said. "She will be slow coming out of sedation, of course."

"She was cheerful about this from the moment I told her yesterday. I just know she's going to be okay."

Dr. C. R. Rountree, who operated, had joined Jay in explaining the need for the surgery to the brunette bride.

Rountree had said before the operation that if tests showed the cancer had spread beyond the leg, the surgery would not be attempted. However, he warned no positive proof of her survival could be obtained for possibly weeks or months.

The bride's parents and grandparents were on hand when she was wheeled into the operating theater on the second floor of St. Anthony Hospital at 10.00 a.m.

Also present was Erving Thompson, brother of Mrs. Jay and long-time friend of her husband.

Thompson explained that Jay had first met Cherrie when she was still in grade school. They hadn't planned to marry until he ends a three-year hitch in January.

"I think he's going through with a lot more than the rest of us," Thompson said.

Coon Getting No Joy In 'Average' On State Blazes

BATON ROUGE (AP)—State Fire Marshal John E. Coon said today he took "no joy from the fact that we are doing an average job in Louisiana" of fire fighting and prevention.

Coon, speaking to the governor's statewide fire prevention conference, said Louisiana rated about average nationally but still there was a "slow but steady increase in the number of fires occurring in our state since we first began keeping records."

A reason for the rise, he said. was "because, in our defense against fire, we are still largely operating on only one cylinder — the able but ancient cylinder of fire extinguishment . . when there is another equally good cylinder at our disposal . . . fire prevention."

Coon said one of the most successful means of fire prevention was home fire inspection by firemen.

Chief William Fitzgerald of Seattle, Wash., president of the International Assn. of Fire Chiefs, explained the program consisted simply of sending "a fireman to personally visit every home and dwelling occupancy on the continent with a fire prevention message.

"The basic step to accomplish such a plan is to start using the manpower pool of fire fighters standing by in fire stations," he said.

This represented a change, Fitzgerald said, from the old philosophy of firemen who considered "fires as accidents, as isolated occurrences, more or less like acts of God which happened by fate, without rhyme or reason. . . ."

Now, he concluded, "we know that fires are the result of causes and that as long as the causes exist, there will be fires."

Lt. Gov. Lether Frazar, who greeted the 150 plus fire fighting officials and fire prevention leaders for Gov Earl Long, cited the record 750,000 fires in the nation last year and nearly 12,000 deaths.

"More alarming, however," he added, "is the fact that we are apparently on the way to another new record this year . . . the trend is unmistakably upward."

Pointing out that 64 per cent of all fires last year were home and farm fires, Frazar said, "without intending any pun, fire literally hits us where we live . . . and more often than not hits those who can least afford the loss that it causes."

Also addressing the morning session were Mrs. Jesse L. Webb Jr., Baton Rouge mayor-president; State Public Safety Director Forrest Pendleton and Charles Price, special agent, arson department, National Board of Fire Underwriters, New Orleans.

Adlai Charges Republican Party Hopelessly Split

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Oct. 19 (AP)—Adlai Stevenson pictured the Republican party today as "hopelessly divided" and told the voters of Kentucky, that a vote for President Eisenhower is a vote for Vice President Nixon.

The Democratic presidential nominee spoke at Lexington and later at Louisville in a drive to capture the "undecided vote" in this state and elsewhere. He plugged in particular the two Democratic candidates for the Senate race in Kentucky next month.

In both speeches Stevenson described Nixon and other key members of the Eisenhower administration, as well as GOP congressional leaders, as men who favor a "return to yesterday."

At Louisville, in a prepared speech, he described Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Benson as "the number one enemy of the farmer," and went on to say:

"We have a choice between a united party and a party that is so hopelessly divided that it cannot conduct a firm, consistent foreign policy. We have a choice between a united party and a party in which the President says he is going one way and his leaders in Congress insist on going another way."

3 Men Students Perish In Blaze; Arson Suspected

MOSCOW, Ida., Oct. 19 (UP)—Three men students were suffocated here early Friday when a fire believed started by an arsonist trapped them on the fourth floor of a new $500,000 University of Idaho dormitory.

It was the fourth dormitory fire at the university in a week. Arson was also suspected in the other blazes.

Moscow Fire Chief Carl Smith said "the flash nature of the fire indicates arson. They way the fire shot up with such terrific heat indicates it must have had a petroleum base. Some form of petroleum, perhaps gasoline, apparently had been spread in the lounge before the fire started."

Victims of the blaze were identified as John R. Knudsen, 18, Idaho Falls, Ida., a freshman in preveterinary medicine; William Clair Shuldberg, 18, of Terrenton, Ida., a freshman in business, and Paul F. Johnson, 18, of Davenport, Wash., a sophomore maporing in history.

They were trapped on the top floor of Galt Hall when the fire, which began in a second floor lounge, swept up the stairways to floors above.

Most of the dormitory residents fled outdoors into the near freezing weather. Harold Hunker, proctor in the dorm, was wakened by the sound of breaking glass shortly after 2 a. m. He spread the alarm.

Crime Ring Broken

E. Baton Rouge Deputies Round Up 50 Juveniles

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 19 (AP) — Sheriff's deputies, state and city police said today questioning of 50 boys and girls had solved cases ranging from burglaries to joyriding on bulldozers.

Most of the cases involved youths from 12 to 16, who will be turned over to the East Baton Rouge Parish family court for disposition.

State Police Chief John Nick Brown, Sheriff Bryan Clemmons and Police Chief Shirley Arrighi said more than a dozen burglaries had been solved, along with cases of auto theft, vandalism and theft.

The case began last Sunday when officers picked up a pair of teenage boys who stole a car and fled after wrecking it.

Capt. Ray Thomas of the sheriff's juvenile division explained the first two talked about other criminal exploits and implicated others.

"When we'd pick up one boy or girl, they'd start implicating a couple more," said Thomas. "It was just like a chain reaction."

He said at least 15 more juveniles remain to be questioned before the case is marked closed.

One major act of vandalism came when 10 youths raided a subdivision under construction, with thousands of dollars damages.

Deputies said they used tractors, bulldozers, graders and other heavy equipment to rip up streets, curbing, knock down fences and trees and bowl over a small tool shed.

The youths said when they finished the early morning raid they shot up the expensive tires on several pieces of equipment, deputies said, and damaged the controls.

Crime Ring Broken

E. Baton Rouge Deputies Round Up 50 Juveniles

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 19 (AP) — Sheriff's deputies, state and city police said today questioning of 50 boys and girls had solved cases ranging from burglaries to joyriding on bulldozers.

Most of the cases involved youths from 12 to 16, who will be turned over to the East Baton Rouge Parish family court for disposition.

State Police Chief John Nick Brown, Sheriff Bryan Clemmons and Police Chief Shirley Arrighi said more than a dozen burglaries had been solved, along with cases of auto theft, vandalism and theft.

The case began last Sunday when officers picked up a pair of teenage boys who stole a car and fled after wrecking it.

Capt. Ray Thomas of the sheriff's juvenile division explained the first two talked about other criminal exploits and implicated others.

"When we'd pick up one boy or girl, they'd start implicating a couple more," said Thomas. "It was just like a chain reaction."

He said at least 15 more juveniles remain to be questioned before the case is marked closed.

One major act of vandalism came when 10 youths raided a subdivision under construction, with thousands of dollars damages.

Deputies said they used tractors, bulldozers, graders and other heavy equipment to rip up streets, curbing, knock ,down fences and trees and bowl over a small tool shed.

The youths said when they finished the early morning raid they shot up the expensive tires on several pieces of equipment, deputies said, and damaged the controls.

Greater Ouachita Port Commission

Included among the 48 constitutional amendments to be voted on in Louisiana next month is one proposition that is of particular vital importance to the Ouachita parish area. That is the one which creates the Greater Ouachita Port Commission.

The Ouachita Port Commission is provided in Amendment No. 23. It will be placed in the No. 23 spot on the ballot on Nov. 6. Its passage is vitally important, not only to Ouachita parish, but to the entire Northeast Louisiana area and South Arkansas in the area adjacent to the Ouachita River.

Approval of Amendment No. 23 will pave the way for Monroe and West Monroe to come alive and reap the rich benefits of water commerce that could be realized by utilizing the Ouachita River. It would establish the machinery by which facilities to enhance river traffic could be further developed and expanded.

Such a commission would be even more important should federal approval be secured for deepening the Ouachita River channel to a proposed nine-foot depth. Enthusiastic leaders of Ouachita River Valley Association have made great strides in attracting Washington authority with the importance of a standard, nine-foot channel on the Ouachita.

A group returned this week from Washington where they conferred with top authorities concerned with federal participation in such river development. Among those making the trip to Washington were H. K. Thatcher, representing the Ouachita River Valley Association, and Walter Koch, of the Monroe Area Industrial Development Corporation.

The establishment of a Port Commission here may lend greatly to efforts to deepen the channel and once the channel is authorized and developed a port authority would be a must in order for this area to most effectively benefit the shipping advantages that could be realized.

Amendment No. 23 was initiated in the House of Representatives at the last regular session where it was jointly sponsored by Reps. Gilbert Faulk and Lawrence Gibbs.

The Morning World has endorsed the amendment and urges all voters to make particular effort to vote for the amendment. Though many of the amendments were motivated by power hungry politicians and reasons that would not benefit the taxpayers, some of the amendments are good and deserve public support.

Amendment No. 23 should be passed. It is strictly local in nature and no sound thinking voter in this area should vote against it. Local support alone, however, is not enough to pass the measure. It will be subject to approval by all the voters in Louisiana.

Tomorrow, the Morning World will discuss the structure and operation of the Greater Ouachita Port Commission, as provided in amendment.

'Imperialism' Label

It is good news that the United States Information Agency is finally beginning to pin the "imperialism" label where it belongs—on Soviet Russia. Too long have the Western nations let the charge of "colonialism" go unanswered.

Russia poses in its propaganda as the champion of small, oppressed nations and accuses the West of colonial exploitation. This is a lie and it should not go unchallenged. Particularly should it be answered by those literate persons in the former colonial nations who know that it is a lie—persons like India's Nehru.

The facts are that the Western powers have been giving freedom to former colonies at an unprecedented rate, usually without great pressure. While this has gone on, the Russians have gobbled up nation after nation until they now have an empire equal to that of the Czars at their peak.

Minority after minority country has succumbed to the Great Russians. The Chechen-Ingush Autonomous Republic in the Caucasus and the Crimean Tartar Autonomous Republic both were entirely wiped out, the residents being transported en masse to Siberia. The same happened to other nationalities.

Why have the Soviets escaped being called "imperialistic?" Partly because their conquering was done without crossing the seas and Britain's, for example, was on display in a wide-open continent like Africa.

But the primary reason has been the West's ineptitude in presenting its case, in combatting the lies and propaganda that communists have been able to spread throughout Asia and Africa. Now something is being done, although it may be too late.

Christmas Giving

Those who worry about the commercialization of Christmas will find a recent "business giving item of interest.

The National Premium Research Institute reports that American business executives are dropping some 120,000 customers, prospects, employes and friends from their business gift lists this year at an estimated saving of $9 million.

The general feeling among donors, according to the Institute, is that giving "might be getting out of hand."

What this harks back to is the ancient maxim that "the gift without the giver is bare." Impersonal gifts, or those frankly sent in the hops of "stimulating" business, are seldom in the true spirit of Christmas and many business firms apparently are becoming convinced this is so for them.

A healthy parallel action being taken bby many firms is the donation to a charitable cause of the money that would have been spent on business gifts. In some cases this gift is made in the name of the firm or executive who would have received the gift, and notification of this move is sent to replace the customary present.

Some 38,000 people live in the Indian Ocean's Seychelles archipelago, one of Britain's least known colonies. Only a few hundreds are Europeans and of these more are French than British, the National Geographic Society says.

Parts of the interior of Alaska have temperature ranges of 170 degrees Fahrenheit—from 100 degrees in summer to minus 70 in winter, the National Geographic Society says.

THESE DAYS

Was The GOP Saved?

A political party which is only one man is no longer a political party. Without any criticism of the President, it is a truism that the Republican Party existed before President Eisenhower was born; it may not continue after he ceases to be president, just as the Whig Party died in the United States or as the Liberal Party has become moribund in Great Britain.

What Paul Hoffman has tried to prove in an article which appears in a fortnightly magazine is that there is no Republican Party except in the personality of Dwight D. Eisenhower. It is a dangerous article to publish at this particular moment because it gives the impression, were it not known to be otherwise, that the author desires Eisenhower to be defeated by reading out of the party several million loyal Republicans who have faithfully stood by it while other Republicans were basking in New Deal patronage and honors.

Hoffman, who managed to get a $15 million Fund for the Republic donation from the Ford Foundation, in effect, reads out of the party, some of its most important senators, who are the Republicans to organize the Senate after the 1956 election, and who would preside over committees with which the White House would have to deal. He says that there are two splinter groups in the Republican Party. One consists of Senator Joe McCarthy, Senator William Jenner, Senator Herman Welker and Senator George Malone. This group he calls the "unappeasables." Each has been elected by the people of his state, whereas Paul Hoffman holds no position in the Republican Party and has never been elected to any public position.

The second splinter group he regards as "faint hopes," meaning that they might be brought around to abject obedience to the White House. This consists of Senator Henry Dworshak, Senator Andrew Schoeppel and Senator Barry Goldwater. Selected as the decoy for them is Senator William F Knowland, who, according to Hoffman, has had no differences with the White House on such questions as our China policy but such differences are "in the process of resolution," a phrase which stultifies Knowland and gives the impression that in some manner he has been bought off—an obvious impossibility both as to the buyer and seller.

Whatever inspired Hoffman to produce this article with these closing paragraphs is hard to understand:

"Given four more years of Eisenhower, his labors may achieve something unique in American politics, a party that is fundamentally pressureproof; something profoundly superior to its great rival, the Democratic Party, whose irreconcilable differences leave it permanently open to the pressure of contending narrow-interest groups.

"Second only to his labors for peace, the creation of this new party may go down as Eisenhower's greatest achievement."

If President Eisenhower is re-elected by a huge popular vote and he carries with him sufficient senators and representatives to give him a Republican Congress, there can be little question but that his authority will be paramount, but there will be no such "pressureproof" as Hoffman forecasts, as this is a republic not a despotism. If, on the other hand, the popular majority is narrow and the Congress remains Democratic, then he will have difficulties because this campaign has engendered much bitterness between Eisenhower and the Democrats and the attempt of his partisans to read six or eight Republican senators out of the party. Each of these men serves in the Senate regardless of who sits in the White House and each can vote as he chooses. Eisenhower has already discovered the cost of pushing Wayne Morse out of the Republican Party.

The poor registration and the apathy of the voters would indicate that the people are not emotionally spirited over either presidential candidate. Where there is any excitement, it is local; it is over a candidate for the Senate or a governor. For instance, in Massachusetts, there is more interest over the gubernatorial election than over the presidency and the Democrats are really excited over the possibility of Foster Furcolo being elected governor. In New York State and in California, the senatorial races have stimulated more interest than the presidency. In Washington and Oregon, the senatorial races are the works.

In this respect, 1956 differs from 1952 when Eisenhower waged a crusade and Stevenson shocked a nation by his intellectual brilliancé. This year, they are just running against each other.

Ohio Candidates Write Own Rules

WASHINGTON —You can throw out most of your advance notions about politics when you discuss the Ohio senate race.

Here is a state where the Republican candidate draws AFL endorsement because of the "overall hardened anti - labor characteristics of his opponent."

Here is a state when the Democratic candidate praises Mr. Eisenhower and hints he may vote with the Republicans to organize senate committees.

Sen. George H. Bender (R.), the bell - ringing cheerleader of Taft forces at the 1952 Republican convention, is campaigning as a "100 per cent supporter" of President Eisenhower.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche (D.), a lone - wolf, vote - getting phenomenon who has won a record five terms in the state house, is campaigning as only Lausche can.

He ignores Bender's repeated challenges to debate the issues. "The only issue," he says, with a proud toss of his curly gray hair, "is my record as governor, my opposition to lobbyists, party bosses and special interests and the people's confidence in my honesty, sincerity and judgment."

Far from playing the aggressive challenger, Lausche acts as though he were the favorite and the incumbent senator an ambitious upstart. Many observers think his judgment is correct.

After all. Lausche was re-elected governor for the fifth time in 1954 by 212,000 votes, while Bender edged into the last two years of the late Sen. Taft's term by only 2,970 votes.

And as for the Eisenhower coattail influence, on which Bender is so obviously depending, Lausche won his biggest plurality — 425,000 votes — in 1952 when the president carried Ohio by 500,000 votes.

There are, however, factors that make Bender' s hopes seem not quite so dim. It is no secret that many Democratic politicians would like to see Lausche beaten. His maverick tendencies — he backed Republican Taft for the senate in 1950, for instance — have crippled the party organization in Ohio. His endorsement of this year's Democratic ticket has not erased the memories of earlier defections or the anger stirred by his hint early in the campaign that he might vote to give the GOP control of senate committees.

Organized labor will not turn a hand for Lausche, who has praised the Taft - Hartley law. The state AFL is for Bender. The CIO likes neither of the candidates.

Bender has received President Eisenhower's formal blessing as "a vigorous exponent of the administration's program" and he has the benefit of a large campaign fund, raised with the help of Secretary of Treasury George M. Humphrey.

He has active organizations going in all 88 Ohio counties and he will benefit from the party's enthusiastic ambition to recapture the governership Lausche is vacating.

Bender has launched an "issue a day" campaign, pointing to his own support of civil rights legislation, aid to education and other parts of the Eisenhower program and blasting Lausche's "incredible silence" on these and other matters.

Campaigning tirelessly in the manner that won him six terms as representative - at - large, Bender pleads with Republicans who supported Lausche for governor in previous elections to observe party labels this time. He expounds the issues seriously, hoping to convince independents he has outgrown his former reputaton for buffoonery. And always he challenges Lausche to come down and debate with him.

Charge that big business and government are squeezing the farmer and the small businessman out of existence. (Democratic cheers.)

Immediately add that neither party is to blame for this. (Republican cheers.)

Wonder why Bender has "ignored" the growth of the federal debt and the need for government economy. (Democratic and conservative Republican cheers.)

Oppose "further encroachment" of the federal government into state affairs. (Republican and conservative Democratic cheers.)

Declare it is "not sound" for people to vote a straight ticket.) Democrats worried about Eisenhower coattails cheers.)

And in 10 years the situation might be reversed. (Republican cheers.)

These orations conclude with the claim that "more special interests oppose me than all the other candidates lumped together. But I am not disturbed. If serving the people has brought antipathy of special interests, let it come." (Cheers all around.)

It will take all of Bender's energy. Humphrey's money and Eisenhower's magnetism to offset that kind of appeal.

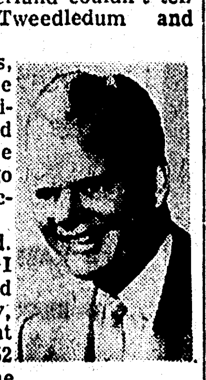
Tweedledum And Tweedledee

Alice in Wonderland couldn't tell them apart, Tweedledum and Tweedledee



Many voters, saying the same thing about Eisenhower and Stevenson, are threatening to "go fishing" on election day.

That's too bad.

Recent weeks I have revisited Forrest county, Miss., which went Republican in '52 for the first time.

It won't this time.

"There's no difference in the candidates, so we'll just go back to being Democrats — if we bother to vote at all."

In the farm manufacturing cities of Iowa and Illinois, I stood in line with the unemployed. The lines were a block long. They would vote, mostly in protest.

In Oklahoma and in Georgia I heard repeated, "What's the difference how I vote? Both men stand for the same things."

Well . . .

I went to Lawton, Okla., to speak and to adjacent Fort Sill to visit with Gen. Tom deShazo.

Every old "blowin' and goin' " artilleryman has fond memories of Fort Sill. Originally it was established to police the troubled peace in Indian territory.

Generals Sherman and Custer tried. They corralled the warring tribes of the Apache and the Kiowa and sobered up Geronimo in the post guardhouse, and eventually the white invader "traded" the Indian out of his home and his land and his wampum and his freedom in exchange for firewater and "security."

Nowadays you look around the reservations at the Indian, who still has his "security" guaranteed by Washington . . .

And you compare his life and his lot with the vigorous and beneficial growth and development of the ultramodern cities of southeast Oklahoma by free men who dare to risk their own capital and take chances and so build skyscrapers over the desert . . .

And you realize that the "easy way" is not so easy after all.

There in the foothills of the Wichita Mountains, you see graphically demonstrated the difference between men who dare to walk erect, unaided and unhobbled . . .

And those who, managed by Washington, are herded like cattle.

We would not change it now if we could. The reservation Indian has lost the art of looking after himself. That's what happens, you know. Freedom takes constant effort and training and practice or the desire for its dies and the courage it requires atrophies.

Mr Eisenhower and Mr. Stevenson are not so close together as is generally assumed.

But if this were so, next election day becomes even more important.

Because there are many good candidates for congress and state offices in both parties who deserve support but who might go down the drain by default. You can elect Elvis Presley president and still survive as Long as you elect a competent congress to checkmate him.

It is doubly important, if the White House is in unpredictable hands, to elect to congress the kind of men who will keep any president from putting the rest of us on the reservation.

That is why we must vote . . .

Not caretaker collective security.

IN WASHINGTON

GOP Senate Wouldn't Fit In Ike's Dream

President Eisenhower, campaigning for a Republican controlled Senate, may have occasional misgivings as to whether that change would promote his hopes for a new Republican party.

That impression was confirmed in part by his recent press conference statement, in which he took a less than enthusiastic view of some Republican conservatives with whom he has had his differences during the past four years.

Perhaps unfortunately for his aspiration to leave office after another four years with his party resting on a new foundation, which history would record as his handiwork, the senators to whom he was referring would be key men in a Republican senate.

Of the Republican conservatives, Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (Wis.) would replace Senator John L. McClellan (Dem. —Ark.) as chairman of the Government Operations committee, Senator William E. Jenner (Ind.) would be chairman of Rules and Administration, replacing Senator Theodore F. Green (Dem. - R. I.), Senator Homer E. Capehart (Ind.) would take over from Senator J William Fulbright (Dem. -Ark.) at the head of Banking and Currency, Senator John W. Bricker (Ohio) from Senator Warren G. Magnuson (Dem. -Wash.) on Interstate and Foreign Commerce and Senator Styles Bridges (N.H.) from Senator Carl Hayden (Dem.-Ariz.) on Appropriations.

Not all these senators were mentioned by Paul Hoffman, former automobile executive and first head of the Economic Cooperative Administration under President Truman, in a magazine article which prompted the President's press conference remarks, but some of them were declared by Hoffman to "have little place in the Republican party," while others were grouped as "unable to demonstrate that (they) accept the modern America." As Hoffman, who played an important part in persuading Eisenhower to run in 1952, has also had a hand in charting the President's course in his first term, his comments portend a new determination by the White House to control the GOP during a second term

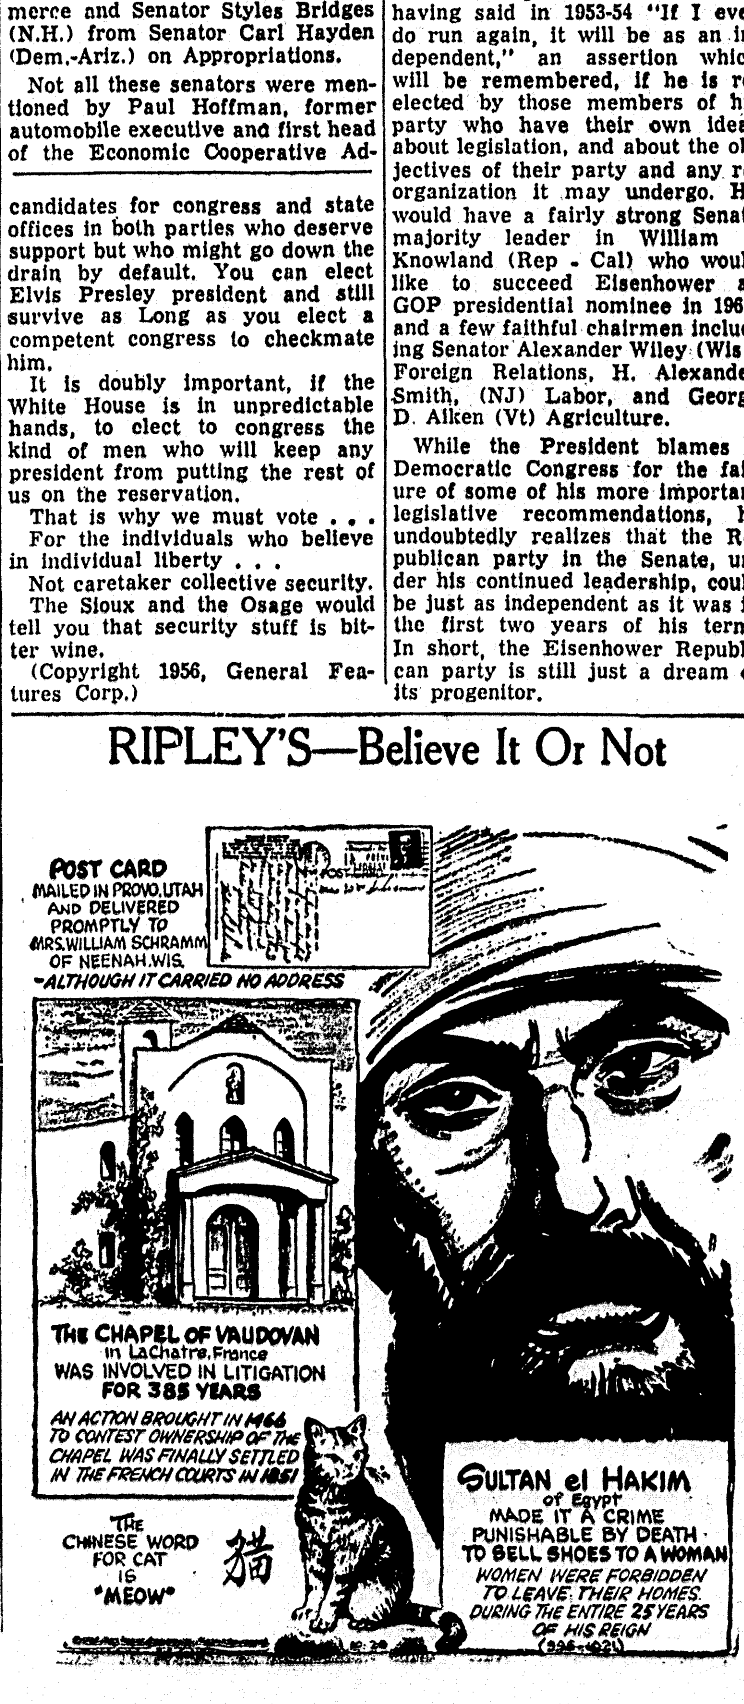
Of the senators mentioned none are riding the President's coattails in this election, with one exception, because they do not have to run this year The exception is Senator Capehart of Indiana, who does not seem to be one of those about whom the President is particularly concerned, and who is expected to win without much trouble.

The President thus faces the problem of making his record for posterity with a Senate which is largely in control of conservatives who do not favor some of his program, and who know that he cannot be a candidate for reelection in 1960, which makes a fight for party control inevitable

Hoffman quotes Eisenhower as having said in 1953-54 "If I ever do run again, it will be as an independent," an assertion which will be remembered, if he is reelected by those members of his party who have their own ideas about legislation, and about the objectives of their party and any reorganization it may undergo. He would have a fairly strong Senate majority leader in William F Knowland (Rep - Cal) who would like to succeed Eisenhower as GOP presidential nominee in 1960, and a few faithful chairmen including Senator Alexander Wiley (Wis), Foreign Relations, H. Alexander Smith, (NJ) Labor, and George D. Aiken (Vt) Agriculture.

While the President blames a Democratic Congress for the failure of some of his more important legislative recommendations, he undoubtedly realizes that the Republican party in the Senate, under his continued leadership, could be just as independent as it was in the first two years of his term. In short, the Eisenhower Republican party is still just a dream of its progenitor.

RIPLEY'S—Believe It Or Not



Worry Clinic

By Dr. George W. Crane

Here's a brief psychoanalysis of Judas Iscariot which should serve as interesting discussion material for church groups tomorrow. Judas probably loved Christ as much as Peter and John did, but he was a patriot who wished to launch a coup d'etat quickly and thus place Christ on Caesar's throne.

Case S-396: Judas Iscariot is a shameful name in religious history.

But Judas himself was probably an intelligent patriot who expected to see Jesus upset the Roman conquerors and take over the throne for himself.

Please remember that Peter and James and John and the other Apostles held that very same view, for they all regarded Christ as a temporal monarch who would overshadow their former King David.

Judas also admired Jesus and had supreme confidence in him. For he had seen Christ raise the dead, restore sight to the blind and perform many other miracles.

Judas thus realized that Christ was all-powerful. So on that fateful Palm Sunday when the multitudes flocked into Jerusalem and laid palm branches in Christ's pathway, Judas probably figured the time was ripe for Christ to take over temporal reins of government.

But Judas also realized Jesus was compassionate and so interested in the welfare of individuals in the crowd that Christ wasn't pushing the royal coup d'etat fast enough. By Thursday nothing had yet happened.

"If I can precipitate a crisis," Judas probably thought, "and thus get Jesus into direct conflict with the Sanhedrin, as well as with Rome, then Christ will be forced to declare himself."

But when Christ offered no resistance and meekly let himself be led as a sheep to the slaughter, Judas was dumbfounded.

Until Christ was finally nailed to the cross, Judas probably expected that legions of heavenly soldiers would come down to join the Jewish patriots who were waiting to launch a revolution against Rome.

Too late, Judas found out that he had completely misjudged Christ's mission here on this planet Earth. Judas was then so overcome with remorse that he cast down the 30 pieces of silver on the temple floor and went out and hanged himself.

This did not happen, however, until Judas saw that Jesus was finally condemned (Matthew 27:3) and still offered no resistance.

Furthermore, none of the other Apostles is reported to have upbraided Judas in any way, showing they probably held much the same viewpoint as he did.

New View of Judas

This may seem like a radically different view of Judas Iscariot, but it will be good for your soul to stretch your imagination and try to analyze the current political conditions surrounding Christ.

It is very easy for us to upbraid Judas. We even think all the 12 Apostles were very slow in grasping Christ's purpose here on Earth.

But we have the advantage of hindsight. We are doing Monday morning quarterbacking in the field of religion.

No other case in ancient religious history ever showed God making a sacrifice to win the favor of us human beings!

Instead, the ancient religions always depicted mankind as making various sacrifices to appease a cruel or austere god.

Thus, human children were thrown into a fiery furnace to mollify Baal. And the Hindu even tossed babies into the Ganges till the start of this 20th century to win favor with their gods.

So there was no precedent for Jesus or this unique divine sacrifice to win mankind.

No wonder the 12 Apostles misjudged Christ! Judas didn't remotely appreciate Christ's unique mission till it was too late.

Then, in apparent anguish of soul, he killed himself by hanging but don't accuse Judas too strongly for the others held the very same viewpoint about Christ as a temporal ruler to unseat Caesar and become a world monarch.

Tomorrow, the Morning World will discuss the structure and operation of the Greater Ouachita Port Commission, as provided in amendment.

'Imperialism' Label

It is good news that the United States Information Agency is finally beginning to pin the "imperialism" label where it belongs—on Soviet Russia. Too long have the Western nations let the charge of "colonialism" go unanswered.

Russia poses in its propaganda as the champion of small, oppressed nations and accuses the West of colonial exploitation. This is a lie and it should not go unchallenged. Particularly should it be answered by those literate persons in the former colonial nations who know that it is a lie—persons like India's Nehru.

The facts are that the Western powers have been giving freedom to former colonies at an unprecedented rate, usually without great pressure. While this has gone on, the Russians have gobbled up nation after nation until they now have an empire equal to that of the Czars at their peak.

Minority after minority country has succumbed to the Great Russians. The Chechen-Ingush Autonomous Republic in the Caucasus and the Crimean Tartar Autonomous Republic both were entirely wiped out, the residents being transported en masse to Siberia. The same happened to other nationalities.

Why have the Soviets escaped being called "imperialistic?" Partly because their conquering was done without crossing the seas and Britain's, for example, was on display in a wide-open continent like Africa.

But the primary reason has been the West's ineptitude in presenting its case, in combatting the lies and propaganda that communists have been able to spread throughout Asia and Africa. Now something is being done, although it may be too late.

Christmas Giving

Those who worry about the commercialization of Christmas will find a recent "business giving item of interest.

The National Premium Research Institute reports that American business executives are dropping some 120,000 customers, prospects, employes and friends from their business gift lists this year at an estimated saving of $9 million.

The general feeling among donors, according to the Institute, is that giving "might be getting out of hand."

What this harks back to is the ancient maxim that "the gift without the giver is bare." Impersonal gifts, or those frankly sent in the hops of "stimulating" business, are seldom in the true spirit of Christmas and many business firms apparently are becoming convinced this is so for them.

A healthy parallel action being taken bby many firms is the donation to a charitable cause of the money that would have been spent on business gifts. In some cases this gift is made in the name of the firm or executive who would have received the gift, and notification of this move is sent to replace the customary present.

Some 38,000 people live in the Indian Ocean's Seychelles archipelago, one of Britain's least known colonies. Only a few hundreds are Europeans and of these more are French than British, the National Geographic Society says.

Parts of the interior of Alaska have temperature ranges of 170 degrees Fahrenheit—from 100 degrees in summer to minus 70 in winter, the National Geographic Society says.

THESE DAYS

By George Sokolsky

Was The GOP Saved?

A political party which is only one man is no longer a political party. Without any criticism of the President, it is a truism that the Republican Party existed before President Eisenhower was born; it may not continue after he ceases to be president, just as the Whig Party died in the United States or as the Liberal Party has become moribund in Great Britain.

What Paul Hoffman has tried to prove in an article which appears in a fortnightly magazine is that there is no Republican Party except in the personality of Dwight D. Eisenhower. It is a dangerous article to publish at this particular moment because it gives the impression, were it not known to be otherwise, that the author desires Eisenhower to be defeated by reading out of the party several million loyal Republicans who have faithfully stood by it while other Republicans were basking in New Deal patronage and honors.

Hoffman, who managed to get a $15 million Fund for the Republic donation from the Ford Foundation, in effect, reads out of the party, some of its most important senators, who are the Republicans to organize the Senate after the 1956 election, and who would preside over committees with which the White House would have to deal. He says that there are two splinter groups in the Republican Party. One consists of Senator Joe McCarthy, Senator William Jenner, Senator Herman Welker and Senator George Malone. This group he calls the "unappeasables." Each has been elected by the people of his state, whereas Paul Hoffman holds no position in the Republican Party and has never been elected to any public position.

The second splinter group he regards as "faint hopes," meaning that they might be brought around to abject obedience to the White House. This consists of Senator Henry Dworshak, Senator Andrew Schoeppel and Senator Barry Goldwater. Selected as the decoy for them is Senator William F Knowland who, according to Hoffman, has had no differences with the White House on such questions as our China policy but such differences are "in the process of resolution," a phrase which stultifies Knowland and gives the impression that in some manner he has been bought off—an obvious impossibility both as to the buyer and seller.

Whatever inspired Hoffman to produce this article with these closing paragraphs is hard to understand:

"Given four more years of Eisenhower, his labors may achieve something unique in American politics, a party that is fundamentally pressureproof; something profoundly superior to its great rival, the Democratic Party, whose irreconcilable differences leave if permanently open to the pressure of contending narrow-interest groups.

"Second only to his labors for peace, the creation of this new party may go down as Eisenhower's greatest achievement."

If President Eisenhower is reelected by a huge popular vote and he carries with him sufficient senators and representatives to give him a Republican Congress, there can be little question but that his authority will be paramount, but there will be no such "pressureproof" as Hoffman forecasts, as this is a republic not a despotism. If, on the other hand, the popular majority is narrow and the Congress remains Democratic, then he will have difficulties because this campaign has engendered much bitterness between Eisenhower and the Democrats and the attempt of his partisans to read six or eight Republican senators out of the party. Each of these men serves in the Senate regardless of who sits in the White House and each can vote as he chooses. Eisenhower has already discovered the cost of pushing Wayne Morse out of the Republican Party.

The poor registration and the apathy of the voters would indicate that the people are not emotionally spirited over either presidential candidate. Where there is any excitement, it is local; it is over a candidate for the Senate or a governor. For instance, in Massachusetts, there is more interest over the gubernatorial election than over the presidency and the Democrats are really excited over the possibility of Foster Furcolo being elected governor. In New York State and in California, the senatorial races have stimulated more interest than the presidency. In Washington and Oregon, the senatorial races are the works.

In this respect, 1956 differs from 1952 when Eisenhower waged a crusade and Stevenson shocked a nation by his intellectual brilliance. This year, they are just running against each other.

Ohio Candidates Write Own Rules

WASHINGTON —You can throw out most of your advance notions about politics when you discuss the Ohio senate race.

Here is a state where the Republican candidate draws AFL endorsement because of the "overall hardened anti - labor characteristics of his opponent."

Here is a state when the Democratic candidate praises Mr. Eisenhower and hints he may vote with the Republicans to organize senate committees.

Sen. George H. Bender (R.), the bell - ringing cheerleader of Taft forces at the 1952 Republican convention, is campaigning as a "100 per cent supporter" of President Eisenhower.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche (D.), a lone - wolf, vote - getting phenomenon who has won a record five terms in the state house, is campaigning as only Lausche can.

He ignores Bender's repeated challenges to debate the issues. "The only issue," he says, with a proud toss of his curly gray hair, "is my record as governor, my opposition to lobbyists, party bosses and special interests and the people's confidence in my honesty, sincerity and judgment."

Far from playing the aggressive challenger, Lausche acts as though he were the favorite and the incumbent senator an ambitious upstart. Many observers think his judgment is correct.

After all. Lausche was re-elected governor for the fifth time in 1954 by 212,000 votes, while Bender edged into the last two years of the late Sen. Taft's term by only 2,970 votes.

And as for the Eisenhower coattail influence, on which Bender is so obviously depending, Lausche won his biggest plurality — 425,000 votes — in 1952 when the president carried Ohio by 500,000 votes.

There are, however, factors that make Bender' s hopes seem not quite so dim. It is no secret that many Democratic politicians would like to see Lausche beaten. His maverick tendencies — he backed Republican Taft for the senate in 1950, for instance — have crippled the party organization in Ohio. His endorsement of this year's Democratic ticket has not erased the memories of earlier defections or the anger stirred by his hint early in the campaign that he might vote to give the GOP control of senate committees.

Organized labor will not turn a hand for Lausche, who has praised the Taft - Hartley law. The state AFL is for Bender. The CIO likes neither of the candidates.

Bender has received President Eisenhower's formal blessing as "a vigorous exponent of the administration's program" and he has the benefit of a large campaign fund, raised with the help of Secretary of Treasury George M. Humphrey.

He has active organizations going in all 88 Ohio counties and he will benefit from the party's enthusiastic ambition to recapture the governership Lausche is vacating.

Bender has launched an "issue a day" campaign, pointing to his own support of civil rights legislation, aid to education and other parts of the Eisenhower program and blasting Lausche's "incredible silence" on these and other matters.

Campaigning tirelessly in the manner that won him six terms as representative - at - large, Bender pleads with Republicans who supported Lausche for governor in previous elections to observe party labels this time. He expounds the issues seriously, hoping to convince independents he has outgrown his former reputaton for buffoonery. And always he challenges Lausche to come down and debate with him.

Charge that big business and government are squeezing the farmer and the small businessman out of existence. (Democratic cheers.)

Immediately add that neither party is to blame for this. (Republican cheers.)

Wonder why Bender has "ignored" the growth of the federal debt and the need for government economy. (Democratic and conservative Republican cheers.)

Oppose "further encroachment" of the federal government into state affairs. (Republican and conservative Democratic cheers.)

Declare it is "not sound" for people to vote a straight ticket.) Democrats worried about Eisenhower coattails cheers.)

And in 10 years the situation might be reversed. (Republican cheers.)

These orations conclude with the claim that "more special interests oppose me than all the other candidates lumped together. But I am not disturbed. If serving the people has brought antipathy of special interests, let it come." (Cheers all around.)

It will take all of Bender's energy, Humphrey's money and Eisenhower's magnetism to offset that kind of appeal.

Sweetest Day

TODAY is something special, in . . . A special sort of way . . . Throughout our happy country it . . . Is known as "Sweetest Day" . . . The time to be real sweet to those . . . You know and love the best . . . Your relatives, your friends, the poor . . . The orphans and the rest . . . And what is sweeter to the sweet . . . Than just a box of candy . . . To brighten up their spirits and . . . To make them feel real dandy? . . . Be sweet today to everyone . . . As much as you can be . . . And surely God will bless you for . . . Your deeds of charity . . . Send any greeting that you wish . . . In leisure or in haste . . . But just a bit of candy would . . . Be in the best of taste.

Tweedledum And Tweedledee

Alice in Wonderland couldn't tell them apart, Tweedledum and Tweedledee

Many voters, saying the same thing about Eisenhower and Stevenson, are threatening to "go fishing" on election day.

That's too bad.

Recent weeks I have revisited Forrest county, Miss., which went Republican in '52 for the first time.

It won't this time.

"There's no difference in the candidates, so we'll just go back to being Democrats — if we bother to vote at all."

In the farm manufacturing cities of Iowa and Illinois, I stood in line with the unemployed. The lines were a block long. They would vote, mostly in protest.

In Oklahoma and in Georgia I heard repeated, "What's the difference how I vote? Both men stand for the same things."

Well . . .

I went to Lawton, Okla., to speak and to adjacent Fort Sill to visit with Gen. Tom deShazo.

Every old "blowin' and goin' " artilleryman has fond memories of Fort Sill. Originally it was established to police the troubled peace in Indian territory.

Generals Sherman and Custer tried. They corralled the warring tribes of the Apache and the Kiowa and sobered up Geronimo in the post guardhouse, and eventually the white invader "traded" the Indian out of his home and his land and his wampum and his freedom in exchange for firewater and "security."

Nowadays you look around the reservations at the Indian, who still has his "security" guaranteed by Washington . . .

And you compare his life and his lot with the vigorous and beneficial growth and development of the ultramodern cities of southeast Oklahoma by free men who dare to risk their own capital and take chances and so build skyscrapers over the desert . . .

And you realize that the "easy way" is not so easy after all.

There in the foothills of the Wichita Mountains, you see graphically demonstrated the difference between men who dare to walk erect, unaided and unhobbled . . .

And those who, managed by Washington, are herded like cattle.

We would not change it now if we could. The reservation Indian has lost the art of looking after himself. That's what happens, you know. Freedom takes constant effort and training and practice or the desire for its dies and the courage it requires atrophies.

Mr Eisenhower and Mr. Stevenson are not so close together as is generally assumed.

But if this were so, next election day becomes even more important.

Because there are many good candidates for congress and state offices in both parties who deserve support but who might go down the drain by default. You can elect Elvis Presley president and still survive as Long as you elect a competent congress to checkmate him.

It is doubly important, if the White House is in unpredictable hands, to elect to congress the kind of men who will keep any president from putting the rest of us on the reservation.

That is why we must vote . . .

Not caretaker collective security.

GOP Senate Wouldn't Fit In Ike's Dream

President Eisenhower, campaigning for a Republican controlled Senate, may have occasional misgivings as to whether that change would promote his hopes for a new Republican party.

That impression was confirmed in part by his recent press conference statement, in which he took a less than enthusiastic view of some Republican conservatives with whom he has had his differences during the past four years.

Perhaps unfortunately for his aspiration to leave office after another four years with his party resting on a new foundation, which history would record as his handiwork, the senators to whom he was referring would be key men in a Republican senate.

Of the Republican conservatives, Senator Joseph R. McCarthy (Wis.) would replace Senator John L. McClellan (Dem. —Ark.) as chairman of the Government Operations committee, Senator William E. Jenner (Ind.) would be chairman of Rules and Administration, replacing Senator Theodore F. Green (Dem. - R. I.), Senator Homer E. Capehart (Ind.) would take over from Senator J William Fulbright (Dem. -Ark.) at the head of Banking and Currency, Senator John W. Bricker (Ohio) from Senator Warren G. Magnuson (Dem. -Wash.) on Interstate and Foreign Commerce and Senator Styles Bridges (N.H.) from Senator Carl Hayden (Dem.-Ariz.) on Appropriations.

Not all these senators were mentioned by Paul Hoffman, former automobile executive and first head of the Economic Cooperative Administration under President Truman, in a magazine article which prompted the President's press conference remarks, but some of them were declared by Hoffman to "have little place in the Republican party," while others were grouped as "unable to demonstrate that (they) accept the modern America." As Hoffman, who played an important part in persuading Eisenhower to run in 1952, has also had a hand in charting the President's course in his first term, his comments portend a new determination by the White House to control the GOP during a second term

Of the senators mentioned none are riding the President's coattails in this election, with one exception, because they do not have to run this year The exception is Senator Capehart of Indiana, who does not seem to be one of those about whom the President is particularly concerned, and who is expected to win without much trouble.

The President thus faces the problem of making his record for posterity with a Senate which is largely in control of conservatives who do not favor some of his program, and who know that he cannot be a candidate for reelection in 1960, which makes a fight for party control inevitable

Hoffman quotes Eisenhower as having said in 1953-54 "If I ever do run again, it will be as an independent," an assertion which will be remembered, if he is reelected by those members of his party who have their own ideas about legislation, and about the objectives of their party and any reorganization it may undergo. He would have a fairly strong Senate majority leader in William F Knowland (Rep - Cal) who would like to succeed Eisenhower as GOP presidential nominee in 1960, and a few faithful chairmen including Senator Alexander Wiley (Wis), Foreign Relations, H. Alexander Smith, (NJ) Labor, and George D Aiken (Vt) Agriculture.

While the President blames a Democratic Congress for the failure of some of his more important legislative recommendations, he undoubtedly realizes that the Republican party in the Senate, under his continued leadership, could be just as independent as it was in the first two years of his term. In short, the Eisenhower Republican party is still just a dream of its progenitor.

RIPLEY'S—Believe It Or Not

Worry Clinic

By Dr. George W. Crane

Here's a brief psychoanalysis of Judas Iscariot which should serve as interesting discussion material for church groups tomorrow. Judas probably loved Christ as much as Peter and John did, but he was a patriot who wished to launch a coup d'etat quickly and thus place Christ on Caesar's throne.

Case S-396: Judas Iscariot is a shameful name in religious history.

But Judas himself was probably an intelligent patriot who expected to see Jesus upset the Roman conquerors and take over the throne for himself.

Please remember that Peter and James and John and the other Apostles held that very same view, for they all regarded Christ as a temporal monarch who would overshadow their former King David.

Judas also admired Jesus and had supreme confidence in him. For he had seen Christ raise the dead, restore sight to the blind and perform many other miracles.

Judas thus realized that Christ was all-powerful. So on that fateful Palm Sunday when the multitudes flocked into Jerusalem and laid palm branches in Christ's pathway, Judas probably figured the time was ripe for Christ to take over temporal reins of government.

But Judas also realized Jesus was compassionate and so interested in the welfare of individuals in the crowd that Christ wasn't pushing the royal coup d'etat fast enough. By Thursday nothing had yet happened.

"If I can precipitate a crisis," Judas probably thought, "and thus get Jesus into direct conflict with the Sanhedrin, as well as with Rome, then Christ will be forced to declare himself."

But when Christ offered no resistance and meekly let himself be led as a sheep to the slaughter, Judas was dumbfounded.

Until Christ was finally nailed to the cross, Judas probably expected that legions of heavenly soldiers would come down to join the Jewish patriots who were waiting to launch a revolution against Rome.

Too late, Judas found out that he had completely misjudged Christ's mission here on this planet Earth. Judas was then so overcome with remorse that he cast down the 30 pieces of silver on the temple floor and went out and hanged himself.

This did not happen, however, until Judas saw that Jesus was finally condemned (Matthew 27:3) and still offered no resistance.

Furthermore, none of the other Apostles is reported to have upbraided Judas in any way, showing they probably held much the same viewpoint as he did.

New View of Judas

This may seem like a radically different view of Judas Iscariot, but it will be good for your soul to stretch your imagination and try to analyze the current political conditions surrounding Christ.

It is very easy for us to upbraid Judas. We even think all the 12 Apostles were very slow in grasping Christ's purpose here on Earth.

But we have the advantage of hindsight. We are doing Monday morning quarterbacking in the field of religion.

No other case in ancient religious history ever showed God making a sacrifice to win the favor of us human beings!

Instead, the ancient religions always depicted mankind as making various sacrifices to appease a cruel or austere god.

Thus, human children were thrown into a fiery furnace to mollify Baal. And the Hindu even tossed babies into the Ganges till the start of this 20th century to win favor with their gods.

So there was no precedent for Jesus or this unique divine sacrifice to win mankind.

No wonder the 12 Apostles misjudged Christ! Judas didn't remotely appreciate Christ's unique mission till it was too late.

Then, in apparent anguish of soul, he killed himself by hanging but don't accuse Judas too strongly for the others held the very same viewpoint about Christ as a temporal ruler to unseat Caesar and become a world monarch.

COME ON OUT FROM BEHIND THAT PHONE

By DOROTHY DIX

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Several months ago Roy got my phone number from a girl friend and called me. He sounded very nice. His calls became more frequent, and now he calls practically every day. Ours is a strictly no-see friendship. I haven't even seen a picture of him. Should I continue on this basis? Celia

DEAR CELIA: One or two calls from an unknown could be exciting and mysterious, but several months of such communication is too much. Invite him over some evening so you and the folks can take a peek at him. If he ducks out, give the telephone back to the family.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I'm having a hectic argument with my friends and family and I'd like you to settle it. I contend that when a girl marries, her father pays for the wedding only, and the groom is supposed to furnish the home. I even have bets on it. Micky

DEAR MICKY: Your point could have been proven by any book of etiquette. Why so much fuss and confusion?

Of course, if the bride's family is affluent and would like to help with household furnishings, no one will object, I'm sure.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My boy friend says I should call him, and I say he should call me. Who's right? Stella

DEAR STELLA: The boy calls. I think your lad has an eye for economy. You spend your dime; he'll save his.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I'm an average guy of 19 with an unusual problem. I know someday I want to get married, but whenever a girl begins to get serious over me, I don't care for her any longer. I believe this feeling may go back to my home life, which was very unhappy. My parents were always quarreling, and finally were divorced. Perhaps that has made me afraid of marriage. C.A.

DEAR C.A.: At best, a 19-year-old lad is wobbly when walking in the fields of romance. As you meet nice girls, are invited into their homes and see happy domesticity, I'm sure you'll appreciate the fact that most families are happy.

Give yourself time. You're too young for serious matrimonial thoughts. There will always be eligible girls for you. Just be sure you get the right one.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: What do you think of husbands who go around gossiping about their wives, telling about personal affairs and recounting household weaknesses? Claudia

DEAR CLAUDIA: I have always found this to be a predominantly female, rather than a male, fault. It is certainly obnoxious in either sex.

Tech Student Teachers Hear Methods Talks

RUSTON, Oct. 19 (Special) — Programs of student participation have been planned at Louisiana Tech for this semester's student teachers' critiques each Thursday afternoon from 3 to 4 o'clock.

The student teachers recently heard talks by Dr. J. A. Cawthon, professor of education, and Dr. Elenora Cawthon, director of the department of placement and service.

"Observation Hour — How We Use It" is the subject for discussion on Oct. 25 by the following students: Patsy Gullatt, Margaret Francis, Don Baxter, Tommy Harper, James Moore, Lael White and James Melton.

"Teacher - Pupil Relations" will be discussed on Nov. 1 by Betty Jo deYampert, Joyce King, E. L. Gibson, Helen Branton and Hastings Merritt.

A film, "Broader Concept of Method," is on the agenda for Nov. 8.

On Nov. 15, American Education Week will be discussed by Teresa Boyd, Billie Vise, Helen Vining and Mary Ann Whitman.

"How Shall I Evaluate My Students?" will be analyzed later by Gloria Dean Bryant, Elizabeth Carpenter, Eddie Joyce, Eria F. Liner, Gwendolyn Moore, Lessie Dee Smith and Hollis Fulton.

"What Is Your Philosophy?" is scheduled for consideration on Dec. 13 by Mrs. Taylor, Faye Robinson, Norma Ruth Tucker and Lillian Roddy.

Horace Robinson, field secretary of the Louisiana Teachers' Assn., will speak on "Teacher Organizations and Some Problems Confronting Them" on Jan. 3.

Scholarship Won By Monroe Youth

A Monroe youth, Paul Guy Durbin, has been awarded the J. H. Hearne Memorial Scholarship to Centenary College for the second consecutive year.

The scholarship, established by Mrs. J. H. Hearne of Haynesville in memory of her late husband, carries a valuation of $250 per year. It is awarded annually to an outstanding ministerial student.

Young Durbin is the son of Mr. and Mrs. B. P. Durbin of Monroe and is a junior majoring in religion at Centenary.

Of course, if the bride's family is affluent and would like to help with household furnishings, no one will object, I'm sure.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: My boy friend says I should call him, and I say he should call me. Who's right? Stella

DEAR STELLA: The boy calls. I think your lad has an eye for economy. You spend your dime; he'll save his.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I'm an average guy of 19 with an unusual problem. I know someday I want to get married, but whenever a girl begins to get serious over me, I don't care for her any longer. I believe this feeling may go back to my home life, which was very unhappy. My parents were always quarreling, and finally were divorced. Perhaps that has made me afraid of marriage. C.A.

DEAR C.A.: At best, a 19-year-old lad is wobbly when walking in the fields of romance. As you meet nice girls, are invited into their homes and see happy domesticity, I'm sure you'll appreciate the fact that most families are happy.

Give yourself time. You're too young for serious matrimonial thoughts. There will always be eligible girls for you. Just be sure you get the right one.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: What do you think of husbands who go around gossiping about their wives, telling about personal affairs and recounting household weaknesses? Claudia

DEAR CLAUDIA: I have always found this to be a predominantly female, rather than a male, fault. It is certainly obnoxious in either sex.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE — Here's how to work it:

is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another. In this example A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophies, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Tech Student Teachers Hear Methods Talks

RUSTON, Oct. 19 (Special) — Programs of student participation have been planned at Louisiana Tech for this semester's student teachers' critiques each Thursday afternoon from 3 to 4 o'clock.

The student teachers recently heard talks by Dr. J. A. Cawthon, professor of education, and Dr. Elenora Cawthon, director of the department of placement and service.

"Observation Hour — How We Use It" is the subject for discussion on Oct. 25 by the following students: Patsy Gullatt, Margaret Francis, Don Baxter, Tommy Harper, James Moore, Lael White and James Melton.

"Teacher - Pupil Relations" will be discussed on Nov. 1 by Betty Jo deYampert, Joyce King, E. L. Gibson, Helen Branton and Hastings Merritt.

A film, "Broader Concept of Method," is on the agenda for Nov. 8.

On Nov. 15, American Education Week will be discussed by Teresa Boyd, Billie Vise, Helen Vining and Mary Ann Whitman.

"How Shall I Evaluate My Students?" will be analyzed later by Gloria Dean Bryant, Elizabeth Carpenter, Eddie Joyce, Eria F. Liner, Gwendolyn Moore, Lessie Dee Smith and Hollis Fulton.

"What Is Your Philosophy?" is scheduled for consideration on Dec. 13 by Mrs. Taylor, Faye Robinson, Norma Ruth Tucker and Lillian Roddy.

Horace Robinson, field secretary of the Louisiana Teachers' Assn., will speak on "Teacher Organizations and Some Problems Confronting Them" on Jan. 3.

Scholarship Won By Monroe Youth

Third Secretary Of Negro Solon Is Found Guilty

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP) — Another of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell's secretaries was convicted today of cheating on his income tax. He is Acy Lennon, 53, of New York.

A federal court jury took 25 hours to convict Lennon on four of six counts of evading $4,210 in income taxes from 1949 through 1954. He was accused of claiming two ficticious sons as dependents.

Lennon's bail was fixed as $5,000 pending appeal. He is scheduled for sentencing Monday. The maximum is 20 years and $40,000 in fines.

The 340-pound Negro was among three aides of the Democratic congressman from Harlem who were indicted on income tax charges. One of them, William J. Hampton, was indicted with Lennon in 1955 but has not been brought to trial.

Another former secretary of Powell's, Hattie Freeman Dodson, 47-year-old Negro, is serving seven months in jail for a $7,000 tax gyp. Powell testified at Lennon's trial and he did at Mrs. Dodson's.

The Negro congressman last week announced that he supporting President Eisenhower for reelection on the Republican ticket. As a Democrat, Powell had supported Adlai E. Stevenson in 1952.

Six New York Negro Democratic leaders claimed Powell switched allegiance because of pressure from the White House in connection with the tax difficulties of his staff members.

Powell called this "a complete lie." He said his switch was based on Eisenhower's views on school desegregation and the failure of Stevenson to meet with Powell to discuss the issue. Eisenhower's press secretary, James C. Hagerty, also called the pressure charges "completely false."

Young Democrats At Dallas Backing NAACP's Drive

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 19 (UP)—The Dallas county Young Democratic Club went on record Friday in favor of the effort by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to get Texas public schools desegregated.

Club President Doyle King said the group also passed a resolution backing the NAACP's fight against an effort by Attorney General John Ben Shepperd to put it out of business in Texas.

The club voted to help "in preparation, financing and presentment of legal actions" by Dallas county Negroes to end segregation in public schools.

Lawyers Again In Squabble With Judge Laughlin

SAN DIEGO, Tex., Oct. 19 (UP)—Four South Texas lawyers who have been jailed twice in a running feud with Judge C. Woodrow Laughlin of the 79th district were free again Friday while their case went through a new appeal.

The four — Luther Jones of Corpus Christi, O. C. Carrillo of Benavides, Werner Gohmert of Alice and Gerald Weatherly of Laredo —have been associated at one time or another with the battery of lawyers representing political boss George Parr.

Laughlin cited them for contempt when they and other attorneys elected Gohmert as special 79th district judge during Laughlin's August vacation. They were jailed for a short period at that time and then freed on bond.

Thursday they spent nearly seven hours in the Duval county jail here. They were released on $1,000 bond each after the State Criminal Court of Appeals granted them a writ of habeas corpus pending their appeal.

Criminal Charges In Bank Collapse Looming In Texas

FORT WORTH, Tex., Oct. 19 (UP)—The state made its first official allegation of crime Friday in connection with the collapse of the River Oaks State Bank in Fort Worth last Monday.

The charge, coming amid reports that oil speculation, a "beautiful blonde," poker games with $10,000 in the pot, and golf at $100 a hole played parts in the failure, was that the Provident American Trust Co. sold stock illegally.

The bank collapsed when a $500,000 to $700,000 shortage was discovered.

The charge of criminal law violation came from Robert C. Duke, acting securities chief in the secretary of state's office. He said the company, linked financially with the River Oaks bank, did not obtain a permit to sell stock after a new law became effective Sept. 6.

"Any stock sale after that date would be a criminal violation punishable by a $1,000 fine and up to two years in prison," Duke said. "We have turned the matter over to the attorney general's office for legal action."

Assistant Attorney General Fred Jones said an investigation which the securities unit has conducted in Fort Worth and other areas showed sales were made in the last month.

The Texas Insurance Commission asked the attorney general's office to take legal action against the provident American Trust Co., the Legal Guaranty Life Insurance Co., and the Provident American Life Insurance Co.

Jones filed suit and District Judge Charles O. Betts Friday issued a temporary restraining order halting operations of the three Fort Worth companies. The River Oaks bank was named defendant and Judge Betts ordered it restrained from "releasing, transferring, concealing, withdrawing, or in any manner affecting any assets" of the three companies on deposit with the bank.

It charged the Provident American Trust Co., "alias the Legal Guaranty Trust Co.," carried on "false, fraudulent and misleading representations" in soliciting funds from the public.

Floridian Fights Nine Officers In 30-Minute Melee

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Oct. 19 (AP)—A 245-pound man, held for the grand jury today in the fatal stabbing of his wife and two children, fought nine officers for 30 minutes today before they subdued him.

James G. Burmeister burst violently from his usual calm when officers prepared to take him from city jail to the county jail at Clearwater. He had been quiet since his arrest Wednesday and throughout a preliminary hearing today, which resulted in the order to transfer him to county jail to await action of the grand jury.

Awakened from a nap, he offered no resistance when he was handcuffed to two officers, one for each wrist. When they tried to take him to a patrol car, he began to fight.

It took nine policemen half an hour to get him down, put on two sets of cuffs, leg irons and leather straps around his legs, arms and waist.

He had pleaded innocent at the hearing.

"In the name of the Lord it is the truth I'm not guilty," Burmeister told Magistrate M. Kissinger.

The power company lineman, who stands 6 feet 2 and weighs 245 pounds, also told of seeing "white hooded men lurking around my house."

But he had nothing to say when Patrolman Robert Stokes testified Burmeister opened the door to him Wednesday morning and said, "I just killed my wife and two children."

Stokes was called to the Burmeister home by neighbors who heard Mrs. Burmeister screaming for help.

Dr. E. R. Koontz, county medical examiner, testified there were 93 stab wounds from a Marine combat knife in the bodies of Mrs. Burmeister, 32, James Jr., 3, and Marilyn, 9 months.

Burmeister, 28, had been under psychiatric treatment for several months.

Long Blasts GOP In Florida Talks

PALATKA, Fla., Oct. 19 (AP) — Sen. Russell Long (D-La) told audiences here today the Republicans are "enjoying an Easter egg hunt for golden eggs."

Last night he told an audience at Daytona Beach the GOP tax relief bill of 1953 was a "rich man's Easter egg hunt for golden eggs."

These were two of a number of political talks he made in this general central area of Florida.

Long told his listeners here the Republicans are "milking the South for its votes" while Democrats and States Righters are struggling to see who can win the Nov. 6 election.

At Daytona Beach he said "the voters can see for themselves after four years the Democratic Party at its worst is far better than the GOP at its best."

TRAPPED — Still able to smile although trapped in the wreckage of his overturned auto, V. J. Taylor, 32, of Fort Worth, Tex., waits for rescue workers to free him near Denison, Texas. Dumaine Denies Threats On Life In Graft Probe

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 19 — Police Lt. Louis Dumaine today denied any threats were made against his life after he testified he took part in a police graft system.

Police Supt. Provosty A. Dayries said previously the police department was giving the veteran of 26 years on the force and his family full protection after Dumaine received threats.

The superintendent said Dumaine came to him after receiving several threats, but he did not say they were against the officer's life.

Dumaine, commander of a platoon of policemen, testified recently in the trial of former Capt. Edwin H. Sbisa Sr., found guilty of malfeasance by allowing a graft system to operate under him. Six other policemen and former policemen gave similar testimony.

Gas Well Blaze Blows Itself Out

CAPLEN, Tex., Oct. 19 (UP)—A gas well fire that resisted the efforts of firemen for nearly 24 hours blew itself out Friday. The blaze had seriously burned three workers.

The well spewed flames 150 miles into the air. Thursday night it lit up the sky for miles around.

Firemen were trying to cap the well when it blew sand and salt water up out of the ground. The sand and water put out the fire.

Reported in good condition were Theo Waller, 50, of Shepperd; J.T. Knight, 58, of Cleveland; and J. H. Street, 30, of Cold Springs. They were burned Thursday.

Kidnap, Assault Trials Of White Men Postponed

MAGNOLIA, Miss., Oct. 19 (AP) — The rape and kidnap trials of three white men charged in connection with the abduction of a teen-aged Negro girl were postponed today until the March term of circuit court.

Judge Tom Brady granted the continuance on the grounds that a news story in The McComb Enterprise-Journal might render difficult the selection of a jury and because a fourth man, undergoing a sanity examination would be unable to testify as a witness during this term of court.

The three men were returned to Pike County jail where they have been held without bond since the May 13 incident.

They are Ollie Dillon, 44-year-old Tylertown man, charged with kidnap and Duroa Duncan and his 21-year-old cousin, Olen Duncan, both of Tylertown, charged with kidnap and rape.

Detective Held On Drug Charges

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Oct. 19 (UP)—Alfredo Gil Villegas, a 33-year-old Mexican detective from Matamoros, just across the Rio Grande from Brownsville, was charged Friday with bringing $27,000 worth of marijuana across the international bridge to Brownsville.

Villegas was held in lieu of $5,000 bond. Customs agents charged he had the refined marijuana in a seed bag under the hood of his truck when he drove across the bridge.

Statue Of White Poses Dilemma At U.S. Capitol

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (Special) —The bronze statue of Louisiana's Edward Douglass White, late chief justice of the U. S. Supreme Court has become an unwanted stepchild in the capitol rotunda.

Due to Louisiana's failure to provide the estimated $175 which the move would cost the statue has not been taken to its permanent location in the Senate connecting corridor. Under the law covering placement of statues in the capitol, the state must pay for such costs.

The architect of the capitol has received letters of complaint because the statue of Chief Justice White has remained so long in the rotunda. For the most part, only statues of presidents are permanently located there.

As a matter of fact, the money likely would have already been in the hands of the architect if the Edward Douglass White Memorial commission had known that this expense must be met. However, following dedication of the statue June 17, 1955, the commission thought its duties were ended and returned remaining funds to the state legislature, according to Will Chandler, secretary to Rep. Edwin Willis. Willis represents the third district, in which White resided.

Not long afterward, Judge Sam A. LeBlanc of Napoleonville, retired member of the state supreme court, who was commission chairman, died.

In May the architect's office decided to move the statue to a permanent location. Generally new statues are placed temporarily in the rotunda for a short period and then located elsewhere.

Site chosen for Chief Justice White's statue, the northwest corner of the Senate connecting corridor, fittingly will allow the statue to face toward the old Supreme Court chamber where the Louisianian presided.

A spokesman for the architect's office said, "We would be very happy if we could move the statue to its proper place." He said a rope has been placed around the statue to indicate that it was temporarily in the rotunda.

80 Charged For Evasion Of Tax

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 19 (UP) —Charges were filed Friday against 80 Harris county motorists accused of registering their automobiles outside the county to avoid payment of a special tax.

Twenty-nine other car owners had been charged last week. Officials said at least 7,500 motorists would eventually be charged and also forced to re-register their cars.

BE SURE YOU HAVE COMPLETE AUTO INSURANCE

Present insureds of member agents of the Ouachita Association of Insurance Agents Inc. will not have to take any action on their outstanding policies prior to renewal in order to obtain the broadened coverage of liability, medical payments, and physical damage insurance which is afforded under the new policy. They will be automatically covered at no additional cost.

Here's how the FAMILY AUTOMOBILE POLICY affords broader coverage than present standard basic automobile policies.—

BODILY INJURY AND PROPERTY DAMAGE LIABILITY

1. The named insured and the spouse, resident in the same household, are afforded coverage for non-owned automobiles furnished for their regular use.
2. All relatives of the named insured or spouse who are resident in the same household are included as insureds with respect to private passenger automobiles not owned by or not regularly furnished for the use of the relatives.
3. Coverage is correspondingly broadened for persons or organizations legally responsible for the use of cars not owned or hired by them which are furnished for the regular use of the named insured and spouse and to the same extent for private passenger cars and trailers not regularly furnished for the use of relatives of the named insured or spouse who are residents of the same household.
4. Every resident of the same household as the named insured is included as an insured with respect to an owned automobile even without permission from the named insured or spouse.
5. There is no exclusion as to liability assumed under any contract or agreement.
6. Coverage is automatically afforded for all private passenger automobiles, "utility" cars and trailers owned by the named insured or spouse during the policy period.
7. Bodily injury and property damage liability coverages are on an "occurrence" basis rather than an "accident" basis.

EXPENSES FOR MEDICAL SERVICES

8. Any person is covered who sustains bodily injury arising out of the operation or occupancy of non-owned automobiles which are furnished for regular use to the named insured or spouse.
9. All occupants of a non-owned private passenger automobile or trailer other than the named insured and spouse and relatives resident in the same household, are covered when bodily injury to them results from a relative's operation or occupancy of such a vehicle when it is not furnished for regular use to the relative.

PHYSICAL DAMAGE

10. Comprehensive coverage, which insures the automobile against fire, lightning, theft, wind, flood, etc. is broadened in five ways. First, it provides insurance when the policyholder uses another private passenger automobile not owned by him. Second, it pays for damage to tires due to malicious mischief and vandalism. Third, it pays the cost of returning a recovered stolen automobile to the owner or to the address shown in the policy. Fourth, it provides $100 fire and lightning insurance on robes, wearing apparel and other personal effects. Fifth, it provides more liberalized transportation expenses in an amount of $150 when the automobile is stolen.
11. It is no longer necessary to report the existence of a bailment lease, conditional sale, purchase agreement, mortgage or other encumbrance.
12. The time allotted the policyholder for filing proof of loss has been extended from 60 days to 91 days.
13. The borrower of an insured automobile is protected against legal action by the owner's insuring company for damage that occurs while the automobile is in the borrower's possession.
14. The family automobile policy provides for the settlement of any loss on a borrowed automobile either with the insured or the owner of a borrowed car.
15. The policy affords coverage on a borrowed utility type trailer up to a limit of $500.
16. The insurance provided when the policyholder uses another private passenger automobile not owned by him has been broadened for all coverages, including towing and labor costs; to provide insurance when the borrower permits another to use the vehicle; to protect the borrower for the amount of the difference when his insurance has a smaller deductible than the owner's policy; and to cover a private passenger automobile borrowed from an automobile sales agency, service station or parking lot operator.
17. The assignment provision of the policy has been amended so that in the event of the death of the named insured the surviving spouse will continue as the named insured and provision has been added to cover his legal representative as named insured while acting in the scope of his duties and to cover any person having proper temporary custody of an owned automobile until the appointment and qualification of such legal representative.

The FAMILY AUTOMOBILE POLICY— a shorter and simpler insurance contract designed exclusively to insure the family car.

Third Secretary Of Negro Solon Is Found Guilty

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP) — Another of Rep. Adam Clayton Powell's secretaries was convicted today of cheating on his income tax. He is Acy Lennon, 53, of New York.

A federal court jury took 25 hours to convict Lennon on four of six counts of evading $4,210 in income taxes from 1949 through 1954. He was accused of claiming two ficticious sons as dependents.

Lennon's bail was fixed as $5,000 pending appeal. He is scheduled for sentencing Monday. The maximum is 20 years and $40,000 in fines.

The 340-pound Negro was among three aides of the Democratic congressman from Harlem who were indicted on income tax charges. One of them, William J. Hampton, was indicted with Lennon in 1955 but has not been brought to trial.

Another former secretary of Powell's, Hattie Freeman Dodson, 47 - year - old Negro, is serving seven months in jail for a $7,000 tax gyp. Powell testified at Lennon's trial and he did at Mrs. Dodson's.

The Negro congressman last week announced that he supporting President Eisenhower for reelection on the Republican ticket. As a Democrat, Powell had supported Adlai E. Stevenson in 1952.

Six New York Negro Democratic leaders claimed Powell switched allegiance because of pressure from the White House in connection with the tax difficulties of his staff members.

Powell called this "a complete lie." He said his switch was based on Eisenhower's views on school desegregation and the failure of Stevenson to meet with Powell to discuss the issue. Eisenhower's press secretary, James C. Hagerty, also called the pressure charges "completely false."

Young Democrats At Dallas Backing NAACP's Drive

DALLAS, Tex., Oct. 19 (UP)—The Dallas county Young Democratic Club went on record Friday in favor of the effort by the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People to get Texas public schools desegregated.

Club President Doyle King said the group also passed a resolution backing the NAACP's fight against an effort by Attorney General John Ben Shepperd to put it out of business in Texas.

The club voted to help "in preparation, financing and presentment of legal actions" by Dallas county Negroes to end segregation in public schools.

Lawyers Again In Squabble With Judge Laughlin

SAN DIEGO, Tex., Oct. 19 (UP)—Four South Texas lawyers who have been jailed twice in a running feud with Judge C. Woodrow Laughlin of the 79th district were free again Friday while their case went through a new appeal.

The four — Luther Jones of Corpus Christi, O. C. Carrillo of Benavides, Werner Gohmert of Alice and Gerald Weatherly of Laredo—have been associated at one time or another with the battery of lawyers representing political boss George Parr.

Laughlin cited them for contempt when they and other attorneys elected Gohmert as special 79th district judge during Laughlin's August vacation. They were jailed for a short period at that time and then freed on bond.

Thursday they spent nearly seven hours in the Duval county jail here. They were released on $1,000 bond each after the State Criminal Court of Appeals granted them a writ of habeas corpus pending their appeal.

Criminal Charges In Bank Collapse Looming In Texas

FORT WORTH, Tex., Oct. 19 (UP)—The state made its first official allegation of crime Friday in connection with the collapse of the River Oaks State Bank in Fort Worth last Monday.

The charge, coming amid reports that oil speculation, a "beautiful blonde," poker games with $10,000 in the pot, and golf at $100 a hole played parts in the failure, was that the Provident American Trust Co. sold stock illegally.

The bank collapsed when a $500,000 to $700,000 shortage was discovered.

The charge of criminal law violation came from Robert C. Duke, acting securities chief in the secretary of state's office. He said the company, linked financially with the River Oaks bank, did not obtain a permit to sell stock after a new law became effective Sept. 6.

"Any stock sale after that date would be a criminal violation punishable by a $1,000 fine and up to two years in prison," Duke said. "We have turned the matter over to the attorney general's office for legal action."

Assistant Attorney General Fred Jones said an investigation which the securities unit has conducted in Fort Worth and other areas showed sales were made in the last month.

The Texas Insurance Commission asked the attorney general's office to take legal action against the provident American Trust Co., the Legal Guaranty Life Insurance Co., and the Provident American Life Insurance Co.

Jones filed suit and District Judge Charles O. Betts Friday issued a temporary restraining order halting operations of the three Fort Worth companies. The River Oaks bank was named defendant and Judge Betts ordered it restrained from "releasing, transferring, concealing, withdrawing, or in any manner affecting any assets" of the three companies on deposit with the bank.

It charged the Provident American Trust Co., "alias the Legal Guaranty Trust Co.," carried on "false, fraudulent and misleading representations" in soliciting funds from the public.

Floridian Fights Nine Officers In 30-Minute Melee

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Oct. 19 (AP)—A 245-pound man, held for the grand jury today in the fatal stabbing of his wife and two children, fought nine officers for 30 minutes today before they subdued him.

James G. Burmeister burst violently from his usual calm when officers prepared to take him from city jail to the county jail at Clearwater. He had been quiet since his arrest Wednesday and throughout a preliminary hearing today, which resulted in the order to transfer him to county jail to await action of the grand jury.

Awakened from a nap, he offered no resistance when he was handcuffed to two officers, one for each wrist. When they tried to take him to a patrol car, he began to fight.

It took nine policemen half an hour to get him down, put on two sets of cuffs, leg irons and leather straps around his legs, arms and waist.

He had pleaded innocent at the hearing.

"In the name of the Lord it is the truth I'm not guilty," Burmeister told Magistrate M. Kissinger.

The power company lineman, who stands 6 feet 2 and weighs 245 pounds, also told of seeing "white hooded men lurking around my house."

But he had nothing to say when Patrolman Robert Stokes testified Burmeister opened the door to him Wednesday morning and said, "I just killed my wife and two children."

Stokes was called to the Burmeister home by neighbors who heard Mrs. Burmeister screaming for help.

Dr. E. R. Koontz, county medical examiner, testified there were 93 stab wounds from a Marine combat knife in the bodies of Mrs. Burmeister, 32, James Jr., 3, and Marilyn, 9 months.

Burmeister, 28, had been under psychiatric treatment for several months.

Long Blasts GOP In Florida Talks

Last night he told an audience at Daytona Beach the GOP tax relief bill of 1953 was a "rich man's Easter egg hunt for golden eggs."

These were two of a number of political talks he made in this general central area of Florida.

Long told his listeners here the Republicans are "milking the South for its votes' while Democrats and States Righters are struggling to see who can win the Nov. 6 election.

At Daytona Beach he said "the voters can see for themselves after four years the Democratic Party at its worst is far better than the GOP at its best."

TRAPPED — Still able to smile although trapped in the wreckage of his overturned auto, V. J. Taylor, 32, of Fort Worth, Tex., waits for rescue workers to free him near Denison, Texas. Taylor, who told police he was forced off the road by another auto, remained in the wreckage for over an hour before freed. He suffered several broken ribs and minor cuts. (AP Wirephoto)

Dumaine Denies Threats On Life In Graft Probe

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 19 — Police Lt. Louis Dumaine today denied any threats were made against his life after he testified he took part in a police graft system.

Police Supt. Provosty A. Dayries said previously the police department was giving the veteran of 26 years on the force and his family full protection after Dumaine received threats.

The superintendent said Dumaine came to him after receiving several threats, but he did not say they were against the officer's life.

Dumaine, commander of a platoon of policemen, testified recently in the trial of former Capt. Edwin H. Sbisa Sr., found guilty of malfeasance by allowing a graft system to operate under him. Six other policemen and former policemen gave similar testimony.

Gas Well Blaze Blows Itself Out

CAPLEN, Tex., Oct. 19 (UP)—A gas well fire that resisted the efforts of firemen for nearly 24 hours blew itself out Friday. The blaze had seriously burned three workers.

The well spewed flames 150 miles into the air. Thursday night it lit up the sky for miles around.

Firemen were trying to cap the well when it blew sand and salt water up out of the ground. The sand and water put out the fire.

Reported in good condition were Theo Waller, 50, of Shepperd; J.T. Knight, 58, of Cleveland; and J. H. Street, 30, of Cold Springs. They were burned Thursday.

Kidnap, Assault Trials Of White Men Postponed

MAGNOLIA, Miss., Oct. 19 (AP) — The rape and kidnap trials of three white men charged in connection with the abduction of a teen-aged Negro girl were postponed today until the March term of circuit court.

Judge Tom Brady granted the continuance on the grounds that a news story in The McComb Enterprise-Journal might render difficult the selection of a jury and because a fourth man, undergoing a sanity examination would be unable to testify as a witness during this term of court.

The three men were returned to Pike County jail where they have been held without bond since the May 13 incident.

They are Ollie Dillon, 44-year-old Tylertown man, charged with kidnap and Duroa Duncan and his 21-year-old cousin, Olen Duncan, both of Tylertown, charged with kidnap and rape.

Detective Held On Drug Charges

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., Oct. 19 (UP)—Alfredo Gil Villegas, a 33-year-old Mexican detective from Matamoros, just across the Rio Grande from Brownsville, was charged Friday with bringing $27,000 worth of marijuana across the international bridge to Brownsville.

Villegas was held in lieu of $5,000 bond. Customs agents charged he had the refined marijuana in a seed bag under the hood of his truck when he drove across the bridge.

Statue Of White Poses Dilemma At U.S. Capitol

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (Special)—The bronze statue of Louisiana's Edward Douglass White, late chief justice of the U. S. Supreme Court has become an unwanted stepchild in the capitol rotunda.

Due to Louisiana's failure to provide the estimated $175 which the move would cost the statue has not been taken to its permanent location in the Senate connecting corridor. Under the law covering placement of statues in the capitol, the state must pay for such costs.

The architect of the capitol has received letters of complaint because the statue of Chief Justice White has remained so long in the rotunda. For the most part, only statues of presidents are permanently located there.

As a matter of fact, the money likely would have already been in the hands of the architect if the Edward Douglass White Memorial commission had known that this expense must be met. However, following dedication of the statue June 17, 1955, the commission thought its duties were ended and returned remaining funds to the state legislature, according to Will Chandler, secretary to Rep. Edwin Willis. Willis represents the third district, in which White resided.

Not long afterward, Judge Sam A. LeBlanc of Napoleonville, retired member of the state supreme court, who was commission chairman, died.

In May the architect's office decided to move the statue to a permanent location. Generally new statues are placed temporarily in the rotunda for a short period and then located elsewhere.

Site chosen for Chief Justice White's statue, the northwest corner of the Senate connecting corridor, fittingly will allow the statue to face toward the old Supreme Court chamber where the Louisianian presided.

A spokesman for the architect's office said, "We would be very happy if we could move the statue to its proper place." He said a rope has been placed around the statue to indicate that it was temporarily in the rotunda.

80 Charged For Evasion Of Tax

HOUSTON, Tex., Oct. 19 (UP)—Charges were filed Friday against 80 Harris county motorists accused of registering their automobiles outside the county to avoid payment of a special tax.

Twenty-nine other car owners had been charged last week. Officials said at least 7,500 motorists would eventually be charged and also forced to re-register their cars.

BE SURE YOU HAVE COMPLETE AUTO INSURANCE

Present insureds of member agents of the Ouachita Association of Insurance Agents Inc. will not have to take any action on their outstanding policies prior to renewal in order to obtain the broadened coverage of liability, medical payments, and physical damage insurance which is afforded under the new policy. They will be automatically covered at no additional cost.

Here's how the FAMILY AUTOMOBILE POLICY affords broader coverage than present standard basic automobile policies.—

BODILY INJURY AND PROPERTY DAMAGE LIABILITY

1. The named insured and the spouse, resident in the same household, are afforded coverage for non-owned automobiles furnished for their regular use.
2. All relatives of the named insured or spouse who are resident in the same household are included as insureds with respect to private passenger automobiles not owned by or not regularly furnished for the use of the relatives.
3. Coverage is correspondingly broadened for persons or organizations legally responsible for the use of cars not owned or hired by them which are furnished for the regular use of the named insured and spouse and to the same extent for private passenger cars and trailers not regularly furnished for the use of relatives of the named insured or spouse who are residents of the same household.
4. Every resident of the same household as the named insured is included as an insured with respect to an owned automobile even without permission from the named insured or spouse.
5. There is no exclusion as to liability assumed under any contract or agreement.
6. Coverage is automatically afforded for all private passenger automobiles, "utility" cars and trailers owned by the named insured or spouse during the policy period.
7. Bodily injury and property damage liability coverages are on an "occurrence" basis rather than an "accident" basis.

EXPENSES FOR MEDICAL SERVICES

8. Any person is covered who sustains bodily injury arising out of the operation or occupancy of non-owned automobiles which are furnished for regular use to the named insured or spouse.
9. All occupants of a non-owned private passenger automobile or trailer other than the named insured and spouse and relatives resident in the same household, are covered when bodily injury to them results from a relative's operation or occupancy of such a vehicle when it is not furnished for regular use to the relative.

PHYSICAL DAMAGE

10. Comprehensive coverage, which insures the automobile against fire, lightning, theft, wind, flood, etc. is broadened in five ways. First, it provides insurance when the policyholder uses another private passenger automobile not owned by him. Second, it pays for damage to tires due to malicious mischief and vandalism. Third, it pays the cost of returning a recovered stolen automobile to the owner or to the address shown in the policy. Fourth, it provides $100 fire and lightning insurance on robes, wearing apparel and other personal effects. Fifth, it provides more liberalized transportation expenses in an amount of $150 when the automobile is stolen.
11. It is no longer necessary to report the existence of a bailment lease, conditional sale, purchase agreement, mortgage or other encumbrance.
12. The time allotted the policyholder for filing proof of loss has been extended from 60 days to 91 days.
13. The borrower of an insured automobile is protected against legal action by the owner's insuring company for damage that occurs while the automobile is in the borrower's possession.
14. The family automobile policy provides for the settlement of any loss on a borrowed automobile either with the insured or the owner of a borrowed car.
15. The policy affords coverage on a borrowed utility type trailer up to a limit of $500.
16. The insurance provided when the policyholder uses another private passenger automobile not owned by him has been broadened for all coverages, including towing and labor costs; to provide insurance when the borrower permits another to use the vehicle; to protect the borrower for the amount of the difference when his insurance has a smaller deductible than the owner's policy; and to cover a private passenger automobile borrowed from an automobile sales agency, service station or parking lot operator.
17. The assignment provision of the policy has been amended so that in the event of the death of the named insured the surviving spouse will continue as the named insured and provision has been added to cover his legal representative as named insured while acting in the scope of his duties and to cover any person having proper temporary custody of an owned automobile until the appointment and qualification of such legal representative.

The FAMILY AUTOMOBILE POLICY— a shorter and simpler insurance contract designed exclusively to insure the family car.

Catholic Pupils Ordered To End 'Steady Dating' At Lynn, Mass., School

LYNN, Mass., Oct. 19 (UP)—One thousand pupils at co-ed St. Mary's (Catholic) High School were given strict orders Friday to break off "going steady" because long romantic attachments lead to sin and forced marriages.

The edict was issued by Monsignor Joseph McGlinchey, school principal, who said steady dating among teenagers was "a menace to the purity of our youth."

The priest said in a letter to parents "we emphasize that going steady is, or can become, the occasion of serious sin. . .and forced marriages."

Pupils who continue to date one another steadily will be barred from holding office in student organizations or positions of honor or leadership, including membership on athletic teams and cheerleading.

Msgr. McGlinchey said the ban over what had led to the sudden restriction on romance.

One youth was reported to have left the school recently after having been hailed on the carpet for persistent steady dating. But school officials declined to comment on the incident.

A prominent Boston psychiatrist, who requested that his name be withheld, agreed school officials should discourage establishment of permanent ties among teenagers, but he felt it was wrong to put it on a disciplinary basis.

"An enforced ban might tend to make it more attractive," he told the United Press. "At this period in their lives, teenagers are in a state of turmoil and will rebel against any strict regulation of their behavior."

The psychiatrist said he had found in similar situations the best approach was group discussion of the problem and to have the pupils themselves decide on the injurious effects of arbitrarily limiting the scope of their acquaintanceship by dating one person for a long period.

The Pilot, official publication of the Boston archdiocese, backed Msgr. McGlinchey and recommended an "examination of conscience" by parents who allowed their children to keep company consistently.

Boston public school Superintendent Dennis C. Haley supported the stand of Msgr. McGlinchey as "admirable." He said steady dating "so often leads to serious trouble, interferes with good school work. . ." and robs teenagers of the "finer experiences of growing up."

Lead Reported In Search For 2 Area Youths

JONESBORO, Oct 19 (Special)—Jackson parish sheriff Lloyd Bryant reported Friday night a "substantial lead" in the two-week old search for a pair of Hodge youths.

Sheriff Bryant disclosed that one of the missing youths—Johnny Doyle Hays, 15 —had written a letter to his sister in Hodge, which she received this morning.

Hay's letter was postmarked St. Louis, and said that he and his cousin Bobby Anders, 16, "had good jobs in St. Louis and would be home in about a month or so."

The two lads have been missing since October 4, when they were last seen at a service station around 9 p.m. They took a number of items from the Anders' home and left in the Anders' automobile without a word to relatives.

Sheriff Bryant has asked St. Louis police to pick up the youths and hold them until someone from his office can come and get them.

COME AND GET IT—Auto owners who happened to be driving along the Willow Run Expressway near Ypsilanti, Mich., got an unexpected bonanza when this truck, loaded with 1,700 gallons of permament anti-freeze, sprung a leak after blowing a tire. Passersby marshalled containers of all kinds and helped themselves, encouraged by the driver, Ray E. Flores, who was taking the load to the Ford Motor Company. (AP Wirephoto.)

Divorce Granted To Man Who Shot Wife And Suitor

COLLINS, Miss., Oct. 19 (AP) — Chancellor James Patterson granted a divorce yesterday to a man who said he shot his wife and a neighbor in "the act of adultery" May 23.

Patterson granted the divorce without alimony or payment of hospital bills to Luther T. Magee, 56-year-old Mount Olive cattle buyer, after he testified he found his wife and Robertson Grubbs in an act of adultery near his home.

Magee was not indicted for the shooting which resulted in the wounding of Mrs. Magee and Grubbs in the legs and feet.

Mrs. Magee denied the adultery charge.

Magee said he did not remember anything about the shooting except that he told the wounded couple he would summon an ambulance.

The cattle buyer said an unidentified friend suggested he watch his wife and Grubbs at specific times.

Magee left his home early on the pretext of leaving town. Instead, he said, he hid until he saw Grubbs and his wife leave and followed them to a wood.

Kefauver Offers Commendation On Nevada Gambling

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Oct. 19 (UP)—Estes Kefauver, who had found fault with Nevada's legalized gambling as head of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee in 1950, Friday praised the state for cleaning out gangsters from its gaming industry.

The Democratic vice presidental candidate still made it clear that he personally was against gambling on a national scale but said Nevada was entitled to have legal gambling if it desired as a sovereign state.

The senator appeared at a press conference with Mayor C. D. Baker, Sen. Alan Bible (D-Nev.) and Former Rep. Walter Baring of Nevada. Although he came here to deliver a new blast at President Eisenhower for his opposition to ending hydrogen bomb tests, the talk quickly turned to the gambling issue.

Kefauver said he felt Nevada had taken "many affirmative steps" towards strengthening its gaming laws.

"Many, if not all, of the situations we found here have been cleaned up," he said. "The laws are much better, stricter and tighter."

He insisted that gambling was strictly a state matter and that the federal government should have nothing to do with it. He pointed out that he never believed that Nevada's gambling was an interstate issue and said he had voted against a federal tax of $250 a year on slot machines because he felt it gave "some federal sanction" to the gambling devices.

In anticipation he would be questioned about gambling, Kefauver came armed with a prepared statement.

"I have consistently opposed gambling on a national scale and I shall not deviate from this conviction," he read to reporters. "However, I am a firm believer in the right of each sovereign state and its citizens to determine for themselves what is proper and legal business. Although I might personaly differ, I recognize Nevada is privileged to conduct its own affairs.

Negro Charged In Slaying Ex-Mate In Mississippi

MCCOMB, Miss., Oct. 19 (AP) — County Atty. Joe Pigott said a Negro man and woman today admitted shooting the woman's former husband and he filed murder charges against them.

Pike County Sheriff Bill Andrews identified the dead man as Sam Barnes, 40-year-old Bogue Chitto Negro who tended a boiler at the W. H. Lamb Lumber Co. sawmill. He said Barnes died of gunshot wounds in the chest and hip.

The sheriff identified the womas as Alberta Barnes, 41, and the man as Roosevelt Dillon, 48, both of Lincoln County.

He said Dillon drove the automobile that carried the Barnes woman to the sawmill where the boiler tender was shot to death Wednesday night.

A white couple who live nearby, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Henley, reported seeing an automobile resembling Dillon's parked at the sawmill.

Mrs. Henley said she saw gun flashes and heard shots from the vehicle and then saw Barnes stagger back to fall dead as the car roared away.

Dillon told the sheriff the Barnes woman asked him to drive her to the sawmill so she could deliver a message to Barnes from their daughter.

When they arrived, Dillon said, the woman called Barnes to the car and shot him.

Catholic Pupils Ordered To End 'Steady Dating' At Lynn, Mass., School

LYNN, Mass., Oct. 19 (UP)—One thousand pupils at co-ed St. Mary's (Catholic) High School were given strict orders Friday to break off "going steady" because long romantic attachments lead to sin and forced marriages.

The edict was issued by Monsignor Joseph McGlinchey, school principal, who said steady dating among teenagers was "a menace to the purity of our youth."

The priest said in a letter to parents "we emphasize that going steady is, or can become, the occasion of serious sin. . .and forced marriages."

Pupils who continue to date one another steadily will be barred from holding office in student organizations or positions of honor or leadership, including membership on athletic teams and cheerleading.

Msgr. McGlinchey said the ban over what had led to the sudden restriction on romance.

One youth was reported to have left the school recently after having been hailed on the carpet for persistent steady dating. But school officials declined to comment on the incident.

A prominent Boston psychiatrist, who requested that his name be withheld, agreed school officials should discourage establishment of permanent ties among teenagers, but he felt it was wrong to put it on a disciplinary basis.

"An enforced ban might tend to make it more attractive," he told the United Press. "At this period in their lives, teenagers are in a state of turmoil and will rebel against any strict regulation of their behavior."

The psychiatrist said he had found in similar situations the best approach was group discussion of the problem and to have the pupils themselves decide on the injurious effects of arbitrarily limiting the scope of their acquaintanceship by dating one person for a long period.

The Pilot, official publication of the Boston archdiocese, backed Msgr. McGlinchey and recommended an "examination of conscience" by parents who allowed their children to keep company consistently.

Boston public school Superintendent Dennis C. Haley supported the stand of Msgr. McGlinchey as "admirable." He said steady dating "so often leads to serious trouble, interferes with good school work. . ." and robs teenagers of the "finer experiences of growing up."

Lead Reported In Search For 2 Area Youths

JONESBORO, Oct 19 (Special)—Jackson parish sheriff Lloyd Bryant reported Friday night a "substantial lead" in the two-week old search for a pair of Hodge youths.

Sheriff Bryant disclosed that one of the missing youths—Johnny Doyle Hays, 15 —had written a letter to his sister in Hodge, which she received this morning.

Hay's letter was postmarked St. Louis, and said that he and his cousin Bobby Anders, 16, "had good jobs in St. Louis and would be home in about a month or so."

The two lads have been missing since October 4, when they were last seen at a service station around 9 p.m. They took a number of items from the Anders' home and left in the Anders' automobile without a word to relatives.

Sheriff Bryant has asked St. Louis police to pick up the youths and hold them until someone from his office can come and get them.

COME AND GET IT—Auto owners who happened to be driving along the Willow Run Expressway near Ypsilanti, Mich., got an unexpected bonanza when this truck, loaded with 1,700 gallons of permament anti-freeze, sprung a leak after blowing a tire. Passersby marshalled containers of all kinds and helped themselves, encouraged by the driver, Ray E. Flores, who was taking the load to the Ford Motor Company. (AP Wirephoto.)

Divorce Granted To Man Who Shot Wife And Suitor

COLLINS, Miss., Oct. 19 (AP) — Chancellor James Patterson granted a divorce yesterday to a man who said he shot his wife and a neighbor in "the act of adultery" May 23.

Patterson granted the divorce without alimony or payment of hospital bills to Luther T. Magee, 56-year-old Mount Olive cattle buyer, after he testified he found his wife and Robertson Grubbs in an act of adultery near his home.

Magee was not indicted for the shooting which resulted in the wounding of Mrs. Magee and Grubbs in the legs and feet.

Mrs. Magee denied the adultery charge.

Magee said he did not remember anything about the shooting except that he told the wounded couple he would summon an ambulance.

The cattle buyer said an unidentified friend suggested he watch his wife and Grubbs at specific times.

Magee left his home early on the pretext of leaving town. Instead, he said, he hid until he saw Grubbs and his wife leave and followed them to a wood.

Kefauver Offers Commendation On Nevada Gambling

LAS VEGAS, Nev., Oct. 19 (UP)—Estes Kefauver, who had found fault with Nevada's legalized gambling as head of the Senate Crime Investigating Committee in 1950, Friday praised the state for cleaning out gangsters from its gaming industry.

The Democratic vice presidental candidate still made it clear that he personally was against gambling on a national scale but said Nevada was entitled to have legal gambling if it desired as a sovereign state.

The senator appeared at a press conference with Mayor C. D. Baker, Sen. Alan Bible (D-Nev.) and Former Rep. Walter Baring of Nevada. Although he came here to deliver a new blast at President Eisenhower for his opposition to ending hydrogen bomb tests, the talk quickly turned to the gambling issue.

Kefauver said he felt Nevada had taken "many affirmative steps" towards strengthening its gaming laws.

"Many, if not all, of the situations we found here have been cleaned up," he said. "The laws are much better, stricter and tighter."

He insisted that gambling was strictly a state matter and that the federal government should have nothing to do with it. He pointed out that he never believed that Nevada's gambling was an interstate issue and said he had voted against a federal tax of $250 a year on slot machines because he felt it gave "some federal sanction" to the gambling devices.

In anticipation he would be questioned about gambling, Kefauver came armed with a prepared statement.

"I have consistently opposed gambling on a national scale and I shall not deviate from this conviction," he read to reporters. "However, I am a firm believer in the right of each sovereign state and its citizens to determine for themselves what is proper and legal business. Although I might personaly differ, I recognize Nevada is privileged to conduct its own affairs.

"My activities in recent years have reflected my concern with the nationwide hoodlum and gangster elements. I know the people of Nevada have no more use for these elements than I have.

"Nevada has established stronger safeguards through state and local governments to prohibit criminal activities in the gaming industry, I am delighted at this progress and I have no fault to find with it."

Louisiana Folk Songs Are Topic For Fine Arts Club

During the recent meeting of the Fine Arts Club, with Mrs. Everette Lawson and Miss Cliffie Olmstead, hostesses, it was voted that the club donate $25 to the Twin City Symphony for a sustaining membership for the 1956-57 season. Three students, members of the bands of the High schools, Neville, Ouachita, St. Matthews and West Monroe, to receive complimentary memberships. These students chosen by the band directors of each school.

With the club study, "Art in Louisiana", the program topic for the evening was Folk Music. Mrs. J. Norman Coon served as program chairman and was assisted by Mrs. H. H. Douglas and Mrs. Wilbur Bullock, president of the club.

Mrs. Coon, who discussed the background and characteristics of folk music, quoted from Robert W. Gordon, curator of songs for the Library of Congress and said that American Folk Songs were greater in number than in any other country. Also that ballard making would continue as there would always be folks to sing them. The folk song is a song of the people and will live for generations. To be a true folk song it must be typical of the people who sing it.

Mrs. Douglas talked on Louisiana Folk Music. She named the types found in different sections of the state. Among them were Louisiana French songs, Cajun songs, and Creole songs. There are many of each type which have been preserved and are today available for study, programs and singing.

Vocal numbers heard on the program were presented by Ms. Coon, accompanied by Mrs. Lawson, and Wilbur Bullock, with Winnifred Mask, accompanist.

Present for the meeting were, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Dalton, Mrs. Jeraldine Carroll, Miss Ladelle Duke, Mr. and Mrs. Max Kulcke, Mrs. Everette Lawson, Dr. Harry Lemert, Mrs. Ray McGruder, Mrs. Henry Mayo, Mrs. Marie Minard, Mrs. Barney L. Mulhern, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Newman, Miss May Read, Mrs. Frank Seymour and Miss Eleona Brinsmade.

Kevin Foster Has Birthday

Kevin Foster, son of Dr. and Mrs. Edward M. Foster, celebrated his fourth birthday with a cowboy party at Bernstein Park Wednesday afternoon.

Ponies and a pony cart added merriment to the occasion. Centering the birthday table was a large square cake decorated with Roy Rogers and his dog, a corral and cowboys.

Quota Club Members Attend Conference

The eleventh annual conference of Quota club International Inc. of the 21st district, together with their husbands and guests are attending the convention in Baton Rouge Oct. 19-21.

Friday included registration, a Dutch lunch, tour of the city and state capitol. Friday night was a Louisiana hayride and plantation party.

Today, presidents breakfasts, formal opening of the conference, red stick luncheon, in the afternoon at 4:30 a tea at the governors mansion honoring the 21st district governor, Mrs. Helen Agnew, secretary - treasurer, Mrs. Taunton Veazey of Monroe, and other district officers. A formal dinner with Miss Naomi Rausch, Covington, the Abita Springs, as guest speaker.

Sunday, brunch and installation of officers and at noon the club will be guest of John Coburn of radio station WAFB, for a luncheon.

Hook Up Your Christmas Gift

Now is the time to put your knitting needles and crochet hooks to work on that Christmas gift list. Nothing is more appreciated than a hand-made gift, planned especially for someone you like. Needlework departments are full of suggestions for small, quick and easy accessories that you can make in a few hours, and make somebody happy on Christmas morning.

Any young girl would love one of the new crocheted caps or hoods so popular just now. They come in varius versions, are prettiest when done in furry white angora yarn, and can be completed in a couple of hours if you are handy with your crochet hooks. Especially beguiling are two new styles: a head-hugging cap with a long knotted tassel of jumbo yarn hanging down the back; and a crocheted baby cap with a hole in back for a pony tail. tied under the chin with narrow black velvet ribbon.

Mrs. C. R. Wilder Is Hostess To Cadeville HDC

Mrs. C. R. Wilder was hostess to the Cadeville Home Demonstration club for their October meeting.

She gave an interesting demonstration on making and baking quick breads.

Mrs. C. White, president, presided over the meeting and announced that the club placed in the blue ribbon group on their agriculture booth at the fair.

New officers installed at the meeting were Mrs. W. O. Roberts, president; Mrs. C. D. Spillers, secretary - treasurer; Mrs. C. R. Wilder, general director; Mrs. C. D. Spillers, reporter.

All project leaders remained the same.

Reports were given by Mrs. White on house furnishings, and Miss Ola Golson, on safety.

The hostess served a refreshment course to Mrs. James Studivant, Mrs. I. P. Ray, Mrs. Morton Hubbard, Mrs. Lee Wilder, Mrs. J. R. Haynes, Mrs. T. A. Landrum, Mrs. C. White, Miss Ola Golson and a visitor, Mrs. Mickey Ferlicca.

PTA Carnival Claims Interest

The Georgia Tucker P.-T. A. held its annual carnival on Tuesday evening. Gaily colored pennants, the smell of cotton candy and of hot dogs gave a festive air to the occasion.

Among the many concessions were a merry-go-round, car rides, country store, fish pond and clown toss. In the cafeteria, a variety of foods were served throughout the evening.

Mrs. M. L. Snapp was carnival chairman.

Louisiana Folk Songs Are Topic For Fine Arts Club

During the recent meeting of the Fine Arts Club, with Mrs. Everette Lawson and Miss Cliffie Olmstead, hostesses, it was voted that the club donate $25 to the Twin City Symphony for a sustaining membership for the 1956-57 season. Three students, members of the bands of the High schools, Neville, Ouachita, St. Matthews and West Monroe, to receive complimentary memberships. These students chosen by the band directors of each school.

With the club study, "Art in Louisiana", the program topic for the evening was Folk Music. Mrs. J. Norman Coon served as program chairman and was assisted by Mrs. H. H. Douglas and Mrs. Wilbur Bullock, president of the club.

Mrs. Coon, who discussed the background and characteristics of folk music, quoted from Robert W. Gordon, curator of songs for the Library of Congress and said that American Folk Songs were greater in number than in any other country. Also that ballard making would continue as there would always be folks to sing them. The folk song is a song of the people and will live for generations. To be a true folk song it must be typical of the people who sing it.

Mrs. Douglas talked on Louisiana Folk Music. She named the types found in different sections of the state. Among them were Louisiana French songs, Cajun songs, and Creole songs. There are many of each type which have been preserved and are today available for study, programs and singing.

Vocal numbers heard on the program were presented by Ms. Coon, accompanied by Mrs. Lawson, and Wilbur Bullock, with Winnifred Mask, accompanist.

Present for the meeting were, Mr. and Mrs. Ed Dalton, Mrs. Jeraldine Carroll, Miss Ladelle Duke, Mr. and Mrs. Max Kulcke, Mrs. Everette Lawson, Dr. Harry Lemert, Mrs. Ray McGruder, Mrs. Henry Mayo, Mrs. Marie Minard, Mrs. Barney L. Mulhern, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Newman, Miss May Read, Mrs. Frank Seymour and Miss Eleona Brinsmade.

Kevin Foster Has Birthday

Kevin Foster, son of Dr. and Mrs. Edward M. Foster, celebrated his fourth birthday with a cowboy party at Bernstein Park Wednesday afternoon.

Ponies and a pony cart added merriment to the occasion. Centering the birthday table was a large square cake decorated with Roy Rogers and his dog, a corral and cowboys.

Quota Club Members Attend Conference

The eleventh annual conference of Quota club International Inc. of the 21st district, together with their husbands and guests are attending the convention in Baton Rouge Oct. 19-21.

Friday included registration, a Dutch lunch, tour of the city and state capitol. Friday night was a Louisiana hayride and plantation party.

Today, presidents breakfasts, formal opening of the conference, red stick luncheon, in the afternoon at 4:30 a tea at the governors mansion honoring the 21st district governor, Mrs. Helen Agnew, secretary - treasurer, Mrs. Taunton Veazey of Monroe, and other district officers. A formal dinner with Miss Naomi Rausch, Covington, the Abita Springs, as guest speaker.

Sunday, brunch and installation of officers and at noon the club will be guest of John Coburn of radio station WAFB, for a luncheon.

Hook Up Your Christmas Gift

Now is the time to put your knitting needles and crochet hooks to work on that Christmas gift list. Nothing is more appreciated than a hand-made gift, planned especially for someone you like. Needlework departments are full of suggestions for small, quick and easy accessories that you can make in a few hours, and make somebody happy on Christmas morning.

Any young girl would love one of the new crocheted caps or hoods so popular just now. They come in varius versions, are prettiest when done in furry white angora yarn, and can be completed in a couple of hours if you are handy with your crochet hooks. Especially beguiling are two new styles: a head-hugging cap with a long knotted tassel of jumbo yarn hanging down the back; and a crocheted baby cap with a hole in back for a pony tail, tied under the chin with narrow black velvet ribbon.

Mrs. C. R. Wilder Is Hostess To Cadeville HDC

Mrs. C. R. Wilder was hostess to the Cadeville Home Demonstration club for their October meeting.

She gave an interesting demonstration on making and baking quick breads.

Mrs. C. White, president, presided over the meeting and announced that the club placed in the blue ribbon group on their agriculture booth at the fair.

New officers installed at the meeting were Mrs. W. O. Roberts, president; Mrs. C. D. Spillers, secretary - treasurer; Mrs. C. R. Wilder, general director; Mrs. C. D. Spillers, reporter.

All project leaders remained the same.

Reports were given by Mrs. White on house furnishings, and Miss Ola Golson, on safety.

The hostess served a refreshment course to Mrs. James Studivant, Mrs. I. P. Ray, Mrs. Morton Hubbard, Mrs. Lee Wilder, Mrs. J. R. Haynes, Mrs. T. A. Landrum, Mrs. C. White, Miss Ola Golson and a visitor, Mrs. Mickey Ferlicca.

PTA Carnival Claims Interest

The Georgia Tucker P.-T. A. held its annual carnival on Tuesday evening. Gaily colored pennants, the smell of cotton candy and of hot dogs gave a festive air to the occasion.

Among the many concessions were a merry-go-round, car rides, country store, fish pond and clown toss. In the cafeteria, a variety of foods were served throughout the evening.

Mrs. M. L. Snapp was carnival chairman.

You can usually test whether a souffle is baked enough by inserting a silver knife halfway between the center and the outer edge of the dish; the knife should come out clean. This applies to souffles baked at a constant slow temperature.

Turning lamb chops or steaks under the broiler? Insert your fork in the fat, rather than the meaty parts, so juices won't run out.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

Build, Not Age, Should Determine Ideal Weight

A letter before me stimulates this column because it highlights a misconception many women have and suggests several bits of information my readers may find valuable.

"Dear Mrs. Lowman:

"I may have missed it but I have never read about weights for older women in your column. I am 47 years old, 5 feet, 6 inches, and weigh 128 pounds. My measurements are: bust 36, waist 30 and hips 37 inches. I have had six children."

There should be no special weight charts for older women. While it is true that the average woman gains weight as she grows older this is not desirable. Your ideal weight all through your life is the same as your ideal weight at the age of 25 or 30.

Maybe 5 Pounds More

You might allow yourself 5 pounds more when you are older for cosmetic reasons, but no more. These 5 pounds may be becoming in that they add some bloom to the face and would hardly damage figure or health.

Many people fail to take build into consideration when calculating what their weight should be. Well-qualified height and weight charts allow quite a difference between the ideal weight for a certain height, depending on whether the frame is small, medium, or large. The difference in poundage between the small frame and the heavy one may be as much as 10, 20 or more pounds. So think of your build when deciding what you should weigh.

Consider the development of your muscles also. A person with well-developed muscles, and without any extra fatty deposits may weigh more and look slimmer than she would if her body had less tone.

The woman who wrote the letter has a waistline which is out of proportion. This probably is due to lax abdominal muscles which resulted from her pregnancies. She should lose several inches from this measurement by taking abdominal exercises and watching her posture.

This can be a vicious circle. The muscles become weakened and this leads to poor posture, while poor posture, in turn increases the laxness as the years go by.

If you would like to have my abdominal exercises send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 2 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

The Register and Tribune Syndicate, 1956

Japan And Russia Sign Pact To Terminate War

MOSCOW, Oct. 19 (AP)—Japan and the Soviet Union signed a declaration today to end their 11-year state of war and agreed upon a formula to boost trade between the two countries.

Russia promised to support Japan's application for membership in the United Nations, gave a conditional pledge to return tiny Habomai and Shikotan islands and agreed to resumption of diplomatic relations.

In a trade protocol, each side granted the other most-favored-nation treatment. Under that formula each will give the other as good treatment as it gives any nation in customs duties and regulations governing exports and imports.

Izvestia, the Soviet government newspaper, said a five-year plan had been drawn up for an exchange of 76 million dollars worth of goods, a 30-fold increase, in the first year, and 320 million dollars worth the following year.

Izvestia said this would greatly ease Japan's economic difficulties. It attributed these to a "policy of embargo" under American leadership and said this embargo policy cut across Japan's "traditional commercial ties with the Soviet Union, China and East European countries."

The end-the-war declaration—a peace treaty—was signed in the Kremlin by Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov and by Japanese Premier Ichiro Hatoyama and Agriculture Minister Ichiro Kono after 16 months of negotiations.

Crippled and ailing 73-year-old Premier Hatoyama, who came here a week ago to wind up the negotiations, hailed the ceremony as putting a "happy end" to his campaign pledge last year to restore diplomatic relations between Russia and Japan.

Orleans Woman To Head Council For Handicapped

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 19 — The Louisiana Council for Handicapped Children today chose Mrs. Jacqueline Leonhard of New Orleans as its first president.

Mrs. Leonhard is executive director of the Louisiana chapter of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

Other officers included Edward J. Steimel of Baton Rouge, vice president; Dr. J. D. Russ of New Orleans, secretary, and Mrs. Edith Ross of Baton Rouge, director of the bureau of public assistance, State Department of Public Welfare, treasurer.

Some 150 persons attended the organizational conference.

Due to the development of new therapies 94 institutions devoted to care of tuberculosis patients in the U. S. were closed in the period between 1954 and June 1956, according to the National Tuberculosis Association.

Census Reports Show Louisiana Population Up

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (Special) — Louisiana's population rose by 9.3 per cent, above the national average, from April 1, 1950, to July 1, 1955, but still remained the nation's 21st most populous state.

According to a U.S. Census Bureau report released today, Louisiana's population climbed from 2,683,516 in 1950 to 2,934,000 last July 1. This was an increase of 250,000 persons.

Louisiana's estimated population of 2,934,000 included 25,000 servicemen. Due to the reopening of Fort Polk, and the subsequent stationing of thousands of troops there, the state's population undoubtedly would show a far greater increase if the estimate had been made this year.

The state's population has gone steadily upward. When an estimate was made on July 1, 1950, the state's total was 2,697,000. In April of the same year, it had been 2,683,516.

Here's how the state's population has grown over the past five years: 1950, 2,697,000; 1951, 2,762,000; 1952, 2,833,000; 1953, 2,871,000; 1954, 2,888,000, and 1955, 2,934,000.

Music Festival Is Postponed

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 19 (AP) — International House today announced the postponement of the first Inter-American Music Festival.

The festival had been scheduled in New Orleans for April, 1957. Officials planned to feature new music by composers of the Western Hemisphere.

International House, a privately-supported institution to promote trade and cultural relations between the Americas, said the festival would be rescheduled for 1958.

Richard G. Jones, president of International House, said the postponement was due to a lack of time for planning.

Well-qualified height and weight charts allow quite a difference between the ideal weight for a certain height, depending on whether the frame is small, medium, or large. The difference in poundage between the small frame and the heavy one may be as much as 10, 20 or more pounds. So think of your build when deciding what you should weigh.

Consider the development of your muscles also. A person with well-developed muscles, and without any extra fatty deposits may weigh more and look slimmer than she would if her body had less tone.

The woman who wrote the letter has a waistline which is out of proportion. This probably is due to lax abdominal muscles which resulted from her pregnancies. She should lose several inches from this measurement by taking abdominal exercises and watching her posture.

This can be a vicious circle. The muscles become weakened and this leads to poor posture, while poor posture, in turn increases the laxness as the years go by.

If you would like to have my abdominal exercises send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 2 to Josephine Lowman in care of this newspaper.

The Register and Tribune Syndicate, 1956

There should be no special weight charts for older women. Your ideal weight all through life is the same as your ideal weight at the age of 25 or 30.

Japan And Russia Sign Pact To Terminate War

MOSCOW, Oct. 19 (AP)—Japan and the Soviet Union signed a declaration today to end their 11-year state of war and agreed upon a formula to boost trade between the two countries.

Russia promised to support Japan's application for membership in the United Nations, gave a conditional pledge to return tiny Habomai and Shikotan islands and agreed to resumption of diplomatic relations.

In a trade protocol, each side granted the other most-favored-nation treatment. Under that formula each will give the other as good treatment as it gives any nation in customs duties and regulations governing exports and imports.

Izvestia, the Soviet government newspaper, said a five-year plan had been drawn up for an exchange of 76 million dollars worth of goods, a 30-fold increase, in the first year, and 320 million dollars worth the following year.

Izvestia said this would greatly ease Japan's economic difficulties. It attributed these to a "policy of embargo" under American leadership and said this embargo policy cut across Japan's "traditional commercial ties with the Soviet Union, China and East European countries."

The end-the-war declaration—a peace treaty—was signed in the Kremlin by Premier Nikolai Bulganin and Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov and by Japanese Premier Ichiro Hatoyama and Agriculture Minister Ichiro Kono after 16 months of negotiations.

Crippled and ailing 73-year-old Premier Hatoyama, who came here a week ago to wind up the negotiations, hailed the ceremony as putting a "happy end" to his campaign pledge last year to restore diplomatic relations between Russia and Japan.

Orleans Woman To Head Council For Handicapped

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 19 — The Louisiana Council for Handicapped Children today chose Mrs. Jacqueline Leonhard of New Orleans as its first president.

Mrs. Leonhard is executive director of the Louisiana chapter of the National Society for Crippled Children and Adults.

Other officers included Edward J. Steimel of Baton Rouge, vice president; Dr. J. D. Russ of New Orleans, secretary, and Mrs. Edith Ross of Baton Rouge, director of the bureau of public assistance, State Department of Public Welfare, treasurer.

Some 150 persons attended the organizational conference.

Due to the development of new therapies 94 institutions devoted to care of tuberculosis patients in the U. S. were closed in the period between 1954 and June 1956, according to the National Tuberculosis Association.

Census Reports Show Louisiana Population Up

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (Special) — Louisiana's population rose by 9.3 per cent, above the national average, from April 1, 1950, to July 1, 1955, but still remained the nation's 21st most populous state.

According to a U.S. Census Bureau report released today, Louisiana's population climbed from 2,683,516 in 1950 to 2,934,000 last July 1. This was an increase of 250,000 persons.

Louisiana's estimated population of 2,934,000 included 25,000 servicemen. Due to the reopening of Fort Polk, and the subsequent stationing of thousands of troops there, the state's population undoubtedly would show a far greater increase if the estimate had been made this year.

The state's population has gone steadily upward. When an estimate was made on July 1, 1950, the state's total was 2,697,000. In April of the same year, it had been 2,683,516.

Here's how the state's population has grown over the past five years: 1950, 2,697,000; 1951, 2,762,000; 1952, 2,833,000; 1953, 2,871,000; 1954, 2,888,000, and 1955, 2,934,000.

Music Festival Is Postponed

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 19 (AP) — International House today announced the postponement of the first Inter-American Music Festival.

The festival had been scheduled in New Orleans for April, 1957. Officials planned to feature new music by composers of the Western Hemisphere.

International House, a privately-supported institution to promote trade and cultural relations between the Americas, said the festival would be rescheduled for 1958.

Richard G. Jones, president of International House, said the postponement was due to a lack of time for planning.

The proposed location of U. S. 80 as part of the interstate program from Mississippi to Texas can be seen on a 20-foot long strip map which is part of an exhibit by the Louisiana department of highways at the State Fair in Shreveport.

U. S. 80 is included among the 600 miles of the interstate system in Louisiana which will be constructed as 4-lane, limited access freeways under the giant Federal Aid Highway Program which was approved by Congress last summer.

Also on exhibit at the fair are two models which depict a typical interstate highway in rural and urban areas.

All of the interstate highways under the Federal Program will be completely controlled facilities which will have no traffic crossings at grade level and the only access to the facility will be by means of frontage roads and interchanges at designated points.

Funds for the 13 year program will be financed 90 per cent by the Federal Government and 10 per cent by the State.

Transylvania Senior 4-H Club Officers Named

TRANSYLVANIA, Oct. 19 (Special)—Election of officers for the current school year resulted in the naming of Naomi Collins as president of the Transylvania Senior 4-H Club.

Other officers were also selected at the October meeting of the club. They are vice - president, Wayne Patrick, secretary, Robert Neal; treasurer, Billy Ray Harper; song leaders, Betty Waddell and Jo Ann Naff; reporter, Charlotte Stone; and executive member, Lonnie Batton.

Mr. Lynn Passon from the state extension department spoke to the club, giving a demonstration of the use of oil in motors. Plans for the coming year's work will be completed as soon as the newly elected officers can name their committee.

Symphony Will Be At College Here Nov. 18

More music for children than adults. This slogan is emphasized by the New Orleans Symphony which will appear here in concert on November 18 under aupsices of the Northeast State college.

The concert will be heard in Brown auditorium on the campus at 3 p.m., Dr. Harry M. Lemert, head of the college's Fine Arts department, announced. Tickets are now on sale at the Dew Music company and Hewitt's Music company. All seats are reserved.

Symphony Conductor Alexander Hilsberg says that the orchestra actually plays more concerts for children during the year than it does for adults.

Programs for children started with the founding of the symphony. For eleven years concerts were presented to a limited number of children who paid a small admittance fee. In 1947 the symphony, with the New Orleans Department of Recreation, set up a series of sixteen free concerts for all school children between the fifth and 12th grades. Today, however, under a new plan, and with the sponsorship of the Orleans Parish school Board and the State Board of Education, every child in those grades attends a symphony concert. Annual attendance has been estimated at 50,000.

Music for a half million school children was the goal of the Youth Concerts Program.

And the dream has come true for once a week Hilsberg directs the orchestra in an hour program for high school students from 12 to 18 years, which is broadcast over 13 station state - wide radio network throughout Louisiana

The New Orleans Symphony holds the distinction of playing more programs for children than any other orchestra in the United States.

Today the youth concerts are a part of each school's curriculum. Started only four years ago, the current school audience is estimated at 600,000 by Shelby M. Jackson, state superintendent of education.

The youth programs are carefully planned by Hilsberg. Each program is specifically designed to bring, besides the enjoyment of good listening, music education, and background to youthful listeners.

Each concert has a commentator who outlines the program contents and tells the musical story. Some concerts have soloists — either violinists, pianists, or vocalists. Once a year the guest artists are youngsters who have, through state - wide symphony auditions, earned the right to play with Hilsberg and the orchestra.

Tulane To Have Fair Exhibit On Role Of Physics

SHREVEPORT, Oct. 19 (Special) —The Tulane University department of physics will present an exhibit showing the role of physics in today's technological age, at the Louisiana State Fair which opens Saturday at Shreveport and will extend through Oct. 28.

The exhibit, which will tell a demonstrative story of how the field of physics in influencing the lives of men, will feature a model of a Van de Graaf high - voltage generator of the type used in atom smahing.

Other feature of the Tulane exhibit will include a demonstration of microwaves, both sending and receiving; and a display of tiny transistors, which are replacing vacuum tubes in industry, and which are finding use in radio, television, electronic brain machines and other means of communication.

Visitors to the fair will be able to participate in a number of the demonstrations, such as talking on a beam of light, using a small wrist - radio transmitter, and talking by high-frequency micro-wave.

In addition to the demonstrations, colored slides will be shown of other activities of the department of physics, including work with a mass spectrograph which weighs atoms and was constructed by graduate students in physics at Tulane; an electron microscope; and portions of the medical research program at Tulane which utilizes radio-active materials.

Band Club Plans Halloween Show At L. Providence

LAKE PROVIDENCE, Oct. 19 (Special) — The Lake Providence Band Boosters Club voted at their last regular meeting to sponsor a Hallowe'en carnival, according to an announcement made by Mrs. S. L. House Jr., president.

The carnival will be held on Oct. 31 and each grade will be asked to have a booth. The decorations for the event will be by the band club and a spaghetti supper will be served by the members of the St. Patrick's Mothers Club.

Mrs. Gene Hyde, Mrs. Betty Yawn and Mrs. Rush Hicks were appointed as a committee to decorate the gymnasium for the event. Clyde Bales, the band director, Mrs. J. D. Johnson and Mrs. L. W. Chapman will have charge of the booths. Mrs. Paul Marcus and Mrs. W. B. Cone will have charge of securing cakes for sale and the "sock hop" following the carnival will be directed by Mrs. W. J. Grossman, Jr. and Mrs. Bill Marak.

A report from the uniform committee revealed that 40 uniforms had been ordered for the band and that Mrs. S. L. House and Mrs. W. B. Cone had been successful in collecting enough money, through public donations, to pay for them. Mr. Bales stated that if was hoped to have the uniforms in time for the homecoming game.

The president appointed a finance committee to work with C. O. Bales, treasurer, composed of Mrs. B. A. Bayles and Mrs. J. O. Pinkston.

Mrs. W. J. Grossman, Jr. reported that a total of $70.00 was earned by the rummage sale, which was recently held.

The exhibit, which will tell a demonstrative story of how the field of physics in influencing the lives of men, will feature a model of a Van de Graaf high - voltage generator of the type used in atom smahing.

Other feature of the Tulane exhibit will include a demonstration of microwaves, both sending and receiving; and a display of tiny transistors, which are replacing vacuum tubes in industry, and which are finding use in radio, television, electronic brain machines and other means of communication.

Visitors to the fair will be able to participate in a number of the demonstrations, such as talking on a beam of light, using a small wrist - radio transmitter, and talking by high-frequency micro-wave.

In addition to the demonstrations, colored slides will be shown of other activities of the department of physics, including work with a mass spectrograph which weighs atoms and was constructed by graduate students in physics at Tulane; an electron microscope; and portions of the medical research program at Tulane which utilizes radio-active materials.

Band Club Plans Halloween Show At L. Providence

LAKE PROVIDENCE, Oct. 19 (Special) — The Lake Providence Band Boosters Club voted at their last regular meeting to sponsor a Hallowe'en carnival, according to an announcement made by Mrs. S. L. House Jr., president.

The carnival will be held on Oct. 31 and each grade will be asked to have a booth. The decorations for the event will be by the band club and a spaghetti supper will be served by the members of the St. Patrick's Mothers Club.

Mrs. Gene Hyde, Mrs. Betty Yawn and Mrs. Rush Hicks were appointed as a committee to decorate the gymnasium for the event. Clyde Bales, the band director, Mrs. J. D. Johnson and Mrs. L. W. Chapman will have charge of the booths. Mrs. Paul Marcus and Mrs. W. B. Cone will have charge of securing cakes for sale and the "sock hop" following the carnival will be dircted by Mrs. W. J. Grossman, Jr. and Mrs. Bill Marak.

A report from the uniform committee revealed that 40 uniforms had been ordered for the band and that Mrs. S. L. House and Mrs. W. B. Cone had been successful in collecting enough money, through public donations, to pay for them. Mr. Bales stated that if was hoped to have the uniforms in time for the homecoming game.

The president appointed a finance committee to work with C. O. Bales, treasurer, composed of Mrs. B. A. Bayles and Mrs. J. O. Pinkston.

Mrs. W. J. Grossman, Jr. reported that a total of $70.00 was earned by the rummage sale, which was recently held.

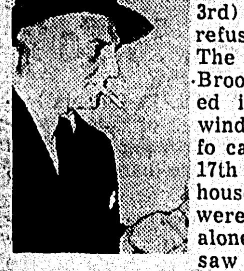
Lights Over Broadway

A tantrumental young man named A. Lincoln (of the Florida peculiar set) was so drunk (according to the bartender of the Old Knick at 54th and 3rd) that he was refused service . The Big, Bold Broot then kicked in two large windows. That info came from the 17th Pct. station house . . . We were driving alone when we saw a group of question marks staring at Our Hero — as he lay bleeding from the head . . . We got out of the car and asked: "Who hit this man?" . . . They recognized us and fled . . . Running with their hands on their hips! . . . A heluva trick!



We phoned for a police car . . . Show off Lincoln used lusty language at the cops (and a woman doctor) who tried to help him . . . The ambulance came from Metropolitan Hospital at 97th and 2nd Avenue over two miles away . . . Making a round trip of five miles to waste time on this character from Whoopsville, Florida . . . The ambulance might have been needed for a cardiac emergency (or fire rescue) but it had to come down for U. Hoo Lincoln . . . No kin to the Civil War Lincolns, of course.

Later, Mr. Veree Drunkee came to Broadway looking for us . . . To shwiek, sceweam and try to scewatch out what little hair we have left . . . He did this mental case bit in front of a cop, near where Victor Riesel lost his sight . . . And where newspaper photogs were recently beaten up . . . Mr. U. Hoo then dashed off in his thwanky car, sceweaming thweats . . . And so they chased and caught her a block away — where the cops didn't want to be bothered with him . . . Until a reporter suggested that the keys of his-her car be taken away for a few hours . . . Until he-she slept it off.

Sister - brother Lincoln, still shrieking, sceweamed: "Mr. Policeman, has he a right to lean on the door of my car?" . . . Then glaring at me, she-he said: "I hate you! You cruthified my brother!" He thawt I was John Wilkes Booth!

Thanks to the 16th Pct. for putting more than one cop in that area . . . How about closing up the all night joynts on those corners? . . . Where True Love (chocolate sodas and vanilla ice cream) starts more fights with Southerners, drunks and bigots than any other place in town . . . We have a beautiful news picture . . . Showing some of the 51st St. Ham-and-Eggery staff standing outside — watching our colleagues almost get killed . . . None bothered to phone for a cop!

Love Letter: "Dear Sir: I was influenced against you by the series in the New York Post and wrote a verse which I forwarded to Ed Sullivan. It follows:

The bigger they are
The harder they fall
Now doesn't the great man
Look rather small
All the King's horses
And all the King's Men
Couldn't put W. W. together again.

"Ed's reply: 'You said it all in the wisest possible rhyme' . . . I was unduly influenced against you and I am humbly sorry. I know now in the light of your actions in the Weinberger kidnap case, your selflessness in regard to the Runyon Fund, your devotion, thoughtfulness and help for the little guy (the bootblack who wrote 'Hatful of Rain') that I was very wrong in sending that epistle to Ed Sullivan. Ed's actions of late (the Bergman fiasco, the namesake radio man in Buffalo, the piracy claim of Steve Allen's ideas) have soured me against him and I must say that beside you, he looks small indeed. Good luck in your new venture and again my humble apology. — Tony Mele, Brooklyn, N. Y."

"Dear WW: Please keep after those bums who attacked the newspaper people. Also, please protect Lt. Brendan O'Sullivan, who eliminated one of those two-legged pests. It looks like he might be in danger of a bum rap from Commies, do-gooders and politicians. Know you are busy with your new show, but thank the Lord, you are endowed with extra energy. Finis Farr, Ridgewood, N. J."

From a San Francisco critic: "His first was a crummy show. His competitors have nothing to worry about. He gave viewers part of a Broadway hit two years old, 'Hatful of Rain' " . . . Note by WW: It was a three minute bit from an unfinished play, "All That Jazz," by the author of "Hatful of Rain," son . . . From Sponsor mag (page 76): "He turned out to be as entertaining on his Friday night show as he was at his NBC press conference. Due for imitation are WW's interesting anecdotal introductions."

Memos of a Dead Duck; (Quack. Quack-): Variety and the Herald Trib tv pages reported: "CBS veep H. Robinson took an official stand on the claim by W. W." that the network's star Animal Act threw a tantrum when CBS discussed our coming to that chain . . . (The source for the tantrum bit was One Guess!) . . . Miss Torre's postscript: "What disturbs Winchell a lot more is that nobody took an ad in the papers last Friday morning or afternoon for his new Friday night program." After, La Torre forgot to report, one sponsor assured us: "We are both spending $500,000 in newspapers to help get your show started!" . . . Does the Police Commissioner know that the 18th Precinct Captain permits yellow cabs to park all night in the middle of the street and on both sidewalks of West 61st from 11th to 12th Avenues? What happens if fire wagons have to enter that street? Or some citizen's life is in danger or there is an "Assist a Patrolman!" signal??? . . . Now that our recent tip — has been confirmed — that one of the 4 teenage bums who slugged a Journal-American newsman into a hospital —with an injury to a heart artery) got all 4 heels' bail reduced from $25,000 each to $1,000 (via political influence) — how about Gov. Harriman ordering a probe on this suspected influence? . . . My Fair Lisa Kirk, who got $2,000 a week at the Persian Room a few weeks ago (now double at the Waldorf where she is packing them in at both shows) can get $7,500 per at El Rancho, Vegas . . . Roberta Sherwood's best new torchant is on the other side of her new Decca click "Marilou" . . . It is "Should I Try Again," the first song hit by Steve Sabatino (45) an Elizabeth, N. J. sign painter . . . "Miss Vermont" (Sandi Simpson of Barre, Vt.) is only 19. She majored in designing. Her first job: Designing Mrs. Steve Allen's (Jayne Meadows) maternity apparel . . . Toni my Friday night alternate sponsor on NBC-TV (8:30 to 9 p. m.) started with 128 stations. The total is now 158 . . . The Copa has another song click from its last show. It is "Petticoats of Portugal," a catchy thing . . . Broadway Confucius Say: Be Nice To Your Enemies. You Never Know When Your Friends Will Turn On You.

Perhaps the primary motivating force — which lures Hollywood twinklers to the Broadway lights —was eloquently diagnosed by that distinguished psychoanalyst, Prof. James Durante. In his unique lyrical style, he stated: "When the lights of Broadway go on, I get an itchy feelin' in my bones. I wanna step out, be with the crowds, the noise, the music, laughin' it up. I think lots of folks feel the same way I do."

Stocks Falter, But Stay Ahead

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—A rally by steels and rails faltered on profit-taking but the stock market still remained narrowly ahead on average today.

By the close, it was chiefly due to sutbborn holding of gains by the carriers that the market kept an edge to the upside.

Prices were slightly higher from the start and improved gradually.

As it was, the day's turnover was the best of the week with volume at 1,720,000 shares compared with 1,640,000 yesterday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was ahead 30 cents at $179.70, with the industrials up 10 cents, the rails up $1.10 and the utilities unchanged.

Of 1,121 issues traded, gains outnumbered losses by 475 to 388. There were 23 new highs for the year as against 34 new lows.

The most active stock was New York Central, up ⅝ at 40½ On 37,900 shares. Second was Texas Gulf Sulphu, off 1¼ at 30 on 30,800 shares.

More than half the turnover in Texas Gulf Sulphur was accounted for by two huge trades totaling 17,500 shares in which this stock sold off ¼. Its chief losses occurred in later trading.

Stratton Denies 'Implication' In Hodge Action

CHICAGO, Oct. 19 (AP)—Gov. William G. Stratton, appearing before a U.S. Senate committee, has denied "any implication" that onetime Auditore Orville E. Hodge was spirited off to prison to keep other names out of the 1½-million-dollar state check-cashing scandal.

Stratton, a Republican seeking re - election, testified before the Democrat-controlled Senate Banking and Currency Committee yesterday at his own request. The hearings, which have lasted two weeks, were scheduled to end today with questioning of State Treasurer Warren Wright and Charles J. Fleck, Cook County (Chicago) public administrator.

During nearly 3½ hours of testimony, Stratton said he was powerless, under the state constitution, to interfere with other elected officials. He testified that once the embezzlements were known, he took "firm, effective" action in getting rid of Hodge.

The committee, headed by Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark), has been probing the banking aspects of the Hodge swindle with the aim of improving federal banking laws. Hodge, a Republican, is in prison for admittedly embezzling 1½ million dollars from the state treasury through a bogus check - cashing scheme.

Stratton recounted his action in the case beginning July 4 when he ordered the Illinois Budgetary Commission to investigate published claims of wrongdoing in the auditor's office. He said it was during a conference he and Atty. Gen. Latham Castle had with Hodge July 16 that Hodge agreed to resign.

Fulbright frequently read from newspaper accounts and editorials concerning the Hodge swindle. At one point he asked Stratton about a story intimating the governor had moved in quickly to remove Hodge and start him to prison to clamp a lid on the scandal and keep other names out of it.

"I resent any implication that any political deal was made in the presence of the governor and the attorney general at the conference with Hodge," Stratton retorted. "I think it is a dastardly and infamous inference."

Stratton said he "never dreamed" Hodge was a "common thief," and he added, "Nothing I could have done would have prevented Orville Hodge from becoming a thief."

The 42-year-old governor, a former state treasurer, said he faced a legal difficulty in coping with Hodge because he had no constitutional control over the auditor, an elected official. But, he said, he stepped into the matter anyway, and was not challenged by Hodge. He added he had taken steps to "see that a repetition" does not occur.

"The state authorities were slow to move into the situation until the embezzlement was revealed. There were many signs that something had gone astray in Hodge's office. He didn't file reports as he was required to do by the constitution, and he lived very extravagantly."

South Warned By Riesel To Avoid Corrupt Unionism

BILOXI, Miss., Oct. 10 (AP) — Blinded labor columnist Victor Riesel today said bad labor administration offers two threats — Communism and corrupt union leaders.

Riesel, blinded by acid thrown in his face on a New York street, warned the Mississippi Manufacturers Assn.:

"If in the South, you do not take care, you will be saddled with the union problems of the North."

One theory is that Riesel was blinded by racketeers who wanted to prevent him from testifying about corrupt union practices.

Riesel also discussed politics and unionism. He said that, if Adlai Stevenson is elected president, Walter Reuther would be the labor representative in the White House. Reuther is president of the United Auto Workers and vice president of the AFL-CIO.

"Reuther's influence in the Democratic Party is far greater than any southern political leader, other than the influence of Texas," said the labor columnist.

Riesel said that Reuther's views are very close to that of the British Labor Party.

Earlier, Herbert B Kohler, president of the Kohler Co. of Wisconsin, said he was opposed to compulsory unionism.

"We do not believe that all industry can or should be forced by the unions into one pattern," said Kohler.

Lights Over Broadway

A tantrumental young man named A. Lincoln (of the Florida peculiar set) was so drunk (according to the bartender of the Old Knick at 54th and 3rd) that he was refused service . The Big, Bold Broot then kicked in two large windows. That info came from the 17th Pct. station house . . . We were driving alone when we saw a group of question marks staring at Our Hero — as he lay bleeding from the head . . . We got out of the car and asked: "Who hit this man?" . . . They recognized us and fled . . . Running with their hands on their hips! . . . A heluva trick!

We phoned for a police car . . . Show off Lincoln used lusty language at the cops (and a woman doctor) who tried to help him . . . The ambulance came from Metropolitan Hospital at 97th and 2nd Avenue over two miles away . . . Making a round trip of five miles to waste time on this character from Whoopsville, Florida . . . The ambulance might have been needed for a cardiac emergency (or fire rescue) but it had to come down for U. Hoo Lincoln . . . No kin to the Civil War Lincolns, of course.

Later, Mr. Veree Drunkee came to Broadway looking for us . . . To shwiek, sceweam and try to scwatch out what little hair we have left . . . He did this mental case bit in front of a cop, near where Victor Riesel lost his sight . . . And where newspaper photogs were recently beaten up . . . Mr. U. Hoo then dashed off in his thwanky car, sceweaming thweats . . . And so they chased and caught her a block away — where the cops didn't want to be bothered with him . . . Until a reporter suggested that the keys of his-her car be taken away for a few hours . . . Until he-she slept it off.

Sister - brother Lincoln, still shrieking, sceweamed: "Mr. Policeman, has he a right to lean on the door of my car?" . . . Then glaring at me, she-he said: "I hate you! You cruthified my brother!" He thawt I was John Wilkes Booth!

Thanks to the 16th Pct. for putting more than one cop in that area . . . How about closing up the all night joynts on those corners? . . . Where True Love (chocolate sodas and vanilla ice cream) starts more fights with Southerners, drunks and bigots than any other place in town . . . We have a beautiful news picture . . . Showing some of the 51st St. Ham-and-Eggery staff standing outside — watching our colleagues almost get killed . . . None bothered to phone for a cop!

Love Letter: "Dear Sir: I was influenced against you by the series in the New York Post and wrote a verse which I forwarded to Ed Sullivan. It follows:

The bigger they are
The harder they fall
Now doesn't the great man
Look rather small
All the King's horses
And all the King's Men
Couldn't put W. W. together again.

"Ed's reply: 'You said it all in the wisest possible rhyme' . . . I was unduly influenced against you and I am humbly sorry. I know now in the light of your actions in the Weinberger kidnap case, your selflessness in regard to the Runyon Fund, your devotion, thoughtfulness and help for the little guy (the bootblack who wrote 'Hatful of Rain') that I was very wrong in sending that epistle to Ed Sullivan. Ed's actions of late (the Bergman fiasco, the namesake radio man in Buffalo, the piracy claim of Steve Allen's ideas) have soured me against him and I must say that beside you, he looks small indeed. Good luck in your new venture and again my humble apology. — Tony Mele, Brooklyn, N. Y."

"Dear WW: Please keep after those bums who attacked the newspaper people. Also, please protect Lt. Brendan O'Sullivan, who eliminated one of those two-legged pests. It looks like he might be in danger of a bum rap from Commies, do-gooders and politicians. Know you are busy with your new show, but thank the Lord, you are endowed with extra energy. Finis Farr, Ridgewood, N. J."

From a San Francisco critic: "His first was a crummy show. His competitors have nothing to worry about. He gave viewers part of a Broadway hit two years old, 'Hatful of Rain' " . . . Note by WW: It was a three minute bit from an unfinished play, "All That Jazz," by the author of "Hatful of Rain," son . . . From Sponsor mag (page 76): "He turned out to be as entertaining on his Friday night show as he was at his NBC press conference. Due for imitation are WW's interesting anecdotal introductions."

Memos of a Dead Duck; (Quack. Quack-): Variety and the Herald Trib tv pages reported: "CBS veep H. Robinson took an official stand on the claim by W. W." that the network's star Animal Act threw a tantrum when CBS discussed our coming to that chain . . . (The source for the tantrum bit was One Guess!) . . . Miss Torre's postscript: "What disturbs Winchell a lot more is that nobody took an ad in the papers last Friday morning or afternoon for his new Friday night program." After, La Torre forgot to report, one sponsor assured us: "We are both spending $500,000 in newspapers to help get your show started!" . . . Does the Police Commissioner know that the 18th Precinct Captain permits yellow cabs to park all night in the middle of the street and on both sidewalks of West 61st from 11th to 12th Avenues? What happens if fire wagons have to enter that street? Or some citizen's life is in danger or there is an "Assist a Patrolman!" signal??? . . . Now that our recent tip — has been confirmed — that one of the 4 teenage bums who slugged a Journal-American newsman into a hospital —with an injury to a heart artery) got all 4 heels' bail reduced from $25,000 each to $1,000 (via political influence) — how about Gov. Harriman ordering a probe on this suspected influence? . . . My Fair Lisa Kirk, who got $2,000 a week at the Persian Room a few weeks ago (now double at the Waldorf where she is packing them in at both shows) can get $7,500 per at El Rancho, Vegas . . . Roberta Sherwood's best new torchant is on the other side of her new Decca click "Marilou" . . . It is "Should I Try Again," the first song hit by Steve Sabatino (45) an Elizabeth, N. J. sign painter . . . "Miss Vermont" (Sandi Simpson of Barre, Vt.) is only 19. She majored in designing. Her first job: Designing Mrs. Steve Allen's (Jayne Meadows) maternity apparel . . . Toni my Friday night alternate sponsor on NBC-TV (8:30 to 9 p. m.) started with 128 stations. The total is now 158 . . . The Copa has another song click from its last show. It is "Petticoats of Portugal," a catchy thing . . . Broadway Confucius Say: Be Nice To Your Enemies. You Never Know When Your Friends Will Turn On You.

Perhaps the primary motivating force — which lures Hollywood twinklers to the Broadway lights —was eloquently diagnosed by that distinguished psychoanalyst, Prof. James Durante. In his unique lyrical style, he stated: "When the lights of Broadway go on, I get an itchy feelin' in my bones. I wanna step out, be with the crowds, the noise, the music, laughin' it up. I think lots of folks feel the same way I do."

Stocks Falter, But Stay Ahead

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP)—A rally by steels and rails faltered on profit-taking but the stock market still remained narrowly ahead on average today.

By the close, it was chiefly due to sutbborn holding of gains by the carriers that the market kept an edge to the upside.

Prices were slightly higher from the start and improved gradually.

As it was, the day's turnover was the best of the week with volume at 1,720,000 shares compared with 1,640,000 yesterday.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was ahead 30 cents at $179.70, with the industrials up 10 cents, the rails up $1.10 and the utilities unchanged.

Of 1,121 issues traded, gains outnumbered losses by 475 to 388. There were 23 new highs for the year as against 34 new lows.

The most active stock was New York Central, up ⅝ at 40½ On 37,900 shares. Second was Texas Gulf Sulphu, off 1¼ at 30 on 30,800 shares.

More than half the turnover in Texas Gulf Sulphur was accounted for by two huge trades totaling 17,500 shares in which this stock sold off ¼. Its chief losses occurred in later trading.

Stratton Denies 'Implication' In Hodge Action

CHICAGO, Oct. 19 (AP)—Gov. William G. Stratton, appearing before a U.S. Senate committee, has denied "any implication" that onetime Auditore Orville E. Hodge was spirited off to prison to keep other names out of the 1½-million-dollar state check-cashing scandal.

Stratton, a Republican seeking re - election, testified before the Democrat-controlled Senate Banking and Currency Committee yesterday at his own request. The hearings, which have lasted two weeks, were scheduled to end today with questioning of State Treasurer Warren Wright and Charles J. Fleck, Cook County (Chicago) public administrator.

During nearly 3½ hours of testimony, Stratton said he was powerless, under the state constitution, to interfere with other elected officials. He testified that once the embezzlements were known, he took "firm, effective" action in getting rid of Hodge.

The committee, headed by Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark), has been probing the banking aspects of the Hodge swindle with the aim of improving federal banking laws. Hodge, a Republican, is in prison for admittedly embezzling 1½ million dollars from the state treasury through a bogus check - cashing scheme.

Stratton recounted his action in the case beginning July 4 when he ordered the Illinois Budgetary Commission to investigate published claims of wrongdoing in the auditor's office. He said it was during a conference he and Atty. Gen. Latham Castle had with Hodge July 16 that Hodge agreed to resign.

Fulbright frequently read from newspaper accounts and editorials concerning the Hodge swindle. At one point he asked Stratton about a story intimating the governor had moved in quickly to remove Hodge and start him to prison to clamp a lid on the scandal and keep other names out of it.

"I resent any implication that any political deal was made in the presence of the governor and the attorney general at the conference with Hodge," Stratton retorted. "I think it is a dastardly and infamous inference."

Stratton said he "never dreamed" Hodge was a "common thief," and he added, "Nothing I could have done would have prevented Orville Hodge from becoming a thief."

The 42-year-old governor, a former state treasurer, said he faced a legal difficulty in coping with Hodge because he had no constitutional control over the auditor, an elected official. But, he said, he stepped into the matter anyway, and was not challenged by Hodge. He added he had taken steps to "see that a repetition" does not occur.

Just before Stratton left the witness table, Fulbright commented: "The state authorities were slow to move into the situation until the embezzlement was revealed. There were many signs that something had gone astray in Hodge's office. He didn't file reports as he was required to do by the constitution, and he lived very extravagantly."

South Warned By Riesel To Avoid Corrupt Unionism

BILOXI, Miss., Oct. 19 (AP) — Blinded labor columnist Victor Riesel today said bad labor administration offers two threats — Communism and corrupt union leaders.

"If in the South, you do not take care, you will be saddled with the union problems of the North."

One theory is that Riesel was blinded by racketeers who wanted to prevent him from testifying about corrupt union practices.

Riesel also discussed politics and unionism. He said that, if Adlai Stevenson is elected president, Walter Reuther would be the labor representative in the White House. Reuther is president of the United Auto Workers and vice president of the AFL-CIO.

"Reuther's influence in the Democratic Party is far greater than any southern political leader, other than the influence of Texas," said the labor columnist.

Riesel said that Reuther's views are very close to that of the British Labor Party.

Earlier, Herbert B.Kohler, president of the Kohler Co. of Wisconsin, said he was opposed to compulsory unionism.

"We do not believe that all industry can or should be forced by the unions into one pattern," said Kohler.

Neville Tigers Master Winnsboro Rivals, 34 To 0

By LEMMIE HIGHTOWER

Quarterback Elton Upshaw broke around right end for three yards and a touchdown a little over five minutes after the opening kickoff last night, and the Neville Tigers were off to hammer the inexperienced Winnsboro Wildcats, 34-0.

It was the Bengals sixth win of the season against no losses and delighted at the homecoming Nevillites who returned to see their young Tigers who may be on their way to a second consecutive state title.

Coach Bill Ruple, trying to hold the rip-roaring Black and Gold Monroyans back, started sending his reserves onto the grid in the second quarter.

Only four minutes after Upshaw's initial tally halfback Terry Reeves, who played havoc with Ruston last week, galloped 53 yards wide of left end for another six points for the Tigers. Beautiful blocking enabled Reeves to skip through the Wildcat defenses like a ballet dancer.

Upshaw added another TD in the second quarter, Reeves rambled for another in the third, and quarterback Rusty Cambell piled on a final insult to the Cats in the fourth period.

A total of eleven penalties damaged the NHS effort almost as much as the Wildcats could do. The Bengals lost 95 yards via the penalty route.

The visitors found their most deadly attack is passing. Quarterback Hugh Priest made end Jesse Walker his favorite target, and the Wildcats collected 127 yards through the air waves.

Upshaw recorded his escand touchdown after a Winnsboro drive had been halted on the Neville 5. The 'Cats were quickly pushed back to the 12-yard stripe where the brilliant 180-pound senior cut loose off right guard for paydirt which was 88 yards away. 'Cat halfback Pete Moore chased the fleeting ballcarrier the complete distance but couldn't find the speed needed.

Reeves got away for his third stanza marker on a "Tulane Reverse." Upshaw faked to Yerger and handed to Reeves who sprinted around left end for 40 yards into the end zone.

Though never scoring Mickey Yerger also proved to be a deadly enemy of the Wildcats. The determined fullback rambled through the visitors' line throughout the evening. A punt return by the "Mick" laid the foundation for Cambell's score.

Reeves kicked the conversion behind four of the Tiger tallies.

The Wildcats threatened to score in the opening seconds of the second quarter. A 36 yard pass from Priest to Walker carried the visitors to the Neville 11. But with a fourth down situation on the 4, the 'Cats tried to pass again. Yerger reached high in the air to slap Moore's pitch and the Bengals took over on downs.

Furman's Backfield Coach Resigns Post

GREENVILLE, S.C., Oct. 19 (AP)—Billy Henderson resigned today as backfield coach at Furman University. Frank Sinkwich, an All-America back at Georgia in 1941-42, already has reported for duty to succeed him.

Henderson, who graduated from Georgia in 1950, became backfield coach before the 1955 season when head coach Homer Hobbs took over. He had coached at several Georgia high schools before coming here.

Dr. Julian H. Scarborough, Furman Director of Administration, said Henderson's resignation "was his own decision."

Ouachita Holds Favored Fair Park To 28-19 Win

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 19 (Special) — The Ouachita Parish High Lions, with quarterback Dickie Crowe battling for all he was worth, threw a scare into Fair Park's top-heavy favorites here tonight before bowing in their triple-A conference game, 28-19.

The Lions matched the Indians touchdown for touchdown until the last few seconds of the game when, with Ouachita trailing only 21-19, and needing a break to sew it up, the Redskins came through with their final insurance touchdown.

Crowe, the outstanding player on the field, scored all of Ouachita's points as he raced five yards twice for two touchdowns, rambled 67 yards with a scooped up fumble for another and converted once.

After a scoreless first quarter, Fair Park jumped ahead when "Scooter" Henry shot a pass to end Meisner for 54 yards in the touchdown. Mullins converted.

Ouachita came roaring back with ten seconds left in the half as the Lions capped a 60-yard drive with Crowe fading as if to pass and then skirting end from five yards out to score. His try for the point pass to Billy Roach was caught, but officials ruled Roach had a foot out of the endzone and the tie was nullified.

Fair Park marched 89 yards in seven plays at the opening of the second half. Mullins scored from the two, and Dunn converted. A 41-yard run by Dunn sparked the drive with Dunn being caught from behind by Eddie McGowan to delay the touchdown threat.

The Lions made it 14-12 in the same period when Crowe picked up a fumble by Jimmy Orton and tore down field on his 67 yard touchdown tarip.

A 58-yard march brought Fair Park a TD on the first play of the final quarter with Mullins going over from the 11 on a cross buck. The conversion made it 21-12.

But Crowe wasn't through. He brought the score back to 21-19 with three minutes left when Fair Park was back to punt on fourth down on the Indian ten. A bad pass from center kept Henry from kicking and he was spilled on his five. Crowe made it the rest of the way on the first try and also converted.

Twenty seconds were left in the game when Fair Park capped a 57-yard drive for the final Indian touchdown with Dunn going over from the two.

Haynesville Air Show Sidetracks Jonesboro-Hodge

JONESBORO, La., Oct. 19 (Special) — Haynesville quarterback Don Sherman put on a spectacular aerial show here tonight in leading the unbeaten Golden Tornado to a 54-7 triumph over Jonesboro-Hodge.

The pin-point passing of Sherman accounted for five TD's, while teammate Charles Wadlington's broken field running brought two more

The hurricane had too much of everything, with Sherman's touchdown passes going to Eugene Ash, Wadlington, Ronnie Rigdon, Huey Mayfield and Lanier Browning.

Wadlington scored his two tallies on a punt return and an 85-yard return of an intercepted pass.

Haynesville's other score was made by Terry Teague.

The home team was able to push across a tally in the third quarter when Jimmy Golden plunged into the end zone

Throat Operation Dated For Kansas Basketball Star

LAWRENCE, Kan., Oct. 19 (UP)—Wilt Chamberlain, the most highly publicized sophomore in college basketball, will undergo surgery next week to determine the nature of a growth on his vocal cords.

Dr. Killbjorn Jenssen, physician for University of Kansas athletes, said Friday that the seven-foot center had been examined by a specialist from the University Medical Center, who thinks Wilt has a "singer's node" vocal cord.

The condition was discovered about two weeks ago, at which time Chamberlain was instructed not to talk much or exercise in the hope that the growth would disappear.

Jenssen was unable to say when Chamberlain would be able to rejoin the Kansas basketball team. Practice started last Monday with Chamberlain watching from the sidelines.

Chamberlain, who rewrote the record books at Overbrook High School in Philadelphia, Pa., scored 42 points in his first outing as a freshman at Kansas last season.

Dr. F. C. (Phog) Allen, who retired as Kansas coach after last season, terms him 'the best I've ever seen" and that of course includes Bill Russell, the two-time All-American who graduated from San Francisco last spring.

Although Wilt has never played in a college game, several preseason polls are picking Kansas as the top, or near top, team in the nation due to Chamberlain's outstanding ability.

16-Year-Old Mary Mills Wins Gulf Coast Golf Crown

OCEAN SPRINGS, Miss., Oct. 19 (AP) — Sixteen-year-old Mary Mills of Gulfport, playing with machine-like precision, won the sixth annual Gulf Coast Women's Golf Tournament today by beating Mrs. Sam Byrd of Birmingham, Ala., 7 and 6.

The husky young golfer, holder of the Mississippi Women's title, was 2 up at the end of the first nine holes of the 36-hole championship finals. Miss Mills was 3 up after the first 18 holes which she toured in par 73. Mrs. Byrd had a 79.

After 27 holes, Miss Mills held a 6 up lead. She went 7 up with a par on the 10th hole. They halved the 11th and 12th holes and the match ended. Miss Mills was 1 over par on the 6,611-yard Gulf Hills course for the 30 holes played. She became the first Mississipian to win the title. Louisiana golfers won the first five tournaments.

Oak Grove Drops Lake Providence By 39-20 Margin

Paced by the running of Jimmy Bradley and Jimmy Myrick, the Tigers piled up 280 yards in downing the stubborn Panthers.

Myrick broke the scoring ice in the first period on a one-yard dive. Bradley ran for the extra point.

Myrick came back in the second quarter for a 7-yard scoring run, and Bradley added the extra point. Bradley breezed 30 yards for the third score in the same quarter.

Trailing 20-0 Lake Providence picked up a score in the second quarter when Ned Edmonson plunged three yards, and then ran for the extra point.

In the third quarter Bradley added two more tallies on runs of three and 20 yerds. Myrick ran over one extra point. Russ Greer rounded out the Tigers' scoring on a 10-yard keeper play in the fourth quarter.

Newellton Bears Trounce Wisner In 48 To 6 Tilt

In the third quarter, Milfred McVay scored on a 35-yard run followed shortly thereafter by a 10-yard run and a TD by quarterback Harper.

McVay scored again in the fourth quarter on 50-yard run. Finley got into the scoring column again by grabbing out a pass from Harper netting 50 yards and a TD.

Wisner's lone tally came in the fourth quarter as Powell, the quarterback, scored on a line play from about five yards out.

Delhi Smashes Rayville Rivals To Tune Of 61-14

RAYVILLE, La., Oct. 19, (Special) The Class A Rayville Hornets suffered the most humiliating defeat ever handed them by their arch rivals, the Class B Delhi Bears, in a 61-14 intra-Richland parish game played at Rayville tonight.

The Bears scored at will with Leach tallying four times, Brown once, Hopson getting two TD's, Newton getting six points, and Richards scoring 13 points on one TD, four conversions, and a field goal from the 25-yard stripe.

Leach scored on runs of 17, 10, 60, and 20 yards. Brown's tally was made on a 20-yard pass play from Richards. Hopson scored on a 17-yard run and a 3-yard jaunt. Newton also tallied from 3 yards out. Richards' only 6-pointer came on a one-yard smash.

Rayville's points came from a 10-yard quarterback sneak by Stevenson, in the second quarter with the conversion by O'Conner, and a 98-yard kick-off return by Stevenson with the point after touchdown again kicked by O'Conner.

Score by quarters was Rayville, 0-7-7-0; Delhi 6-20-13-22.

Sicily Islanders Defeat Davidson In 18-To-0 Scrap

SICILY ISLAND, La., Oct. 19 (Special) — The Sicily Island Tigers notched their fourth victory of the season in defense of their district Class B crown tonight by tagging the Davidson Warriors of St. Joseph, 18 to 0.

Lynn Evans sent the Bengals ahead when he recovered a Davidson fumble for a first quarter touchdown.

Allen Cole got into the act when he intercepted a Warrior pass, picked up excellent blocking, and scooted 98 yards for the second Island touchdown.

Billy Wiggins capped the Tigers' scoring in the second quarter as he went ten yards on a reverse to score.

Bastrop's Rams Wallop West Monroe, 45 To 0

BASTROP, La., Oct. 19 (Special)—The West Monroe High rate attempt to come out the win-School Rebels began a desppeless column here tonight but their stand soon gave way to a Bastrop High Ram victory, ending 45 to 0.

The Rebels who went into the tilt as underdog candidates held the Rams scoreless during the first quarter.

Bastrop then ripped off two more T.D.'s during the second quarter on two Burks to Akins handoffs. One was for 7 yards, the other 14 yards.

A pitchout from Patrick to Akins accounted for one extra point. Naff's kick after the first of the two touchdowns was no good.

Early in the third quarter, Burks handed off to Larry Ryder who scampered up the middle for 61 yards and a T.D. Pitchout to Akins was good for extra point.

Jerry Brown recovered a West Monroe fumble on the Rebels 11 yard line to set up the next Ram T.D. A handoff from Hinkey to Jimmy Life resulted in the T.D. no good.

Daye In Driver's Seat As Ferriday Drops Block, 27-6

JONESVILLE, La., Oct. 19 (Special) — Ferriday's Bulldogs, sparked by fullback Ronnie Daye, kept their victory record unscathed by downing the Block High Bears 27 to 6, here tonight.

The game pushed Ferriday's victory record to 46 without a loss. Earlier this year they were tied by Jena.

Early in the first quarter the Bulldogs took over and quickly paraded in to Block territory.

Daye drove eight yards for the initial Ferriday six-pointer. Tommy Brashier's attempt at conversion failed. Daye plunged from the four-for his second touchdown, and Brashier converted.

Later in the second period Daye passed to G. W. Minor for 40 yards and the second TD. Brashier's conversion was good.

Again in the fourth quarter, Daye, who proved the night's leading ground gainer, ripped off a 17-yard run for the final score of the game. Brashier's kick was good for the extra point.

The game brought Block's loss record to three. The Bears have won four this year.

Ferriday's record this year stands at 6 won, 0 lost, 1 tied. The Jena Giants, three weeks ago, tied the Bulldogs 13 to 13 to mar the consecutive victory record.

Inspired Georgia Eleven Gets 7-7 Draw With Miami

MIAMI, Fla. Oct. 19 (AP)—Coach Wally Butts had his "pore lil Georgia boys" keyed up to fighting pitch tonight and the Bulldogs shocked 42,682 Orange Bowl fans by battling Miami's heavily-favored Hrricanes to a 7-7 deadlock.

Jefferson Davis, a lanky halfback from Alabama, gave Georgia a 7-0 lead in the first period by latching on to a Miami punt and faking a host of Hurricane tacklers off their feet in a beautiful 58-yard touchdown run.

It looked like the bulldogs were going to make that margin stand up, for they stopped Miami's offense cold, on the ground and in the air, until a desperate last-quarter drive by the Hurricanes evened the count.

Even then, a magnificent goal line stand by Georgia almost succeeded after Miami had driven 84 yards to a first down at the Bulldog one-yard line. Fullback Bill Sandie was dropped in his tracks twice and an attempted pass was broken up before Sandie finally bulled across on fourth down.

LaSalle's Tigers Catch Columbia's Tidemen, 19 To 7

Kenneth Strickland scored Columbia's only TD in the third quarter when he took a pitchout from Doyle Thornton from seven yards out. "Bubba" Henry ran over the extra point.

Penalties	1	11
Yards lost penalties	5	95

Upshaw added another TD in the second quarter, Reeves rambled for another in the third, and quarterback Rusty Cambell piled on a final insult to the Cats in the fourth period.

A total of eleven penalties damaged the NHS effort almost as much as the Wildcats could do. The Bengals lost 95 yards via the penalty route.

The visitors found their most deadly attack is passing. Quarterback Hugh Priest made end Jesse Walker his favorite target, and the Wildcats collected 127 yards through the air waves.

Upshaw recorded his second touchdown after a Winnsboro drive had been halted on the Neville 5. The 'Cats were quickly pushed back to the 12-yard stripe where the brilliant 180-pound senior cut loose off right guard for paydirt which was 88 yards away. 'Cat halfback Pete Moore chased the fleeting ballcarrier the complete distance but couldn't find the speed needed.

Reeves got away for his third stanza marker on a "Tulane Reverse." Upshaw faked to Yerger and handed to Reeves who sprinted around left end for 40 yards into the end zone.

Though never scoring Mickey Yerger also proved to be a deadly enemy of the Wildcats. The determined fullback rambled through the visitors' line throughout the evening. A punt return by the "Mick" laid the foundation for Cambell's score.

Reeves kicked the conversion behind four of the Tiger tallies.

The Wildcats threatened to score in the opening seconds of the second quarter. A 36 yard pass from Priest to Walker carried the visitors to the Neville 11. But with a fourth down situation on the 4, the 'Cats tried to pass again. Yerger reached high in the air to slap Moore's pitch and the Bengals took over on downs.

The lineups:

Winnsboro

Ends — D. Walker, J. Walker, Fife.

Furman's Backfield Coach Resigns Post

GREENVILLE, S.C., Oct. 19 (AP)—Billy Henderson resigned today as backfield coach at Furman University. Frank Sinkwich, an All-America back at Georgia in 1941-42, already has reported for duty to succeed him.

Henderson, who graduated from Georgia in 1950, became backfield coach before the 1955 season when head coach Homer Hobbs took over. He was high school coach at several Georgia high schools before coming here.

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 19 (Special) — The Ouachita Parish High Lions, with quarterback Dickie Crowe battling for all he was worth, threw a scare into Fair Park's top-heavy favorites here tonight before bowing in their triple-A conference game, 28-19.

The Lions matched the Indians touchdown for touchdown until the last few seconds of the game when, with Ouachita trailing only 21-19, and needing a break to sew it up, the Redskins came through with their final insurance touchdown.

Crowe, the outstanding player on the field, scored all of Ouachita's points as he raced five yards twice for two touchdowns, rambled 67 yards with a scooped up fumble for another and converted once.

After a scoreless first quarter, Fair Park jumped ahead when "Scooter" Henry shot a pass to end Meisner for 54 yards in the touchdown. Mullins converted.

Ouachita came roaring back with ten seconds left in the half as the Lions capped a 60-yard drive with Crowe fading as if to pass and then skirting end from five yards out to score. His try for the point pass to Billy Roach was caught, but officials ruled Roach had a foot out of the endzone and the tie was nullified.

Fair Park marched 89 yards in seven plays at the opening of the second half. Mullins scored from the two, and Dunn converted. A 41-yard run by Dunn sparked the drive with Dunn being caught from behind by Eddie McGowan to delay the touchdown threat.

The Lions made it 14-12 in the same period when Crowe picked up a fumble by Jimmy Orton and tore down field on his 67 yard touchdown tarip.

A 58-yard march brought Fair Park a TD on the first play of the final quarter with Mullins going over from the 11 on a cross buck. The conversion made it 21-12.

But Crowe wasn't through. He brought the score back to 21-19 with three minutes left when Fair Park was back to punt on fourth down on the Indian ten. A bad pass from center kept Henry from kicking and he was spilled on his five. Crowe made it the rest of the way on the first try and also converted.

Twenty seconds were left in the game when Fair Park capped a 57-yard drive for the final Indian touchdown with Dunn going over from the two.

Haynesville Air Show Sidetracks Jonesboro-Hodge

JONESBORO, La., Oct. 19 (Special) — Haynesville quarterback Don Sherman put on a spectacular aerial show here tonight in leading the unbeaten Golden Tornado to a 54-7 triumph over Jonesboro-Hodge.

The hurricane had too much of everything, with Sherman's touchdown passes going to Eugene Ash, Wadlington, Ronnie Rigdon, Huey Mayfield and Lanier Browning.

Wadlington scored his two tallies on a punt return and an 85-yard return of an intercepted pass.

Haynesville's other score was made by Terry Teague.

The home team was able to push across a tally in the third quarter when Jimmy Golden plunged into the end zone.

Score by quarters:

Haynesville	7	20	7	20	54
Jonesboro	0	0	7	0	7

Throat Operation Dated For Kansas Basketball Star

LAWRENCE, Kan., Oct. 19 (UP) —Wilt Chamberlain, the most highly publicized sophomore in college basketball, will undergo surgery next week to determine the nature of a growth on his vocal cords.

Dr. Killbjorn Jenssen, physician for University of Kansas athletes, said Friday that the seven-foot center had been examined by a specialist from the University Medical Center, who thinks Wilt has a "singer's node" vocal cord.

The condition was discovered about two weeks ago, at which time Chamberlain was instructed not to talk much or exercise in the hope that the growth would disappear.

Jenssen was unable to say when Chamberlain would be able to rejoin the Kansas basketball team. Practice started last Monday with Chamberlain watching from the sidelines.

Chamberlain, who rewrote the record books at Overbrook High School in Philadelphia, Pa., scored 42 points in his first outing as a freshman at Kansas last season.

Dr. F. C. (Phog) Allen, who retired as Kansas coach after last season, terms him 'the best I've ever seen" and that of course includes Bill Russell, the two-time All-American who graduated from San Francisco last spring.

Although Wilt has never played in a college game, several preseason polls are picking Kansas as the top, or near top, team in the nation due to Chamberlain's outstanding ability.

Oak Grove Drops Lake Providence By 39-20 Margin

Paced by the running of Jimmy Bradley and Jimmy Myrick, the Tigers piled up 280 yards in downing the stubborn Panthers.

Myrick broke the scoring ice in the first period on a one-yard dive. Bradley ran for the extra point.

Myrick came back in the second quarter for a 7-yard scoring run, and Bradley added the extra point. Bradley breezed 30 yards for the third score in the same quarter.

Trailing 20-0 Lake Providence picked up a score in the second quarter when Ned Edmonson plunged three yards, and Edmonson ran for the extra point.

In the third quarter Bradley added two more tallies on runs of three and 20 yards. Myrick ran over one extra point. Russ Greer rounded out the Tigers' scoring on a 10-yard keeper play in the fourth quarter.

The Panthers bounced back for two scores in the final period with Edmonson going three yards, and Dick Landrem racing a punt back 60 of the score.

Score by quarters:

Newellton Bears Trounce Wisner In 48 To 6 Tilt

NEWELLTON, La., Oct. 19 (Special) — The Newellton Bears climaxed a day of homecoming festivities here tonight by trouncing the Wisner Bulldogs, 48 to 6.

In the third quarter, Milfred McVay scored on a 35-yard run followed shortly thereafter by a 10-yard run and a TD by quarterback Harper.

McVay scored again in the fourth quarter on 50-yard run. Finley got into the scoring column again by grabbing out a pass from Harper netting 50 yards and a TD.

Wisner's lone tally came in the fourth quarter as Powell, the quarterback, scored on a line play from about five yards out.

16-Year-Old Mary Mills Wins Gulf Coast Golf Crown

OCEAN SPRINGS, Miss., Oct. 19 (AP) — Sixteen-year-old Mary Mills of Gulfport, playing with machine-like precision, won the sixth annual Gulf Coast Women's Golf Tournament today by beating Mrs. Sam Byrd of Birmingham, Ala., 7 and 6.

The husky young golfer, holder of the Mississippi Women's title, was 2 up at the end of the first nine holes of the 36-hole championship finals. Miss Mills was 3 up after the first 18 holes when she toured in par 73. Mrs. Byrd had a 79.

After 27 holes, Miss Mills held a 6 up lead. She went 7 up with a par on the 10th hole. They halved the 11th and 12th holes and the match ended. Miss Mills was 1 over par on the 6,611-yard Gulf Hills course for the 30 holes played. She became the first Mississipian to win the title. Louisiana golfers won the first five tournaments.

Delhi Smashes Rayville Rivals To Tune Of 61-14

RAYVILLE, La., Oct. 19, (Special) The Class A Rayville Hornets suffered the most humiliating defeat ever handed them by their arch rivals, the Class B Delhi Bears, in a 61-14 intra-Richland parish game played at Rayville tonight.

The Bears scored at will with Leach tallying four times, Brown once, Hopson getting two TD's, Newton getting six points, and Richards scoring 13 points on one TD, four conversions, and a field goal from the 25-yard stripe.

Leach scored on runs of 17, 10, 60, and 20 yards. Brown's tally was made on a 20-yard pass play from Richards. Hopson scored on a 17-yard run and a 3-yard jaunt. Newton also tallied from 3 yards out. Richards' only 6-pointer came on a one-yard smash.

Rayville's points came from a 10-yard quarterback sneak by Stevenson, in the second quarter with the conversion by O'Conner, and a 98-yard kick-off return by Stevenson with the point after touchdown again kicked by O'Conner.

Score by quarters was Rayville, 6-7-7-0; Delhi 6-20-13-22.

Sicily Islanders Defeat Davidson In 18-To-0 Scrap

SICILY ISLAND, La., Oct. 19 (Special) — The Sicily Island Tigers notched their third victory of the season in defense of their district Class B crown tonight by tagging the Davidson Warriors of St. Joseph, 18 to 0.

Lynn Evans sent the Bengals ahead when he recovered a Davidson fumble for a first quarter touchdown.

Allen Cole got into the act when he intercepted a Warrior pass, picked up excellent blocking, and scooted 98 yards for the second Island touchdown.

Billy Wiggins capped the Tigers' scoring in the second quarter as he went ten yards on a reverse to score.

Mickey Has Birthday

Bastrop's Rams Wallop West Monroe, 45 To 0

BASTROP, La., Oct. 19 (Special)—The West Monroe High rate attempt to come out the win-School Rebels began a desppeless column here tonight but their stand soon gave way to a Bastrop High Ram victory, ending 45 to 0.

The Rebels who went into the tilt as underdog candidates held the Rams scoreless during the first quarter.

STATISTICS

Bastrop then ripped off two more T.D.'s during the second quarter on two Burks to Akins handoffs. One was for 7 yards, the other 14 yards.

A pitchout from Patrick to Akins accounted for one extra point. Naff's kick after the first of the two touchdowns was no good.

Early in the third quarter, Burks handed off to Larry Ryder who scampered up the middle for 61 yards and a T.D. Pitchout to Akins was good for extra point.

Jerry Brown recovered a West Monroe fumble on the Rebels 11 yard line to set up the next Ram T.D. A handoff from Hinkey to Jimmy Life resulted in the T.D. no good.

In the fourth quarter a pitchout from Hinkey to Jerry Johnson netted 41 yards and another T.D. Hinkey's pass to Preston Newman for the extra point was no good.

JONESVILLE, La., Oct. 19 (Special) — Ferriday's Bulldogs, sparked by fullback Ronnie Daye, kept their victory record unscathed by downing the Block High Bears 27 to 6, here tonight.

The game pushed Ferriday's victory record to 46 without a loss. Earlier this year they were tied by Jena.

Early in the first quarter the Bulldogs took over and quickly paraded in to Block territory.

Daye drove eight yards for the initial Ferriday six-pointer. Tommy Brashier's attempt at conversion failed. Daye plunged from the four-for his second touchdown, and Brashier converted.

Later in the second period Daye passed to G. W. Minor for 40 yards and the second TD. Brashier's conversion was good.

Again in the fourth quarter, Daye, who proved the night's leading ground gainer, ripped off a 17-yard run for the final score of the game. Brashier's kick was good for the extra point.

The game brought Block's loss record to three. The Bears have won four this year.

Ferriday's record this year stands at 6 won, 0 lost, 1 tied. The Jena Giants, three weeks ago, tied the Bulldogs 13 to 13 to mar the consecutive victory record.

Inspired Georgia Eleven Gets 7-7 Draw With Miami

MIAMI, Fla., Oct. 19 (AP)—Coach Wally Butts had his "pore lil Georgia boys" keyed up to fighting pitch tonight and the Bulldogs shocked 42,682 Orange Bowl fans by battling Miami's heavily-favored Hrricanes to a 7-7 deadlock.

Jefferson Davis, a lanky halfback from Alabama, gave Georgia a 7-0 lead in the first period by latching on to a Miami punt and faking a host of Hurricane tacklers off their feet in a beautiful 58-yard touchdown run.

It looked like the bulldogs were going to make that margin stand up, for they stopped Miami's offense cold, on the ground and in the air, until a desperate last-quarter drive by the Hurricanes evened the count.

Even then, a magnificent goal line stand by Georgia almost succeeded after Miami had driven 84 yards to a first down at the Bulldog one-yard line. Fullback Bill Sandie was dropped in his tracks twice and an attempted pass was broken up before Sandie finally bulled across on fourth down.

LaSalle's Tigers Catch Columbia's Tidemen, 19 To 7

Kenneth Strickland scored Columbia's only TD in the third quarter when he took a pitchout from Doyle Thornton from seven yards out. "Bubba" Henry ran over the extra point.

In the waning moments of the game, Allbritton scored an insurance touchdown on a four-yard dive into the end zone. The extra point try was good.

McNeese Set To Check Northeast March

Three Grid Crowns May Be Up For Grabs Today

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
The Associated Press

Although the 1956 football season still is very young—and showing the unpredictability associated with youth — the championships of three major college conferences could be settled today by hand-to-hand combat.

The key games on the schedule for the third October Saturday are Wyoming vs. Utah, Texas Christian vs. Texas A&M and Oklahoma A&M vs. Houston. Other conference title contenders also could be knocked out today, but it would require upsets, rather than showdowns, to eliminate them.

Wyoming and Utah, each with three victories over Skyline Conference opponents, already have shown themselves to be the class of that circuit. It would be a great surprise if the winner of this contest failed to go on through to the title. Wyoming, with the home field advantage, is rated a slight favorite.

Bear Bryant's Texas Aggies make their first Southwest Conference start against TCU, which won its opener from Arkansas two weeks ago. Both are unbeaten, though the Aggies were held to a surprising 14-14 tie by Houston last week. Baylor, another team to be reckoned with in this always-uncertain conference race, has an open date before facing the Aggies next week.

The Southwest Conference race barely has begun. It's the first league game for Rice and Southern Methodist, who meet each other, and for Texas, facing twice-beaten Arkansas.

Houston, preseason favorite in the Missouri Valley Conference, also meets its first league rival in Oklahoma A&M, a young team that has won one and tied one in conference play so far. Tulsa, which tied the Aggies, meets Detroit in another Valley game.

There's something of a showdown in the Pacific Coast Conference where Washington, tied for the lead, meets unbeaten Southern California. But too many teams are involved in the race for this one to settle things. The same holds true in the Southeastern Conference where four of the leading teams meet major opponents.

On the Coast, UCLA, tied with Washington, plays California and Stanford, the favored Rose Bowl eligible, encounters Oregon.

In the Southeast, Mississippi and Georgia Tech share the lead and tough Tennessee is close behind. Ole Miss tackles Tulane, which has a good non-conference showing but doesn't look quite strong enough to dent the Mississippi defense. Steadily improving Tech plays Auburn and Tennessee meets humbled Alabama. Vanderbilt, still a possible factor, plays Florida and Kentucky faces Louisiana State in other conference games.

Other attractive Southern games include Duke vs. Pittsburgh at Norfolk, Va., North Carolina vs. Maryland, Florida State vs. Wake Forest and William and Mary vs. West Virginia.

Oklahoma and Michigan State, two top - rated national powers, aren't looking for too much trouble against Kansas and Notre Dame, respectively. The Michigan State-Notre Dame game, regarded earlier as one of the season's big ones, lost stature when the inexperienced and battered Irish lost two of their first three.

The Big Ten race remains more-or-less static in spite of three games — Michigan-Northwestern, Minnesota-Illinois and Wisconsin-Purdue. Contender Ohio State goes outside the circuit to play Penn State, Iowa meets Hawaii and Indiana visits Nebraska.

Colorado, still ahead of Oklahoma in the Big Seven race, meets Iowa State and Kansas State entertains Missouri.

Top Eastern attractions are Syracuse-Army, a sellout, and Princeton vs. Colgate, with Navy vs. Cincinnati and the Ivy League Yale vs. Cornell, Pennsylvania vs. Brown and Columbia vs. Harvard games just behind.

Defunct Liberty Radio Collects Grid Settlement

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19 (UP) —Federal Judge Allan K. Grim Friday approved the $100,000 settlement of the suit brought against the National Football League by the defunct Liberty Broadcasting Company.

Liberty originally sued for $2.1 million trebel damages, charging the league forced it into banruptcy by withholding permission for it to broadcast games. It cited a $700,000 loss.

The $100,000 settlement was reached last Sept 12 subject to approval by Judge Grim, who heard the anti-trust suit brought by the government against the league several years ago.

The settlement approved by Grim Friday calls for immediate payment of $60,000 and the payment of $40,000 by next Jan. 7.

Cowboys Favored To End Redskins' Four-Game Skein

LAKE CHARLES, La., October 19 (Special) —Northeast State's high - flying Indians will invade Lake Charles Saturday to meet John Gregory's McNeese State Cowboys at Lake Charles High School Stadium. Kickoff will be at 7:30 o'clock.

The Cowpokes will be celebrating their 12th annual homecoming and boast a record of nine homecoming wins against three losses. Festivities will start at 7:15.

Coach DeVone Payne's Tribe is currently on a hot four-game win streak and will be out to make the Cowboys number five, although the Indians from Monroe have not defeated a McNeese eleven since 1945.

The Pokes bounced back on the win trail last week, easily defeating Louisiana College, 25-6, in a tilt sparked by two brilliant runs by Rogers Hampton. The Shreveport streak returned a Wildcat punt 67 yards early in the first quarter to set up the first McNeese score, and electrified the crowd of 5,000 with a sparkling 72-yard jaunt on the first play from scrimmage in the third quarter.

The Redskins have the leading scorer in the G.S.C. in the person of Aubrey Wade, who has scored 50 points this season. The Laurel, Miss., speedster has scoring runs of 66 yards against Stephen F. Austin, 99 against Delta State, 49 and 38 against S.L.I. and 34 and 60 against Southern Arkansas.

Despite Northeast's sudden rise of prestige in the Gulf States loop, currently boasting the leading offensive team as well as top scorer, the McNeese machine is a heavy favorite to spike the Redskins' march. Should the Tribe be fortunate enough to upset the Cowboys, then they certainly will be worthy of commanding more respect from their rivals.

Giambra Handed Split Decision In Turner Bout

.. NEW YORK, Oct. 19 (AP) —Joey Giambra of Buffalo won a 10-round split decision over Gil Turner of Philadelphia in their nationally televised fight at Madison Square Garden tonight. Giambra weighed 158, Turner 150¾.

Giambra, a 3 to 1 favorite, had to come on with a blazing rally in the final round of the bristling bout to gain the edge. It was the fifth straight victory for the 10th ranking middleweight contender from Buffalo and Turner's fourth successive defeat.

Wbash Beats Irish

Bulldogs, Demons Resume State Fair Feud Tonight

RUSTON, La., Oct. 19 (Special) —For the first time in the 16-game series Louisiana Tech and Northwestern State will meet in a night contest at Shreveport's State Fair Stadium Saturday night.

Bulldog fans are hoping that action against the Demons under the lights does not change the Tech luck that has now pulled the Canines through two straight victories over the Northwesterners the past two years.

Kickoff time at 8 p.m. Saturday night will also find the Techsters gunning for their second Gulf States Conference win at the expense of the arch-rival Demons. Defending champs of the conference, the Canines need very much to take the tilt if they expect to stay in the running for the title again this fall.

Just what kind of strategy Coach Joe Aillet and assistant coaches Cecil Crowley, Jim Mize and Huey Williamson have been brewing up for the tussle remains to be seen. General opinion around the Bulldog kennel is that the Demons have a good outfit and it will take some hard playing on the part of the Techmen if they expect to make it three straight at the State Fair.

The Techsters edged out N.S.C. 21-20, last fall in one of the most thrilling games of the series. In 1954 it was Tech 13, N.S.C. 6. N.S.C.'s last victory was a 15-7 count in the 1953 bout.

The Bulldog machine this season features a big, tough forward wall that has been just about as good as anything it has run up against in five games that have resulted in a 2-2-1 season record. However, there have been troubles in the backfield where Tech has looked good at times only to have fumbles and other miscues stop them deep in enemy territory.

Saturday's tussle could easily boil down to a struggle between Tech's stout defense and Northwestern's strong offense. The highly touted Bulldog line is sparked by the linebacking of seniors Bobby Stone, left guard, and Charles Glover, center. A 190-pounder from Tifton, Ga., Stone has been one of the key players in the Bulldog defensive arrangement.

"Stone is in our opinion one of the best linebackers ever to play in the Gulf States Conference," says Coach Aillet.

Last fall both Stone and Glover were selected by the G.S.C. coaches for the All-Conference first team and Stone also received honorable mention on the Williamson Rating System's Mid-Bracket All-American team.

Other fellows who plug big holes up front in the Bulldog forward wall are 230-pound Tommy Hinton and 225-pound Pat Hinton at tackles and a 205-pounder, Buddy Juneau, at guard. The Hinton brothers were also named to the All-G.S.C. first team last season.

Sophomore Juneau who has shown good work since he arrived on the Tech campus last season, has been advanced to a starting spot the last two tilts. At the terminals the Canines have considerable depth with such fellows as Billy White, Neal Thompson, Sherwood White and Pat Patterson seeing considerable duty.

The Bulldog running game will find such yardmakers as fullback Jerry Frasier and halfbacks A. L. Williams and Sonny Sumlin doing a great deal of the ball carrying. Frasier leads in rushing average this season with almost five yards gained each time he has toted the pigskin.

Two N.S.C. units will get into the game and are scheduled to put in most of the time. Starting unit is termed the "Purple" team, while the second unit is called "White," in using the school colors to advantage.

Several transfers and non-lettermen are on each unit, with the former group giving the Demons that needed weight and strength, and the latter some fine running backs.

Another starter in this group is Bryant (Red) Lewis, 190-pound right guard from Haynesville, who played junior college football at Kilgore before joining N.S.C this fall.

Everette Doerge, big Minden tackle, who also played at Mississippi State, tackle Bobby Tackett, and end Billy Kidd of Dallas, Texas, complete the list of transfer players in the line

Another Minden lad, young Douglas Burt, 200-pound center on the "White" unit, is the first on the list for non-lettermen. Burt, a sophomore, was a guard last year, but was shifted to middle of the line behind Harry Fontenot.

Fullback Dewey O'Neal, whose hard running has been one of the highlights of the middle-aged season for the Demons, and guard Rudy Landry, complete the list of squadmen who might see action in the Tech squabble.

Senators Vote To Remain Domiciled In Washington

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (UP)—Directors of the Washington Senators, heeding sentiment and President Eisenhower's wishes, voted unanimously Friday to keep major league baseball in the nation's capital.

Club President Calvin Griffith announced the verdict after a marathon session of the five-man board, proclaiming jubilantly that "we are very happy to be in Washington and hope we will stay here the rest of our lives."

The directors, who pondered their decision for more than seven hours, rejected offers to move the American League club to Louisville, Los Angeles, San Francisco or Minneapolis.

Sentiment played a major role in the decision. Weighing heavily against a move was the memory of Clark Griffith — the beloved "old Fox" who was Washington's Mr. Baseball — and Mr. Eisenhower's recent statement that he was "agin" moving the team.

The directors took just one vote —a motion to keep the club in Washington. It was offered by Calvin Griffith, who had started all the moving talk.

The decision was not a complete surprise — the United Press had predicted it — but ball fans here nervously sweating it out during the suspenseful board meeting.

After it was over, Griffith made it appear that they never had anything to fear. He emphatically denied he ever said he was interested in moving the club out of Washington.

Asked what city had made the best offer, he smilingly replied "Washington," and refused to say which was second best.

The directors had weighed offers from Los Angeles, Minneapolis, and San Francisco and talked personally with a representative of Louisville. It was generally believed beforehand that Los Angeles was the best bet to acquire the cronic second division team.

"All the offers made were attractive, but we just decided to stay in Washington," Griffith said.

Although attendance has slumped at the Washington ballpark where the winner is usually the visiting team, the die-hard Washington fans rallied around when faced with the prospect of losing major league baseball.

Griffith said, however, that the club had received no promises involving a new stadium.

Waterproof Rolls In Final Minutes To Nip Southside

WATERPROOF, La., Oct. 19 (Special) —Waterproof's Tensas Tigers fought back with two touchdowns in the final three minutes of play here last night to overhaul the Southside Pelicans of Monroe, who had outplayed them all the way, 13-12. Held to five first downs until late in the final quarter, Waterproof came to life with a passing attack that paid off.

Southside scored in the first quarter on a 60-yard gallop by Billy Erwin, and the Pels made it 12-0 in the third period when "Chickadee" Gongre broke loose on a 40-yard touchdown run. Gongre and Erwin gained consistently throughout the game, but failure to buck over extra point trys cost the Pels the game.

The game had exactly three minutes left to play when quarterback Justice pitched to Coy Pace from 12 yards out for the first Waterproof touchdown. Justice added the point that was to decide the game.

On the kickoff following Pace's touchdown, Waterproof covered a contested short free kick and immediately took to the air again, advancing to the Pelican three from where Louis Jones plunged the rest of the way.

The lineups:

Southside

Ends —Courtney, Owens, Dupuy, B. Ballew.
Tackles —Gunter, May, Green, Wainwright.
Guards —Leone, Crouch, Guidry.
Centers —Taylor, Guidry.
Backs —Fincher, P. Ballew, Erwin, Zitmann, Gongre, Broyard, Hicks, McNeal.

Waterproof

Ends —Smith, Durbin.
Tackles —James, Harold.
Guards —Interkin, Tarpley.
Center —Tucker.
Backs —Chase, Jones, Pace, Justice.

Japanese Defeat Dodgers In First Contest Of Tour

TOKYO, Oct. 20 (Saturday) (AP)—The Brooklyn Dodgers, losers of the U.S. World Series and their exhibition baseball debut in Japan, were quite ready for a taste of victory Saturday.

"We don't expect to lose any more games. But if we play like we did Friday, I'm sure we will lose some more," said Dodger captain Pee Wee Reese. Brooklyn was upset 5-4 Friday by the Tokyo Yomiuri Giants in a battle of the World Series losers — America's and Japan's.

Saturday, the Dodgers take on an all-star team from the Central League, strongest of Japan's two major baseball circuits. The Central All-Stars include Tetsuji Kawakami and Hawaiian Nisei Andy Miyamoto, who together hit three of four Giant home runs off pitchers Don Bessent and Don Drysdale Friday.

Reese praised two Japanese pitchers, Takumi Otomo and Sho Horiuchi, who struck out 16 Dodgers Friday as having "very good control."

Browns' Offense Hits Lowest Ebb In Eleven Years

CLEVELAND, Oct. 20 (UP)—From any angle, the Cleveland Browns' offense has hit its lowest ebb in the team's 11-year history, but a pair of speedy newcomers could give the attack a much-needed spark.

Rookie Preston Carpenter and Skeet, Quinlan, a recent addition from the Los Angeles Rams, are being groomed for offensive backfield posts. Both have speed, and in Quinlan's case an established pro record.

Coach Paul Brown, who leads his team into Washington Sunday as a six and one-half point favorite over the Redskins, is frankly disappointed at the way his offense has looked in losing two and winning one National Football League contests. But he is far from panicky.

"The Estern Conference winner will probably take the title with an 8-4 record," he predicted. "And that certainly makes us contenders."

What bothers the Cleveland coach is inability of the offense to move the ball while the defensive team usually has the upper hand against the opposition.

The two Cleveland defeats have brought the critics out in full force, and the usual cry is—"no Otto Graham, no championship!"

Brown doesn't think that way. Graham is gone, and Brown is working with what he has — a potentital championship team.

Millsaps Seeks Organization Of Sports Boosters

Millsaps Grammar School of West Monroe is mapping plans to organize an athletic booster club for parents and friends of Millsaps' young athletes, including football, boys and girls' basketball, and girls' softball, and for this purpose a meeting of interested followers has been called for Tuesday night.

The meeting is slated for 7:30 o'clock Tuesday in the school cafeteria, and the purpose of the booster organization will be to promote athletic interests at the school.

McNeese Set To Check Northeast March

Three Grid Crowns May Be Up For Grabs Today

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.
The Associated Press

Although the 1956 football season still is very young—and showing the unpredictability associated with youth — the championships of three major college conferences could be settled today by hand-to-hand combat.

The key games on the schedule for the third October Saturday are Wyoming vs. Utah, Texas Christian vs. Texas A&M and Oklahoma A&M vs. Houston. Other conference title contenders also could be knocked out today, but it would require upsets, rather than showdowns, to eliminate them.

Wyoming and Utah, each with three victories over Skyline Conference opponents, already have shown themselves to be the class of that circuit. It would be a great surprise if the winner of this contest failed to go on through to the title. Wyoming, with the home field advantage, is rated a slight favorite.

Bear Bryant's Texas Aggies make their first Southwest Conference start against TCU, which won its opener from Arkansas two weeks ago. Both are unbeaten, though the Aggies were held to a surprising 14-14 tie by Houston last week. Baylor, another team to be reckoned with in this always-uncertain conference race, has an open date before facing the Aggies next week.

The Southwest Conference race barely has begun. It's the first league game for Rice and Southern Methodist, who meet each other, and for Texas, facing twice-beaten Arkansas.

Houston, preseason favorite in the Missouri Valley Conference, also meets its first league rival in Oklahoma A&M, a young team that has won one and tied one in conference play so far. Tulsa, which tied the Aggies, meets Detroit in another Valley game.

There's something of a showdown in the Pacific Coast Conference where Washington, tied for the lead, meets unbeaten Southern California. But too many teams are involved in the race for this one to settle things. The same holds true in the Southeastern Conference where four of the leading teams meet major opponents.

On the Coast, UCLA, tied with Washington, plays California and Stanford, the favored Rose Bowl eligible, encounters Oregon.

In the Southeast, Mississippi and Georgia Tech share the lead and tough Tennessee is close behind. Ole Miss tackles Tulane, which has a good non-conference showing but doesn't look quite strong enough to dent the Mississippi defense. Steadily improving Tech plays Auburn and Tennessee meets humbled Alabama. Vanderbilt, still a possible factor, plays Florida and Kentucky faces Louisiana State in other conference games.

Other attractive Southern games include Duke vs. Pittsburgh at Norfolk, Va., North Carolina vs. Maryland, Florida State vs. Wake Forest and William and Mary vs. West Virginia.

Oklahoma and Michigan State, two top - rated national powers, aren't looking for too much trouble against Kansas and Notre Dame, respectively. The Michigan State-Notre Dame game, regarded earlier as one of the season's big ones, lost stature when the inexperienced and battered Irish lost two of their first three.

The Big Ten race remains more-or-less static in spite of three games — Michigan-Northwestern, Minnesota-Illinois and Wisconsin-Purdue. Contender Ohio State goes outside the circuit to play Penn State, Iowa meets Hawaii and Indiana visits Nebraska.

Colorado, still ahead of Oklahoma in the Big Seven race, meets Iowa State and Kansas State entertains Missouri.

Top Eastern attractions are Syracuse-Army, a sellout, and Princeton vs. Colgate, with Navy vs. Cincinnati and the Ivy League Yale vs. Cornell, Pennsylvania vs. Brown and Columbia vs. Harvard games just behind.

Defunct Liberty Radio Collects Grid Settlement

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 19 (UP) —Federal Judge Allan K. Grim Friday approved the $100,000 settlement of the suit brought against the National Football League by the defunct Liberty Broadcasting Company.

Liberty originally sued for $2.1 million trebel damages, charging the league forced it into banruptcy by withholding permission for it to broadcast games. It cited a $700,000 loss.

The $100,000 settlement was reached last Sept 12 subject to approval by Judge Grim, who heard the anti-trust suit brought by the government against the league several years ago.

The settlement approved by Grim Friday calls for immediate payment of $60,000 and the payment of $40,000 by next Jan. 7.

Cowboys Favored To End Redskins' Four-Game Skein

LAKE CHARLES, La., October 19 (Special) —Northeast State's high - flying Indians will invade Lake Charles Saturday to meet John Gregory's McNeese State Cowboys at Lake Charles High School Stadium. Kickoff will be at 7:30 o'clock.

The Cowpokes will be celebrating their 12th annual homecoming and boast a record of nine homecoming wins against three losses. Festivities will start at 7:15.

Coach DeVone Payne's Tribe is currently on a hot four-game win streak and will be out to make the Cowboys number five, although the Indians from Monroe have not defeated a McNeese eleven since 1945.

The Pokes bounced back on the win trail last week, easily defeating Louisiana College, 25-6, in a tilt sparked by two brilliant runs by Rogers Hampton. The Shreveport streak returned a Wildcat punt 67 yards early in the first quarter to set up the first McNeese score, and electrified the crowd of 5,000 with a sparkling 72-yard jaunt on the first play from scrimmage in the third quarter.

The Redskins have the leading scorer in the G.S.C. in the person of Aubrey Wade, who has scored 50 points this season. The Laurel, Miss., speedster has scoring runs of 66 yards against Stephen F. Austin, 99 against Delta State, 49 and 38 against S.L.I. and 34 and 60 against Southern Arkansas.

Despite Northeast's sudden rise of prestige in the Gulf States loop, currently boasting the leading offensive team as well as top scorer, the McNeese machine is a heavy favorite to spike the Redskins' march. Should the Tribe be fortunate enough to upset the Cowboys, then they certainly will be worthy of commanding more respect from their rivals.

Giambra Handed Split Decision In Turner Bout

Giambra, a 3 to 1 favorite, had to come on with a blazing rally in the final round of the bristling bout to gain the edge. It was the fifth straight victory for the 10th ranking middleweight contender from Buffalo and Turner's fourth successive defeat.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., Oct 19 (UP) — Wabash College under Coach Bill Spaulding, defeated the Notre Dame football team, 5-0, 51 years ago on Oct. 21, 1905.

Bulldogs, Demons Resume State Fair Feud Tonight

RUSTON, La., Oct. 19 (Special) —For the first time in the 16-game series Louisiana Tech and Northwestern State will meet in a night contest at Shreveport's State Fair Stadium Saturday night.

Bulldog fans are hoping that action against the Demons under the lights does not change the Tech luck that has now pulled the Canines through two straight victories over the Northwesterners the past two years.

Kickoff time at 8 p.m. Saturday night will also find the Techsters gunning for their second Gulf States Conference win at the expense of the arch-rival Demons. F. W. Woolworth Company, the nation's biggest variety store chain, has entered the mail order business with its Christmas gift catalog now being mailed out, according to the company. For the first time in its 76-year history, 50 different gift items will be available by mail from regional warehouses at San Francisco, Chicago, and New York. A company spokesman said that for the time being Woolworth has no plans to expand mail order facilities and that the present set-up is more or less experimental.

Flying Tiger line has filed a petition with the Civil Aeronautics Board requesting a 3 per cent across the board increase in air freight rates.

The Navy awarded Lockheed Aircraft a $60.9 million contract for jet trainers. Other large contracts include Westinghouse Electric Aviation, $13.7 million; North American Aviation, $4.1 million; Chevrolet Motor Division, $3.7 million; J. P. Stevens, $1.8 million Sylvania Electric, $1.3 million; Sperry Rand, $1.3 million; J. A. Folger, $1.1 million; and Cinderella Knitting Mills, $1.01 million.

Third quarter sales by RCA set a new high for the period, but profits were below the 58 cents a common share netted in the like 1955 period.

Revised stock appraisal states that Allied Chemical and Dye Company's leading trade position, excellent finances and long dividend and earnings record qualify the common stock as an investment - type issue. Allied's aggressive expansion and diversification program enhance its longer term prospects. Nine month sales were at record levels, but due to higher costs and lower profit margins, net income declined to $3.64 a share from $4 adjusted in the like 1955 period.

A revised stock appraisal on Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad will state in part that 1956 net earnings are expected to approximate $8.25 a common share versus $7.25 reported for 1955. General business prospects remain favorable and strong demand for coal, both domestic and foreign, is expected to continue. Because of good earnings and strong finances the company is favorably situated to pay liberal dividends.

Shortening prices at the wholesale level were advanced 1½ cents a pound by major producers Tuesday morning. New selling schedules are 22¼ cents a pound for bulk standard shortening and 23¼ cents for bulk hydrogenerated. Producers announcing the advance Monday include Procter and Gamble and Best Foods.

Cotton

New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 —Cotton futures firmed in late dealings today as trade buying and short covering increased prior to the weekend. Final prices were unchanged to 65 cents a bale higher.

Hedge selling and liquidation were heavy at the start, with early losses extending to 50 cents a bale. Trade offerings reflected the peak movement of the crop. In addition, merchants who have been carrying cotton on an open price basis were more inclined to hedge in view of the lower market trend this week. Switching from nearby December to later months was fairly active, particularly into May.

After the close, the C.C.C. reported it sold 466,922 bales of export cotton to shippers against bids submitted on Oct. 16. the average price for middling one inch cotton at average locations was 26.29 cents a pound and unchanged from the previous sale. The C.C.C. so far has sold 4,633,660 bales of its stocks under the current export sales program.

The New York market opened slightly lower on some liquidation with trade buying, but steadied later moving within a narrow range throughout the day. A small amount of hedge selling appeared. Unfixed call sales as of October 12 totaled 1,265,300 bales compared to 794,900 bales last year, while unfixed call purchases were 30,200 versus 83,000 last year. A report from Census Bueau shows that cotton consumption so far this season is 1,508,455 bales compared to 1,590,853 bales last year. Trading in the cotton goods market was quiet with second hand offerings slightly lower.

Exports today totalled 34,633 bales which brings the seasons total to 840,404 bales compared to 375,550 bales last year. CCC sales today totalled 466,922 bales bringing the total for the program to 4,633,660 bales with one inch middling selling at 26.29.

F. W. Woolworth Company, the nation's biggest variety store chain, has entered the mail order business with its Christmas gift catalog now being mailed out, according to the company. For the first time in its 76-year history, 50 different gift items will be available by mail from regional warehouses at San Francisco, Chicago, and New York. A company spokesman said that for the time being Woolworth has no plans to expand mail order facilities and that the present set-up is more or less experimental.

Flying Tiger line has filed a petition with the Civil Aeronautics Board requesting a 3 per cent across the board increase in air freight rates.

The Navy awarded Lockheed Aircraft a $60.9 million contract for jet trainers. Other large contracts include Westinghouse Electric Aviation, $13.7 million; North American Aviation, $4.1 million; Chevrolet Motor Division, $3.7 million; J. P. Stevens, $1.8 million Sylvania Electric, $1.3 million; Sperry Rand, $1.3 million; J. A. Folger, $1.1 million; and Cinderella Knitting Mills, $1.01 million.

The Navy also gave Northern Ordnance a $25 million contract to produce guided missile launching equipment for a new class of frigates.

Third quarter sales by RCA set a new high for the period, but profits were below the 58 cents a common share netted in the like 1955 period.

Revised stock appraisal states that Allied Chemical and Dye Company's leading trade position, excellent finances and long dividend and earnings record qualify the common stock as an investment - type issue. Allied's aggressive expansion and diversification program enhance its longer term prospects. Nine month sales were at record levels, but due to higher costs and lower profit margins, net income declined to $3.64 a share from $4 adjusted in the like 1955 period.

A revised stock appraisal on Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad will state in part that 1956 net earnings are expected to approximate $8.25 a common share versus $7.25 reported for 1955. General business prospects remain favorable and strong demand for coal, both domestic and foreign, is expected to continue. Because of good earnings and strong finances the company is favorably situated to pay liberal dividends.

Shortening prices at the wholesale level were advanced 1½ cents a pound by major producers Tuesday morning. New selling schedules are 22¼ cents a pound for bulk standard shortening and 23¼ cents for bulk hydrogenerated. Producers announcing the advance Monday include Procter and Gamble and Best Foods.

Cotton

New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 19 —Cotton futures firmed in late dealings today as trade buying and short covering increased prior to the weekend. Final prices were unchanged to 65 cents a bale higher.

Hedge selling and liquidation were heavy at the start, with early losses extending to 50 cents a bale. Trade offerings reflected the peak movement of the crop. In addition, merchants who have been carrying cotton on an open price basis were more inclined to hedge in view of the lower market trend this week. Switching from nearby December to later months was fairly active, particularly into May.

The Census Bureau reported September cotton consumption was 822,180 running bales which was a little under trade expectations. For the first two months of the current season, consumption amounted to 1,508,455 bales which was 82,398 bales under the comparative figure a year ago.

After the close, the C.C.C. reported it sold 466,922 bales of export cotton to shippers against bids submitted on Oct. 16. the average price for middling one inch cotton at average locations was 26.29 cents a pound and unchanged from the previous sale. The C.C.C. so far has sold 4,633,660 bales of its stocks under the current export sales program.

The New York market opened slightly lower on some liquidation with trade buying, but steadied later moving within a narrow range throughout the day. A small amount of hedge selling appeared. Unfixed call sales as of October 12 totaled 1,265,300 bales compared to 794,900 bales last year, while unfixed call purchases were 30,200 versus 83,000 last year. A report from Census Bueau shows that cotton consumption so far this season is 1,508,455 bales compared to 1,590,853 bales last year. Trading in the cotton goods market was quiet with second hand offerings slightly lower.

Exports today totalled 34,633 bales which brings the seasons total to 840,404 bales compared to 375,550 bales last year. CCC sales today totalled 466,922 bales bringing the total for the program to 4,633,660 bales with one inch middling selling at 26.29.

Liverpool futures closed today 10 English points higher to 13 lower. It was reported that freight rates from California, New Mexico and Arizona to Southern Mills may be reduced to 17 cents a bale, effective tomorrow.

A loud roar went up from the jammed courtroom when the jurors announced their decision after only 35 minutes of debate. Some 20 to 25 children who are wards of Vogel's children's home in Florida applauded and cheered wildly when the verdict was announced.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—The population of the United States increased nine per cent or approximately 13,606,000 between the last census in 1950 and July 1, 1955, the Census Bureau said today.

The total as of mid-1955 was 164,303,000 compared with 150,697,361 when the census was taken in 1950.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP) — A Power Commission examiner today recommended denial of natural gas rate increases proposed by two idependent producers on sales to United Gas Pipe Line Co., Shreveport, La.

Examiner Daniel J. Kelly held that Crow Drilling Co., Inc., Shreveport, and Gulf Refining Co., Houston, should refund to United Gas the increased rates they have been collecting, subject to refund.

OSLO, Norway, Oct. 19 (AP)—A tremendous explosion brought down the 100-yard-long concrete walls and roof of an underground ammunition workshop at Raufoss today. Five workers were killed and 16 injured.

The blast occurred in one of several bombproof halls tunnelled into a mountain 65 miles north of Oslo where nearly all the ammunition for Norway's armed forces is made. The government-owned plant also makes ammunition for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

TYLER, Tex., Oct. 19 UP)—A hearing on the state's effort to oust the ational Association for the Advancement of Colored People from Texas ended its fourth week Friday with testimony about Vice President Richard Nixon's membership in the organization.

Roy Wilkins, the NAACP's national secretary, said Nixon could not have an honorary membership because there is no such thing.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct. 9 (AP)—Two flying businessmen got a little confused and landed at a livestock yard instead of Phoenix Sky Harbor Airport last night.

There were about 35 cows in the vicinity when the plane sailed into the Tovrea Cattle Co. feeding pen, carrying William C. Cunningham, 49, of Vashon, Wash., and Glen Price, 58, of Burton, Wash. Price was the pilot.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19 (AP) — President Eisenhower tonight accused Adlai Stevenson of "speaking incredible folly" in saying the military draft is an "incredible waste" of manpower and money.

In a speech prepared for delivery in the Hollywood Bowl, Eisenhower said:

"I do not believe that any political campaign justifies the declaration of a moratorium on common sense.

"We might afford to be tolerant—in an amused way—of the current effort to sell senseless economic panaceas in a political bargain basement."

Benson Cites Dip In Farm Surplus, Rising Of Prices

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., Oct. 19 (AP) —Secretary of Agriculture Benson tonight declared farm prices and income are "on the rise" and surpluses "on the run" despite called "maliciously untrue" statements by the opposition.

In a speech prepared for delivery before the Farmers for Eisenhower organization, Benson reviewed the administration's farm program, which, he said is geared "to freedom and opportunity" for farmers rather than "more regimentation" and "a lack of faith" in famers.

The secretary, listing what he called "some truths which are important," said:

1. "Farm prices have turned the corner, after five long years of decline. They are now six per cent above last December. They are higher than when the President vetoed the political grab-bag of a farm bill put on his desk by the opposition last spring.

2. "Farm income is rising. It is currently running nine per cent—better than a billion dollars—above a year ago.

3. "Surpluses of farm products are on the run. A combination of flexible price supports, massive disposal efforts, and prospects for success with the soil bank have turned the corner on surplus accumulation.

4. "The price of farm land is at an all-time peak—indicating the basic optimism of farm people in the agricultural outlook.

5. "Farm tenancy is at an all-time low. The percentage of farms owned by the families who operate them is an all-time record high."

466,922 Bales Of Surplus Cotton Sold At Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 19 (AP) — The Commodity Credit Corp. reported today it sold 466,922 bales of surplus cotton for export only on bids opened Oct. 16.

Since the CCC offered its cotton for export sale, 4,633,660 bales have been sold.

Two Explosions Jolt Tanker At Lake Charles

LAKE CHARLES, La., Oct. 19 (AP) — Two explosions jolted the front of the tanker Government Camp today as Cities Service workers prepared to load it with oil. Four men were hospitalized.

The blasts took place on the Calcasieu River at the Cities Service Refining Corp. docks, scene last January of an explosion that destroyed the oil tanker Salem Maritime and killed 21.

No cargo had been loaded on the Government Camp, which arrived today from New York.

The injured, taken to Lake Charles hospitals, were:

Seaman Joseph Wallace, 40, Norfolk, Va., fractured ankles and bruises.

Auto Taken For Trial Spin Here, But Not Returned

It happened this way:

The salesman said the man drove off at 10:30 a.m., promising to be back at 11:20 a.m., "but he didn't say what day," the salesman lamented.

The car is a two-door Fairlane, 1956 Louisiana license number 436-916, brown and white, with black tires, radio and heater, and brown seat covers.

The man is described as about 50 years old, five feet eight inches tall, 135 pounds, reddish complexion, false teeth, brown pants, and a dark shirt with a sweater underneath.

Utilities Co. case, adding that the Supreme Court could fix rates to be charged or remand the case to the commission to fix rates.

Although the commission used a new method in ordering the cut, Herget said any rate fixed "which results in not giving the utility a fair and reasonable return must be held to be arbitrary and confiscatory and therefore illegal.

"Admittedly the utilization of the method evolved by the Public Service Commission does not and will not result in giving the petitioner a rate of return on its investment as provided in the formula announced in the Louisiana Power and Light case."

droves of hunters had swarmed into the parish and the hunting camps by the time the ordinance was passed. He said the sheriff had agreed to cooperate with the game wardens in notifying hunters of the new law.

East Carroll Sheriff J. W. (Red) Gilbert stated that their parish would be open Friday but that if any fires were started, immediate steps would be taken to close hunting season until the necessary amount of rain falls.

The list of parishes reporting open season include Caldwell, East Carroll, Franklin, Jackson, Lincoln, Union Winn Morehouse, and West Carroll.

Plans By Hoover Commission Seen As Money Saving

"Every man, woman and child in Ouachita parish would save $33 per year if the provisions of the Hoover Commission recommendations were placed in effect," Les Flesner, district manager of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, told a group of 85 local business leaders at a special luncheon yesterday.

An opportunity to lop off 5½ billion dollars is in the offing if Mr. Average Citizen will rise to the occasion and emand more economy in government without sacrificing efficiency, he said.

"The Hoover Commission reports introduced over seven years ago have produced a combined savings of some $38 billion dollars with less than 10 per cent of the proposals being followed," Flesner added.

The civic leaders were told that if some 18 reports and 314 recommendations offered by the bipartisan Hoover Commission program were put into effect, the following would accrue:

1. A possible eight per cent tax cut in all phases of taxes, or
2. A 15 per cent income tax reduction.

The U. S. Chamber official urged the local leaders to get the facts, spread the word, write the executive branch of the government, and to knock on the local congressman's door for action.

"If you don't take the responsibility of doing something at the local level—then you can expect government spending to increase at the rate of $4 billion annually," Flesner asserted.

The Minden, West Monroe, Ferriday and Bastrop chambers were represented at the meeting, along with the Monroe chamber.

Bonds Between Agriculture And Forestry Shown

BASTROP, Oct. 19 (Special) — The relationship between agriculture and forestry in Northeast Louisiana was the major topic Friday at a luncheon here attended by four members of the U.S. forestry from Washington, D. C.

The nation's leading foresters were guests of the International Paper Company of Bastrop at the Morehouse Country Club, which is set in a grove of pines, one of the chief trees of the south.

J. E. McCaffery, vice-president of the woodland's division of International Paper Co. of Mobile, Ala., discussed the timberlands of the south in a brief speech at the chicken barbecue luncheon.

The stop in Bastrop was the second in a south - side tour of Northeast Louisiana and southeast Arkansas. The group of foresters were guests of The Crossett Company in Ashley county, Ark., Thursday night.

Before leaving Ashley county Friday morning, the men toured the International Paper Company and the U. S. experimental forest station.

The luncheon in Bastrop preceeded a quick swing through Richland, Franklin, Catahoula and Concordia parishes en route to Natchez, Miss.

Hugh L. Redding, forest supervisor for the Kisatchie National Forest at Alexandria, said that the purpose of the trip through northeast Louisiana would be to point out the relationship between agriculture and forestry.

Redding added the group will view the various forestry programs in the south.

"However, we are showing the men the farming and cattle raising going on in northeast Louisiana in addition to forestry programs," he stated.

He told the judge he pulled into a filling station late Thursday to have the exhaust checked on his $10,000 white Continental Mark II. Naturally, there was soon a crowd around. After the car was fixed, Presley said, Hopper asked him to move on so other customers could be waited on but "three young ladies came up and asked me for an autograph."

He said he was obliging when Hopper slugged him through the window, saying "I don't care if you are Elvis Presley."

Hopper was about the same size but he was giving his foe 21 years in age and Elvis came up with a roundhouse right that landed on Hopper's left eye. The orb was almost closed in court Friday and the surrounding surface swathed in gorgeous autumn colors and band-aids.

Presley accused Hopper of drawing a small knife on him and police who arrived at the station on the run said they saw Hopper with a knife and dragged him away. Hopper, however, denied he threatened Presley with the knife and said the police were holding him when Presley connected.

In fining the two filling station men, Judge Friedman told Presley that he should realize his comings and goings would attract a crowd and "in the future you should take business people into consideration and cooperate with them, too."

ABout 30 Shreveport and northwest Louisiana realtors are among the 192 real estate men and their wives from all over the state attending the convention at the Evangeline Hotel.

"I feel that 1956 will be recorded as a better than average year so far as the real estate business is concerned, he said.

Turley struck a note of optimism with the realtors when he said that "This is a profitable time for realtors."

A graduate of the Benton College of Law Turley has been in the real estate business in St. Louis since 1933. He has taught real estate valuation at Washington University.

Turley, who was appointed colonel to the governor's staff, praised the realtors Washington, D. C., committee for keeping the American real estate business a "private enterprise."

He pointed out that in some European countries families are designated housing by their governments.

The build America better program, which was begun five years ago by the national association, also fell in line for praise from Turley.

"It is based upon strict enforcement of minimum housing standards," he said, "conserving of buildings which are physically sound and economically worth saving, the demolishing of structures which are gone beyond repair, and the arresting of blight before it has an opportunity to spread and deteriorate an entire community."

The topic speech Saturday will be "Louisiana's new real estate license law" by J. W. Glover, Department of Occupational Standards, of Baton Rouge.

This was Jordan's day in the Council. Israel will present its case next week, perhaps Thursday, after its delegate, Abba Eban, returns from consultations in Jerusalem.

Israel has filed a cross-complaint charging Jordan with violating their armistice and its cease-fire pledges. Mordecai R. Kidron, deputy Israeli delegate, told the Council, however, there will be peace on the border if Jordan puts an end to attacks on Israel. Kidron said the U. N. Charter does not require Israel to suffer armed attacks upon its territory and population.

Rifa'i urged the Council to take action under Article 41 of the U.N. Charter, the provision dealing with economic and diplomatic measures against any country found guilty of being an aggressor.

He told a reporter later that, on the strength of his conversations with Council members, the outlook was "very promising."

"I can foresee the possibility," he said, "of passing a resolution which will exercise in a more substantial way the authority of the Council."

He said the Israeli raids into Jordan could not be described as border incidents.

Demo Supporters Blasted As Tools Of U. S. Socialism

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 19 — A Mississippi States Rights leader today charged public officials who support the Democratic national party candidates and platform are "tools of the national Socialist Party" masquerading as Democrats.

State Sen. Earl Evans of Canton, chairman of the States Rights steering committee, called upon Gov. J. P. Coleman and Sam Wilhite, Mississippi Democratic Party campaign manager, to explain their support of the Stevenson-Kefauver ticket.

"Mr. Eisenhower should tell the American people the dangers from radio-active fallout instead of covering up the awful consequences."

It marked the first time the junior senator, who is up for re-election Nov. 6, had commented on the proposal of Adlai Stevenson, Democratic nominee for president, that the U. S. take the lead in negotiations leading to a ban on H-bomb tests.

Monroney said Stevenson's proposal specified "that our tests be stopped only if Russia follows suit."

"We would know within 36 hours if a test had been made behind the Iron Curtain," Monroney said.

Monroney discribed the term "irresponsible nonsense" which President Eisenhower applied to Stevenson's idea. Monroney said the Republicans are talking nonsense by opposing the ending of the tests.

Monroney said Secretary of State Dulles by his own admission had led this country "to the brink of war" three times," and the American public wants to replace him with a man who can lead us to the brink of peace."

A. I. Mikoyan and Lazar Kaganovich; Marshal Ivan S. Konev, supreme commander of the Warsaw Pact military organization tying Communist armies to the Soviet army, and Gen. of the Army A. I. Antonov, secretary general of the Warsaw Pact.

The arrival of Khrushchev is said to have angered Gomula. He was described as viewing the Soviet visit as a highly tactless maneuver, coming at a time when the Polish party is under great public pressure to show its independence.

The meeting of the Central Committee is generally expected to have historic import for Poland and the rest of the Eastern bloc. The meeting is expected by most Poles to lead the nation to a more independent place in world affairs.

One was that practically all the Central Committe members had announced they would resign unless Russian troops and all forms of Soviet influence were withdrawn from Poland.

The Central Committee session was adjourned tonight until tomorrow morning without any announcement of its proceedings.

The Polish Workers—Communist—party Central Committee, many of its members in a mood to declare independence from the Soviet party, had just restored Gomulka in triumph to the Central Committee when a long line of cars was seen driving into the city.

The cars drove straight to the meeting, a session which could have a profound impact throughout Eastern Europe and the Communist States now strongly tied to Moscow. Khrushchev is reported to have taken part in the session.

There have been many indications that the Soviet leaders are concerned over the speed of "de-Stalinzation" in Poland, which might carry the country and its party much farther toward independence than the Kremlin intended earlier this year in approving the doctrine of "manys ways to socialism." Communist doctrine holds that socialism must precede the "building of communism."

11. No one will deny that W. D. Fields was a HIT but depending on differing tastes in humor all do not agree he was a WIT.

15. Considering "a man" (i.e. ONE man) in a theatre, his comfort depends to some extent on the HEATING, and upon HIS SEAT. The SEATING means every seat in the theatre and obviously ONE man is not concerned with all this.

16. In true desert, there ISN'T any WOOD, so the chances of finding any would be NIL. There may be FOOD (of a sort) to be found, but the chances would be "very remote."

18. "Transport" is too broad a term for one TRUCK. A blownup TRACK could disorganize a whole transport service.

20. Unassailably true of DIVES. But many people would claim that it just isn't possible to be graceful when JIVING. As for LIVES, while a girl may BE graceful one could not correctly say she LIVES gracefully.

23. Those who BEG are certainly scorned by some people, but nobody really "scorns" a man who BETS, particularly with consistent SUCCESS.

24. He may decide to have a SAFE It is the store, not the manager, that has the SALE. Also, "hold" would be better than "have" for SALE.

1. CARE is a good answer. It is not a feat of DARING to attempt to swim the English Channel, since, normally, every safety precaution is taken.

3. STRIVES, yes, but AN INDIVIDUAL hardly STRIKES, he TAKES PART in a (collective) STRIKE. Also there may be no question of thinking about his family; he may be forced to join the STRIKE regardless of what he thinks.

14. A NOVICE "on the road" (i.e. using the road) or a NOTICE ("IN the road," or "by the roadside."

Marine Training Methods Praised By League Chief

A top-ranking national Marine Corps League official told the local detachment last night that the American people "should not lose sight of the fact that the Marine Corps' realistic-type training may save thousands of lives in any military battles that may lie ahead."

William Derderian, national commandant of the Marine Corps League, in a talk last night to guests of the local Marine Corps League detachment, called for "a strong, well-prepared American defense force in readiness against aggression."

Derderian's talk was the highlight of the occasion, purpose of which was to bid farewell to Master Sergeant George H. Hancock, local Marine Corps recruiter for the past three years, who has received reassignment orders to Okinawa.

On a good-will tour of various League detachments, Marine veteran Derderian told the group how "tremendously impressed" he was with the Monroe detachment.

He said they deserved high commendation for the sponsorship of the playground for mentally retarded children at Bernstein Park. The playground is adjacent to the Marine Corps League Hut, where last night's meeting was held.

"Before the accidental deaths at Parris Island recently, 190,000 able Marines were turned out of that training camp since the last accidental death," he said. He was referring to the much-publicized Ribbon Creek incident in which a Marine drill instructor was court-martialed concerning the drowning of some of his recruits.

"The American people should realize," he explained, "that in the realistic training of our fighting men, it is inevitable that there might be unfortunate accidents."

Derderian will leave today for Tulsa, Okla., and then on to Washington and Philadelphia.

The disaster began when Louis Scheffler, 50, operator of a Skel-Gas service station, began unloading heavy propane gas from a truck into 100-gallon cylinders.

Apparently there was a leaky valve on his truck. The gas began spreading like fog, "hugging the ground, crawling like it was alive," a witness, fireman Gilbert Wallace, said.

An open flame, perhaps a pilot light, in the Robert Keller home, 200 feet from Scheffler's station, set off the first explosion. The chain-reaction raced back to the station and, within seconds, about 50 propane tanks began exploding "like German 88's," Wallace told United Press.

The gas, eight to 10 inches thick along the ground, spread a rug of flames through the neighborhood. The fire caught most of the victims as they sat or played on their front lawns. Five homes were destroyed.

The dead were Fred Williams, 3; his father Oscar Williams, 38; his mother, Violet Williams, 33; 5-year-old Robert Keller, whose house exploded first; Fred Kerley, 62; and his 62-year-old wife, Elizabeth, and Charlotte Jarvis, 11.

Halloween this year will be confronted with a different plan when it comes to "Trick or Treat." Goblins this year will be embued with a desire to needy children all over the globe. The United Nation's International Children's Emergency Fund will take over for this important occasion.

Instead of candies, cookies and cakes for youngsters here who are probably already too well fed up with sweet stuffs, money will be donated, according to Miss Billie Sue Swanson, one of many young persons who will devote time, energies and money to help the less favored. Also drugs are needed to fight diseases of youngsters all over the world, especially in the impoverished far East.

"A ten cent contribution will mean about 60 glasses of milk," it is explained.

"Contributions will be tripled because each country assisted will match UNICEF dollars two to one.

The plan should prove an object lesson for children and young people generally for it will be a means of getting a closer understanding of the needs of others who have a fight for dire necessities of life.

Honor has come to Paul Guy Durbin of Monroe in the award of the J. H. Hearne Memorial Scholarship to Centenary college for the second consecutive time this year.

He is the son of Rev. and Mrs. B. P. Durbin and is a junior religious major at Centenary. He is a member of the Ministerial club, Methodist Student Movement and the junior varsity basketball team.

The scholarship, which carried a valuation of $260 for the year was established by Mrs. J. H. Hearne of Haynesville and is awarded annually to an outstanding ministerial student at Centenary.

A loud roar went up from the jammed courtroom when the jurors announced their decision after only 35 minutes of debate. Some 20 to 25 children who are wards of Vogel's children's home in Florida applauded and cheered wildly when the verdict was announced.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP)—The population of the United States increased nine per cent or approximately 13,606,000 between the last census in 1950 and July 1, 1955, the Census Bureau said today.

The total as of mid-1955 was 164,303,000 compared with 150,-697,361 when the census was taken in 1950.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 19 (AP) — A Power Commission examiner today recommended denial of natural gas rate increases proposed by two idependent producers on sales to United Gas Pipe Line Co., Shreveport, La.

Examiner Daniel J. Kelly held that Crow Drilling Co., Inc., Shreveport, and Gulf Refining Co., Houston, should refund to United Gas the increased rates they have been collecting, subject to refund.

OSLO, Norway, Oct. 19 (AP)—A tremendous explosion brought down the 100-yard-long concrete walls and roof of an underground ammunition workshop at Raufoss today. Five workers were killed and 16 injured.

The blast occurred in one of several bombproof halls tunnelled into a mountain 65 miles north of Oslo where nearly all the ammunition for Norway's armed forces is made. The government-owned plant also makes ammunition for the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

TYLER, Tex., Oct. 19 UP)—A hearing on the state's effort to oust the ational Association for the Advancement of Colored People from Texas ended its fourth week Friday with testimony about Vice President Richard Nixon's membership in the organization.

Roy Wilkins, the NAACP's national secretary, said Nixon could not have an honorary membership because there is no such thing.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Oct. 9 (AP)—Two flying businessmen got a little confused and landed at a livestock yard instead of Phoenix Sky Harbor Airport last night.

The result: One dead cow, one dead pigeon, one demolished plane and two slightly injured flyers.

There were about 35 cows in the vicinity when the plane sailed into the Tovrea Cattle Co. feeding pen, carrying William C. Cunningham, 49, of Vashon, Wash., and Glen Price, 58, of Burton, Wash. Price was the pilot.

Cunningham said they thought the double row of lights running along the sides of the pens marked one of the airport's runways.

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 19 (AP) — President Eisenhower tonight accused Adlai Stevenson of "speaking incredible folly" in saying the military draft is an "incredible waste" of manpower and money.

In a speech prepared for delivery in the Hollywood Bowl, Eisenhower said:

"I do not believe that any political campaign justifies the declaration of a moratorium on common sense.

"We might afford to be tolerant—in an amused way—of the current effort to sell senseless economic panaceas in a political bargain basement."

Benson Cites Dip In Farm Surplus, Rising Of Prices

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., Oct. 19 (AP) —Secretary of Agriculture Benson tonight declared farm prices and income are "on the rise" and surpluses "on the run" despite called "maliciously untrue" statements by the opposition.

In a speech prepared for delivery before the Farmers for Eisenhower organization, Benson reviewed the administration's farm program, which, he said is geared "to freedom and opportunity" for farmers rather than "more regimentation" and "a lack of faith" in famers.

The secretary, listing what he called "some truths which are important," said:

1. "Farm prices have turned the corner, after five long years of decline. They are now six per cent above last December. They are higher than when the President vetoed the political grab-bag of a farm bill put on his desk by the opposition last spring.

2. "Farm income is rising. It is currently running nine per cent—better than a billion dollars—above a year ago.

3. "Surpluses of farm products are on the run. A combination of flexible price supports, massive disposal efforts, and prospects for success with the soil bank have turned the corner on surplus accumulation.

4. "The price of farm land is at an all-time peak—indicating the basic optimism of farm people in the agricultural outlook.

5. "Farm tenancy is at an all-time low. The percentage of farms owned by the families who operate them is an all-time record high."

466,922 Bales Of Surplus Cotton Sold At Orleans

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 19 (AP) — The Commodity Credit Corp. reported today it sold 466,922 bales of surplus cotton for export only on bids opened Oct. 16.

Since the CCC offered its cotton for export sale, 4,633,660 bales have been sold.

Two Explosions Jolt Tanker At Lake Charles

LAKE CHARLES, La., Oct. 19 (AP) — Two explosions jolted the front of the tanker Government Camp today as Cities Service workers prepared to load it with oil. Four men were hospitalized.

The blasts took place on the Calcasieu River at the Cities Service Refining Corp. docks, scene last January of an explosion that destroyed the oil tanker Salem Maritime and killed 21.

No cargo had been loaded on the Government Camp, which arrived today from New York.

Cause of the explosion was not given.

The injured, taken to Lake Charles hospitals, were:

Seaman William Owens, 46, Warwick, Va., first, second and third degree burns of arms and legs.

Seaman Joseph Wallace, 40, Norfolk, Va., fractured ankles and bruises.

Auto Taken For Trial Spin Here, But Not Returned

The granting of a "customer's" request to take an automobile "for a trial spin" is the cause of a local salesman's embarrassment and police official's "auto-theft bulletins."

It happened this way:

A middle - aged "smooth operator" Thursday visited a local used car lot, took a 1955 Ford out for a trial, and hasn't been heard from since.

The salesman said the man drove off at 10:30 a.m., promising to be back at 11:20 a.m., "but he didn't say what day," the salesman lamented.

The car is a two-door Fairlane, 1956 Louisiana license number 436-916, brown and white, with black tires, radio and heater, and brown seat covers.

The man is described as about 50 years old, five feet eight inches tall, 135 pounds, reddish complexion, false teeth, brown pants, and a dark shirt with a sweater underneath.

Utilities Co. case, adding that the Supreme Court could fix rates to be charged or remand the case to the commission to fix rates.

He refused to act on the rate hike request.

Although the commission used a new method in ordering the cut, Herget said any rate fixed "which results in not giving the utility a fair and reasonable return must be held to be arbitrary and confiscatory and therefore illegal.

"Admittedly the utilization of the method evolved by the Public Service Commission does not and will not result in giving the petitioner a rate of return on its investment as provided in the formula announced in the Louisiana Power and Light case."

Hunting Season

droves of hunters had swarmed into the parish and the hunting camps by the time the ordinance was passed. He said the sheriff had agreed to cooperate with the game wardens in notifying hunters of the new law.

East Carroll Sheriff J. W. (Red) Gilbert stated that their parish would be open Friday but that if any fires were started, immediate steps would be taken to close hunting season until the necessary amount of rain falls.

The list of parishes reporting open season include Caldwell, East Carroll, Franklin, Jackson, Lincoln, Union Winn Morehouse, and West Carroll.

Plans By Hoover Commission Seen As Money Saving

"Every man, woman and child in Ouachita parish would save $33 per year if the provisions of the Hoover Commission recommendations were placed in effect," Les Flesner, district manager of the U. S. Chamber of Commerce, told a group of 85 local business leaders at a special luncheon yesterday.

An opportunity to lop off 5½ billion dollars is in the offing if Mr. Average Citizen will rise to the occasion and emand more economy in government without sacrificing efficiency, he said.

"The Hoover Commission reports introduced over seven years ago have produced a combined savings of some $38 billion dollars with less than 10 per cent of the proposals being followed," Flesner added.

The civic leaders were told that if some 18 reports and 314 recommendations offered by the bipartisan Hoover Commission program were put into effect, the following would accrue:

1. A possible eight per cent tax cut in all phases of taxes, or

2. A 15 per cent income tax reduction.

The U. S. Chamber official urged the local leaders to get the facts, spread the word, write the executive branch of the government, and to knock on the local congressman's door for action.

"If you don't take the responsibility of doing something at the local level—then you can expect government spending to increase at the rate of $4 billion annually," Flesner asserted.

The Minden, West Monroe, Ferriday and Bastrop chambers were represented at the meeting, along with the Monroe chamber.

Bonds Between Agriculture And Forestry Shown

BASTROP, Oct. 19 (Special) — The relationship between agriculture and forestry in Northeast Louisiana was the major topic Friday at a luncheon here attended by four members of the U.S. forestry from Washington, D. C.

The nation's leading foresters were guests of the International Paper Company of Bastrop at the Morehouse Country Club, which is set in a grove of pines, one of the chief trees of the south.

J. E. McCaffery, vice-president of the woodland's division of International Paper Co. of Mobile, Ala., discussed the timberlands of the south in a brief speech at the chicken barbecue luncheon.

The stop in Bastrop was the second in a south - side tour of Northeast Louisiana and southeast Arkansas. The group of foresters were guests of The Crossett Company in Ashley county, Ark., Thursday night.

Before leaving Ashley county Friday morning, the men toured the International Paper Company and the U. S. experimental forest station.

The luncheon in Bastrop preceeded a quick swing through Richland, Franklin, Catahoula and Concordia parishes en route to Natchez, Miss.

Hugh L. Redding, forest supervisor for the Kisatchie National Forest at Alexandria, said that the purpose of the trip through northeast Louisiana would be to point out the relationship between agriculture and forestry.

Redding added the group will view the various forestry programs in the south.

"However, we are showing the men the farming and cattle raising going on in northeast Louisiana in addition to forestry programs," he stated.

the one who croaks "Love Me Tender."

He told the judge he pulled into a filling station late Thursday to have the exhaust checked on his $10,000 white Continental Mark II. Naturally, there was soon a crowd around. After the car was fixed, Presley said, Hopper asked him to move on so other customers could be waited on but "three young ladies came up and asked me for an autograph."

He said he was obliging when Hopper slugged him through the window, saying "I don't care if you are Elvis Presley."

Hopper was about the same size but he was giving his foe 21 years in age and Elvis came up with a roundhouse right that landed on Hopper's left eye. The orb was almost closed in court Friday and the surrounding surface swathed in gorgeous autumn colors and band-aids.

Presley accused Hopper of drawing a small knife on him and police who arrived at the station on the run said they saw Hopper with a knife and dragged him away. Hopper, however, denied he threatened Presley with the knife and said the police were holding him when Presley connected.

In fining the two filling station men, Judge Friedman told Presley that he should realize his comings and goings would attract a crowd and "in the future you should take business people into consideration and cooperate with them, too."

Real Estate Boards— numerous panel discussions concerning realtor problems and several festive, social hours have comprised the program.

ABout 30 Shreveport and northwest Louisiana realtors are among the 192 real estate men and their wives from all over the state attending the convention at the Evangeline Hotel.

"I feel that 1956 will be recorded as a better than average year so far as the real estate business is concerned, he said.

Turley struck a note of optimism with the realtors when he said that "This is a profitable time for realtors."

A graduate of the Benton College of Law Turley has been in the real estate business in St. Louis since 1933. He has taught real estate valuation at Washington University.

Turley, who was appointed colonel to the governor's staff, praised the realtors Washington, D. C., committee for keeping the American real estate business a "private enterprise."

He pointed out that in some European countries families are designated housing by their governments.

The build America better program, which was begun five years ago by the national association, also fell in line for praise from Turley.

"It is based upon strict enforcement of minimum housing standards," he said, "conserving of buildings which are physically sound and economically worth saving, the demolishing of structures which are gone beyond repair, and the arresting of blight before it has an opportunity to spread and deteriorate an entire community."

The topic speech Saturday will be "Louisiana's new real estate license law" by J. W. Glover, Department of Occupational Standards, of Baton Rouge.

This was Jordan's day in the Council. Israel will present its case next week, perhaps Thursday, after its delegate, Abba Eban, returns from consultations in Jerusalem.

Israel has filed a cross-complaint charging Jordan with violating their armistice and its cease-fire pledges. Mordecai R. Kidron, deputy Israeli delegate, told the Council, however, there will be peace on the border if Jordan puts an end to attacks on Israel. Kidron said the U. N. Charter does not require Israel to suffer armed attacks upon its territory and population.

Rifa'i urged the Council to take action under Article 41 of the U.N. Charter, the provision dealing with economic and diplomatic measures against any country found guilty of being an aggressor.

He told a reporter later that, on the strength of his conversations with Council members, the outlook was "very promising."

"I can foresee the possibility," he said, "of passing a resolution which will exercise in a more substantial way the authority of the Council."

He said the Israeli raids into Jordan could not be described as border incidents.

Demo Supporters Blasted As Tools Of U. S. Socialism

JACKSON, Miss., Oct. 19 — A Mississippi States Rights leader today charged public officials who support the Democratic national party candidates and platform are "tools of the national Socialist Party" masquerading as Democrats.

State Sen. Earl Evans of Canton, chairman of the States Rights steering committee, called upon Gov. J. P. Coleman and Sam Wilhite, Mississippi Democratic Party campaign manager, to explain their support of the Stevenson-Kefauver ticket.

Evans said Coleman and Wilhite "are supporting a presidential candidate and platform with principles exactly opposite the principles adopted by the Mississippi Democratic convention."

"Mr. Eisenhower should tell the American people the dangers from radio-active fallout instead of covering up the awful consequences."

It marked the first time the junior senator, who is up for re-election Nov. 6, had commented on the proposal of Adlai Stevenson, Democratic nominee for president, that the U. S. take the lead in negotiations leading to a ban on H-bomb tests.

Monroney said Stevenson's proposal specified "that our tests be stopped only if Russia follows suit."

"We would know within 36 hours if a test had been made behind the Iron Curtain," Monroney said.

Monroney spoke in a ballroom across a hall from a hotel room where at the same time 26 Tulsa and Payne county Republican leaders conferred.

Monroney discribed the term "irresponsible nonsense" which President Eisenhower applied to Stevenson's idea. Monroney said the Republicans are talking nonsense by opposing the ending of the tests.

Monroney said Secretary of State Dulles by his own admission had led this country "to the brink of war" three times," and the American public wants to replace him with a man who can lead us to the brink of peace."

occasion will serve as a forum for correcting "misunderstandings, and misrepresentations and presenting factual information on the accomplishments, aims and objectives" of the Democractic party in the Fifth District, the State of Louisiana, the South and the nation.

"Every citizen who is interested in the public welfare will be welcomed at the dinner," Congressman Passman declared. He urged that reservation requests should be made without delay, with requests to be accompanied by check or money-order, payable to "Fifth District Democratic Dinner." The requests should be mailed to Congressman Passman, P. O. Box 1833, Monroe, La.

Funeral arrangements were partially complete last night with services being held Sunday at 2:30 p.m. at the Grace Church of the Nazarene in Oak Grove. The body will lie in state in the chapel at Kidder-Cox Funeral home here.

Survivors include seven sons, Sam H., of Oak Grove; John S., of Baton Rouge; E. M., Utica, Mich; Guy, Shreveport; J. W., of Oak Grove; five daughters, Mrs. W. Colbert, Shreveport; Mrs. Jack Pollard, Santa Cruz, Calif.; Mrs. W. L. Dickinson, Oak Grove; Mrs. J. T. Howard, Reno, Nev.; Mrs. Hazel Byargeon, Baton Rouge; 26 grand-children and 19 great-grand-children.

Khrushchev

A. I. Mikoyan and Lazar Kaganovich; Marshal Ivan S. Konev, supreme commander of the Warsaw Pact military organization tying Communist armies to the Soviet army, and Gen. of the Army A. I. Antonov, secretary general of the Warsaw Pact.

The presence of the Soviet military leaders seemed to indicate military considerations played a part in the surprise visit.

The arrival of Khrushchev is said to have angered Gomula. He was described as viewing the Soviet visit as a highly tactless maneuver, coming at a time when the Polish party is under great public pressure to show its independence.

The meeting of the Central Committee is generally expected to have historic import for Poland and the rest of the Eastern bloc. The meeting is expected by most Poles to lead the nation to a more independent place in world affairs.

One was that practically all the Central Committe members had announced they would resign unless Russian troops and all forms of Soviet influence were withdrawn from Poland.

The Central Committee session was adjourned tonight until tomorrow morning without any announcement of its proceedings.

Neither newspapers nor news broadcasts reported Khrushchev's presence in Warsaw to the Polish people.

The Polish Workers—Communist—party Central Committee, many of its members in a mood to declare independence from the Soviet party, had just restored Gomulka in triumph to the Central Committee when a long line of cars was seen driving into the city.

The cars drove straight to the meeting, a session which could have a profound impact throughout Eastern Europe and the Communist States now strongly tied to Moscow. Khrushchev is reported to have taken part in the session.

There have been many indications that the Soviet leaders are concerned over the speed of "de-Stalinzation" in Poland, which might carry the country and its party much farther toward independence than the Kremlin intended earlier this year in approving the doctrine of "manys ways to socialism." Communist doctrine holds that socialism must precede the "building of communism."

Weekly Crossword

10. NEW is best as many classical tunes are songs that are popular.

11. No one will deny that W. D. Fields was a HIT but depending on differing tastes in humor all do not agree he was a WIT.

15. Considering "a man" (i.e. ONE man) in a theatre, his comfort depends to some extent on the HEATING, and upon HIS SEAT. The SEATING means every seat in the theatre and obviously ONE man is not concerned with all this.

16. In true desert, there ISN'T any WOOD, so the chances of finding any would be NIL. There may be FOOD (of a sort) to be found, but the chances would be "very remote."

18. "Transport" is too broad a term for one TRUCK. A blownup TRACK could disorganize a whole transport service.

20. Unassailably true of DIVES. But many people would claim that it just isn't possible to be graceful when JIVING. As for LIVES, while a girl may BE graceful one could not correctly say she LIVES gracefully.

23. Those who BEG are certainly scorned by some people, but nobody really "scorns" a man who BETS, particularly with consistent SUCCESS.

24. He may decide to have a SAFE It is the store, not the manager, that has the SALE. Also, "hold" would be better than "have" for SALE.

CLUES DOWN:

1. CARE is a good answer. It is not a feat of DARING to attempt to swim the English Channel, since, normally, every safety precaution is taken.

3. STRIVES, yes, but AN INDIVIDUAL hardly STRIKES, he TAKES PART in a (collective) STRIKE. Also there may be no question of thinking about his family; he may be forced to join the STRIKE regardless of what he thinks.

14. A NOVICE "on the road" (i.e. using the road) or a NOTICE ("IN the road," or "by the roadside."

Marine Training Methods Praised By League Chief

A top-ranking national Marine Corps League official told the local detachment last night that the American people "should not lose sight of the fact that the Marine Corps' realistic-type training may save thousands of lives in any military battles that may lie ahead."

William Derderian, national commandant of the Marine Corps League, in a talk last night to guests of the local Marine Corps League detachment, called for "a strong, well-prepared American defense force in readiness against aggression."

Derderian's talk was the highlight of the occasion, purpose of which was to bid farewell to Master Sergeant George H. Hancock, local Marine Corps recruiter for the past three years, who has received reassignment orders to Okinawa.

On a good-will tour of various League detachments, Marine veteran Derderian told the group how "tremendously impressed" he was with the Monroe detachment.

He said they deserved high commendation for the sponsorship of the playground for mentally retarded children at Bernstein Park. The playground is adjacent to the Marine Corps League Hut, where last night's meeting was held.

"Before the accidental deaths at Parris Island recently, 190,000 able Marines were turned out of that training camp since the last accidental death," he said. He was referring to the much-publicized Ribbon Creek incident in which a Marine drill instructor was court-martialed concerning the drowning of some of his recruits.

"The American people should realize," he explained, "that in the realistic training of our fighting men, it is inevitable that there might be unfortunate accidents."

Derderian will leave today for Tulsa, Okla., and then on to Washington and Philadelphia.

Death Toll

The disaster began when Louis Scheffler, 50, operator of a Skel-Gas service station, began unloading heavy propane gas from a truck into 100-gallon cylinders.

Apparently there was a leaky valve on his truck. The gas began spreading like fog, "hugging the ground, crawling like it was alive," a witness, fireman Gilbert Wallace, said.

An open flame, perhaps a pilot light, in the Robert Keller home, 200 feet from Scheffler's station, set off the first explosion. The chain-reaction raced back to the station and, within seconds, about 50 propane tanks began exploding "like German 88's," Wallace told United Press.

The gas, eight to 10 inches thick along the ground, spread a rug of flames through the neighborhood. The fire caught most of the victims as they sat or played on their front lawns. Five homes were destroyed.

Halloween this year will be confronted with a different plan when it comes to "Trick or Treat." Goblins this year will be embued with a desire to needy children all over the globe. The United Nation's International Children's Emergency Fund will take over for this important occasion.

Instead of candies, cookies and cakes for youngsters here who are probably already too well fed up with sweet stuffs, money will be donated, according to Miss Billie Sue Swanson, one of many young persons who will devote time, energies and money to help the less favored. Also drugs are needed to fight diseases of youngsters all over the world, especially in the impoverished far East.

"A ten cent contribution will mean about 60 glasses of milk," it is explained.

"Contributions will be tripled because each country assisted will match UNICEF dollars two to one.

The plan should prove an object lesson for children and young people generally for it will be a means of getting a closer understanding of the needs of others who have a fight for dire necessities of life.

Honor has come to Paul Guy Durbin of Monroe in the award of the J. H. Hearne Memorial Scholarship to Centenary college for the second consecutive time this year.

He is the son of Rev. and Mrs. B. P. Durbin and is a junior religious major at Centenary. He is a member of the Ministerial club, Methodist Student Movement and the junior varsity basketball team.

The scholarship, which carried a valuation of $260 for the year was established by Mrs. J. H. Hearne of Haynesville and is awarded annually to an outstanding ministerial student at Centenary.

LSU Students To Get Practice In Probation Work

BATON ROUGE, Oct. 19 (Special) — Social welfare students at Louisiana State University will gain experience as part-time probation officers under a new cooperative program between the School of Social Welfare and the probation department of the Family Court of East Baton Rouge.

Dr. Earl E. Klein, director of the school, said the probation department of the court has been added to the school's group of instructional centers following a detailed survey of its operations.

Under the new program, a group of four mature and experienced graduate students are to be assigned to the Family Court as part-time probation officers during the academic year. The students will work together with regular staff members of the court two days each week in studying referrals to the court and in supervising children who are placed on probation. Associate Professor Moss Tyler will supervise the work of the students under the administrative direction of the chief probation officer.

"The Family Court is pleased to join in this cooperative effort with the School of Social Welfare. We believe that this training program will be beneficial both to the school and the court. We consider the inauguration of this program a major step in the court's progress," Judge Joe W. Sanders said.

The program is expected to enable the court and the school to keep abreast of new developments in knowledge and in practical experience in the probation field as well as to result in more professionally trained social workers being available for additional staff positions as the program of the court is enlarged.

Professor Hilda Arndt, coordinator of field work for the school, said there is a national shortage of professionally trained social workers despite increasing demand for their services. Each year L. S. U. receives hundreds of requests for graduates to work in family and children's agencies, hospitals, child guidance clinics, rehabilitation centers and in courts, she said.

The probation department of the Family Court works with juveniles and their parents referred to the court because of neglect, dependency, or juvenile delinquency. Probation officers help the child develop a greater capacity for self-direction in a socially acceptable way and counsel parents in giving constructive guidance and consistent discipline to their children. The judge and probation department are assisted by an advisory committee of 20 citizens of the parish.

Dr. Klein commended the staff of the probation department for the quality of service given to the delinquent, dependent and neglected children of the parish.

"The staff's interest in incorporating into their work new knowledge and skills in the field of probation and the gains made in personnal practices and in community relationships with health, welfare and educational agencies are noteworthy," Dr. Klein said.

Building Permits

Harold Grayson, to erect a one-story, four room, frame home at 204 Wilson street at a cost of $3,000.

N. R. Goins, to add floor space to his home at a cost of $300.
